

RUSSIANS DRIVEN BACK BY THE GERMAN ARMY

GEN. VILLA ADVANCING ON CAPITAL OF MEXICO

Pressing Southward at Head of Army Eager to Fight—Villa Expected to Reach Mexico City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Pressing southward at the head of an army eager for fight after months of recuperation, General Pancho Villa will encounter little difficulty in reaching Mexico City, according to the opinion of American agents expressed in dispatches received today by administration officials. Other reports told of the continuation of Villa's triumphant march, Queretaro, where a clash had been forecast, having been abandoned by the Carranza forces. Where they intended to make a stand was not indicated.

Queretaro is the only town of strategic importance between Mexico City and Aguas Calientes and it had been declared in reports from Carranza sources that Villa would have to battle near there the forces of General Obregon and Gonzalez. The city will be used by Villa, it is said, as a concentration center before the advance on Mexico City.

TURKEY SILENT

No Word at Washington
Regarding Firing on Americans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson conferred last night with Secretary Daniels of the navy department and Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department on the situation produced by the firing by the Turkish land forces on the launch of the American cruiser Tennessee at Smyrna, Asia Minor.

The president summoned the two secretaries to learn if there had been any word from Turkey shedding light on the reasons for the firing, but found that neither the cables nor the wireless had yielded a syllable of information. The European war has virtually paralyzed cable communication to Asia Minor, and such messages as have received come by roundabout routes, about five days late.

If there is continued delay it is probable that the American government will ask the British admiralty for the courtesy of its wireless in the Mediterranean to reach the American ships.

The president and his cabinet are assuming that the shots fired at the American launch were merely a friendly warning giving the customary notice that the port was mined and closed. Even if the shots were fired with hostile intent, the Washington government believes that the Ottoman government would render apology promptly for unauthorized acts of subordinate officials.

In no quarter here is the incident or its consequences regarded as serious.

GERMANS ATTEMPT TO CRUSH RUSSIAN ARMY

Lull in the West and Activity in East
Taken by London to Indicate That German Chiefs Have Decided to Concentrate Energies Against Russia

Comparative calm in the west and re-awakened activity in the east are taken by London to indicate that the German military chiefs have decided to concentrate their energies at the present stage of the war toward dealing, if possible, a crushing blow to Russia.

Such fragmentary reports as were received today from the eastern zone of fighting showed that the German army was still pressing the Russians back through Russian Poland, over the same battlefields across which the Russians a few weeks ago were advancing victoriously. Much has been made of the reversal in form of the opposing armies, although it has been reported on several occasions that the Germans were sending thousands of their finest troops from France and Belgium to the east. The Russian war chiefs state that their advance in East Prussia and Galicia continues in spite of their admitted retreat in the center.

German opinion admits of no doubt as to the outcome of the war with Russia. General Von Hindenburg is quoted as saying that Germany and Austria will win, although out-numbered because they have stronger nerves and because their soldiers do their own thinking, while Russian discipline is a "mere blind and dull obedience."

Besides the possible withdrawal of German troops for use against Russia, there is another reason for the lull in the fighting in the west. Cold, wet weather has numbed and exhausted the soldiers so that great physical effort is almost out of the question.

The weather in Belgium is compared with a bleak windy December day on the New England coast. The storm continues and the waters of the North sea flow through the locks at Newport which the allies opened to flood the lowlands and hold back the German advance.

Notwithstanding the extent of the flooded area, the invaders hope to renew their advance. Large numbers of engineers are being sent to the front and German ingenuity is to be put to the test to provide a scientific method of crossing the inundated country.

The outcome of yesterday's naval battle in the Black sea is still unknown. No fresh information was received to reconcile the conflicting claims of Russia and Turkey, each of whom asserted that a hostile battleship had been damaged seriously in the engagement.

LAST NIGHT'S EUROPEAN WAR FEATURES—CRUISER GOEBEN SET ON FIRE

Cruiser Goeben set on fire in battle with Russian fleet in Black Sea, but escapes.

Russian advance guard in Poland forced back halfway to Warsaw. Kaiser's army trying to shift allies out of positions in Flanders and north of France.

French announce Germans who penetrated line toward Paris, at Trarivale, have been driven back. Germans report they have partly closed Libau Harbor by sinking ships.

French attack in Argonne repulsed, says Berlin report. England's war loan of $1,750,000,000 already covered.

British force drive 1500 Turks out of fortified position on Persian Gulf. Spectator at Ypres battle says German spies win from Cross for penetrating enemies' lines, where they cut telephone wires.

United States will probably ask England for courtesy of its wireless to reach American warships. Manchester, N. H., shoe manufacturers receive order for $2,000,000 worth of shoes for the allied armies.

BERLIN REPORTS GREAT VICTORY OVER RUSSIANS

Russians Outnumbered Germans at Tannenberg but Kaiser's Troops Won Notable Victory

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (via London).—"The Russians have numbers on their side, but numbers alone are not the decisive factors. In the present stage of the war less than ever before we are not afraid of Russian numerical superiority. At Tannenberg, the Russians outnumbered us three to one, yet the result was a notable German victory."

These are the views of General Von Hindenburg, now facing the great Russian war machine as expressed in his conversation with the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna.

"The Russians," continued General Von Hindenburg, "are good soldiers and observe discipline but discipline of another sort than that of the Austro-

German, which is based on thinking and the execution of command, while the Russian discipline is a mere blind, dull obedience."

"The Russians have learned much since the Japanese war, particularly in the science of entrenching; but when the ground is frozen they will no longer be able to dig themselves in. Then they will have a bad time of it. That is one of the advantages the winter campaign will bring us."

"It is a sad but good thing that war and sentimentality do not go together. The merciless conduct of war is in the end the most merciful because war is soonest ended thereby. The war with Russia is now chiefly a question of whose nerves will snap first. If Austria and Germany have stronger nerves—and they have them—then they will be victorious."

WOODEN SEWERS Doomed in Hub—Men- ace to Public, Says Mayor Curley

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The old wooden sewers are doomed in the down town section of Boston, and according to a contract approved by Mayor Curley last night, Timothy J. O'Connell, head of the sewer board, will be the first to have an up-to-date sewer system instead of the old wooden one that has been in service probably since Boston was incorporated in 1822.

There are three other sections, each of which will be replaced in the course of the winter. It is estimated that the work will cost about $200,000. The wooden sewers, the mayor said, have always been a menace to public health because of the backing up from time to time, and to safety, because of frequent bursting, with the accompanying filtering through the unyielding masonry of the buildings foundations.

The mayor approved the work of treating the following streets with bituminous macadam: Woodworth street, formerly Wood street, Dorchester, from Walnut street to Coppley's highway, at a cost of $1400; Valley street, East Boston, from Gladstone to Washington street, at a cost of $2900; Norwiche street, Dorchester, from Columbia road to Seaver street, at a cost of $3500; Lowell street, East Boston, from Neptune road to Island street, at a cost of $5600; Lotthrop street, Brighton, from Market to Portsmouth street, at a cost of $2400; Levermore street, from Walnut street to Woods street, at a cost of $1500; and Dane street, West Roxbury, from Orchard street to Holbrook street, at a cost of $4500.

The following appointments of meter readers were approved by the mayor last night, the salary of each to be $30 a year: Bernard H. Norton, Charles B. Burley, Henry C. Murphy, Stephen J. Mills, William J. Sheehan, Michael J. McNamee and Frank A. Roche.

The appointments of Bartholomew Carr and Jeremiah Sullivan as assistant firemen on Deer Island at $100 a year, were also approved by the mayor.

A tunnel to East Boston for the use of tanning and pedestrian traffic was urged by Mayor Curley yesterday in a communication to the Boston transit commission.

The commission estimated the cost of establishing a system of elevators from the base of this tunnel to the street surface, for both tanning and pedestrian use, a scheme which, in his opinion, would eliminate the necessity for long grade approaches to the tunnel.

He informed the commission that if the estimated cost of constructing such a tunnel would not exceed $3,000,000 and 89 CENTRAL BLOCK

ROME, Nov. 20.—A despatch from Rome to the Poincaré Agency states that the lack of foodstuffs is felt throughout Austria. The arrival of the duty on grain which was opposed by the Agrarian party was granted today by the government to be of service as Russia, the only neutral source, could not easily export grain into Austria, has prohibited its export. But little grain, it is stated, is reaching Austria from America and Argentina, because of the Anglo-French blockade.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Major Adolph Messing, at one time minister of war in the French cabinet and who recently was decorated with the Legion of Honor for an act of bravery on the battlefield, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel. The former war minister went to the front at the outbreak of the war as a member of the general staff.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Daily News states that news has been received that the Hamburg American liner, the Batavia, has been sunk in the Persian Gulf. There are no details of how this was accomplished. The Euxine Batavia, a vessel of about 5000 tons, was last reported as having arrived at Bussorah, Asiatic Turkey, early in August.

NO TRACE OF WOMAN

MRS. W. S. SPRINGER BELIEVED
DROWNED—WATER IN MARLBORO POND MAY BE DRAWN OFF

MARLBORO, Nov. 20.—After a hard day's work, the police are no nearer the solution of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Walter S. Springer of 136 Church street, than they were the morning after she disappeared.

Chief William A. Berry and a number of patrolmen have dragged Fort Meadow pond at the point where a woman's footprints were observed, but they found nothing.

The firemen, under direction of Chief Monahan, have explored the country about White's Corner, but have gained no clue.

The search was resumed today, and it is probable that the water of Fort Meadow pond will be drawn off on Saturday.

Marlboro lodge of Elks will join the search on Sunday, if necessary. Every member is expected to be at the Elks Home Sunday morning at 9.30, prepared to join in the search.

Hudson lodge will be asked to cooperate in the search and it is expected that city officials and many citizens will lend assistance.

There is a pronounced feeling that Mrs. Springer has been drowned in the pond, due to the fact that footprints on the shore point toward the water where the ice was found broken, and no footprints going in the other direction have been found.

If the woman was drowned in the pond it must have been after 9.30 a. m. Wednesday, because previous to that time the police had been there and no footprints were seen.

Mrs. George Works telephoned the police, yesterday, from Leominster.

where she lives, that when she was in Clinton Wednesday she saw a woman in a car resembling Mrs. Springer, as described since her disappearance. The woman was going toward Lancaster. The police are investigating along that line.

Chief Berry intended to employ bloodhounds in the search, but a snowfall last evening will render it impracticable.

FIFTH STREET CHURCH

VARIED PROGRAM PRESENTED BY THE YOUNG PEOPLE LAST EVENING

The banquet hall and vestries of the Fifth Street Baptist church were the scene of a most enjoyable occasion last evening when the church members gathered to see and hear the talented artists from Binghamville. Lowell has occasionally enjoyed the antics of a delegation from this center of rural delight, but never before did Binghamville send so many of its best citizens. All who were present were unanimous in declaring that all Binghamville needs is a good press agent to make Paris look like its laundries.

The earlier part of the evening was devoted to a most enjoyable supper under the direction of Mrs. Ben Ingham and Mrs. Robert Hollingsworth. The Wickasauke and Wampanoet Campfire Girls were the waitresses. After supper the large crowd in attendance gathered in the vestry to welcome their Binghamville friends who arrived punctually at 8. They opened the evening entering the church by marching through the rooms headed by the famous Binghamville band, Robert Hollingsworth was the leader, assisted by Bert Howard pianist, and Ben Ingham, Willard Ryan, Frank Taylor, Albert Whitman, Albert Shaw as players. The marching of the entire company and the artistic posing of Willard Ryan were highly entertaining.

The famous Olympic sports had nothing on the Binghamville athletic meet, in which four country boys won over their city rivals. After the meet three rival candidates for municipal office in Binghamville advanced their respective claims. The aspirants to office were: I. Burnette, S. Sweett, Grant Jasper and William Redding. They made the hit of the evening. As a pleasant contrast to the wily politicians were the charming lassies of the Binghamville school, who gave an exhibition before the school committee, in singing, recitations and other accomplishments they reflected credit on their teachers.

Last but not least was the rehearsal of the Binghamville singing school, which was composed of the C. V. A. class, with Willard Ryan as musical director.

The director alone would have made this feature notable, with his costume, mannerisms and humor, but the class upheld the honors of the town. There was a solo by Miss Lily Dyson, a quartet by Mr. Ingle, Miss Dyson, Mrs. Ingle and Mr. Ingham and the singing of "Swanee River" backwards by the class.

The evening closed with selections by the band. Proceeds of the evening were to be made up of the church deficit were close on $100 with some of the Bible school classes yet to be heard from.

OSBORNE ACCEPTS POST

PRISON REFORM ADVOCATE, WHO WAS ONE WEEK A "PRISONER," TO BE WARDEN OF SING SING

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Thomas Mott Osborne, chairman of the commission of prison reform, has accepted the post of warden of Sing Sing prison. The announcement was made last night by the Prison Association of New York, which made public Mr. Osborne's letter of acceptance to John B. Rice, superintendent of prisons. Mr. Osborne in the letter says his duty in giving a definite answer was caused only by doubt as to whether he could best serve the cause of prison reform by a civilian or official position. Mr. Osborne, who is 35 years of age, a man of wealth, became chairman of the commission on prison reform in 1912 and in the fall of that year attracted national attention by publishing a book on the subject and raising a week's voluntary subscription in Auburn prison.

Nearly 2000 have booked passage on the liner and others desirous of going back could not be accommodated. It will be the largest steamer list ever taken from this port.

The saloon list on the other hand will be the smallest carried by the steamer since she entered the Boston service. Up to last night only a dozen first cabin passengers were booked.

MRS. SANTILLI AND CHILDREN TAKEN FROM BURNING BUILDING AT EAST BRIDGEWATER

EAST BRIDGEWATER, Nov. 20.—The two-story building on Union street, belonging to the Mary Stanton estate, was burned yesterday, with the greater portion of its contents. The lower floor was used as a Chinese laundry and the upper part was occupied by Antonio Santilli and family.

Mrs. Santilli and children were taken from the burning building by the firemen. The firemen had a difficult task in keeping the flames from the adjoining property.

The loss is about $1000, partly covered by insurance.

CLARK'S ELECTION SURE

SPEAKER WILL BE REELECTED BY THE INCOMING HOUSE—OLNEY FIRST TO PLEDGE SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Speaker Clark is beginning to receive pledges of support for reelection as presiding head of the house in the next congress. Already 165 out of the 230 old congressmen elected this month have assured him of their votes, and his friends asserted last night that his reelection was a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Clark has been the unanimous nominee of the democrats for the speakership of the 59th, 60th and 61st congresses and has been speaker since the democrats gained control at the beginning of the 62nd congress. The first message of support was from Representative-elect Richard Olney 2d, of Massachusetts.

GREAT LOSS IN MONTANA

Stockmen Look For a Loss of $250,000 From the Cattle Plague Quarantine

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 20.—More than 40,000 sheep and 1000 cattle ready for market, are being held in the quarantine against the foot and mouth disease. It is estimated that more than 50,000 head of sheep and several thousand cattle also are being fattened in neighboring valleys, none of which can be shipped under the present federal quarantine.

Unless this stock can be moved shortly, stock men of this region say they face a loss estimated at $250,000.

"COME DOWN TO EARTH"

Political Reform Organizations Must Also Remove Sign of the "Highbrow," Says Report

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—Political reform organizations must "come down to earth," they must remove "the sign of the 'highbrow' and substitute the dollar mark," which alone apparently, is sufficiently potent to be effective, according to a report to the National Municipal League today by its committee on plan of political organization.

The committee has not completed its work, and the report is described as only an "interim expression." It was prepared by the chairman, A. Lee Well, president of the Volok League of Pittsburgh.

In part the report is as follows: "A plan of political organization which relies for its support upon that class who have reached the elevation where they look down upon selfishness and are moved solely by altruistic considerations, must fail. The number is too limited.

"It will not do for the so-called 'high brow' to inveigh against the complacency of the average citizen. This gets him nowhere. It will not do to assume that all voters are corruptly influenced when they support political action. This presupposes the preponderance of corruption. The trouble is, perhaps, that while the one form of organization follows the natural instincts of man, the other ignores them and relies upon a conception of citizenship as a species only to the idealists, the theorists, the purists and the dreamers. A plan of political organization, to succeed, to secure the following required to win at the polls, must be built upon the main-spring of human action, to wit: self-interest. Your committee believes that it can be demonstrated (except where the contest is purely personal, between men, not measures), that in the campaign for good government, as contrasted with the machine government, the selfish interests of the citizen are at stake. Too much stress is laid upon patriotism, civic pride and the like, and too little upon what the continuance of poor government or institution of good means to the purse.

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEL

Also One of the Best Remedies for Head Colds or Bronchitis.

Be wise in time and use Hyomel at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, constant sniffing, droppings in the throat, or dull headaches. Do not let the disease become deep-seated for it will surely wreck your health, often causing the loss of hearing, and if not checked may result in one of the most dreaded diseases.

Hyomel is nature's true remedy for catarrh—it is the direct method—you breathe it so that the medication goes right to the sore and diseased tissues lining the air passages of the head and throat. Its antiseptic healing must begin at once.

It's no bother to use Hyomel. Simply put a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, that comes with every complete outfit, and breathe it. You will feel better after the first breath of Hyomel. It clears the head and throat like magic; while after a few days' use you will notice all your catarrhal symptoms are disappearing. There is nothing easier, quicker or more satisfying for catarrh than Hyomel which can be had at any drug store. It is not merely a roller, but a sure and lasting benefit—and most economical.

and the person of the individual citizen."

There was much justification, the report continued, in the charge that a large number of those who were found among the reformers, so-called, did not qualify by registration or other legal formality to exercise the rights of citizenship. "The mere voice of civic obligation not being loud enough to call them from their personal pursuits to the performance of their public obligations."

A general awakening was going on, however, and there was an ever increasing number who wanted good government out of purely selfish motives.

As to the financing of such political organizations the report noted the Cleveland plan, and urged that it might be followed by other cities. "In the city of Cleveland the president of a large trust company conceived the plan of getting some of its citizens of wealth to provide in their will for bequests to foundation, devoted to the city's welfare, and a large amount running up into millions, has been already thus incorporated in such wills. The money, of course, will be available only upon the death of the benefactor. Some of these accounts, however, have already become available through death, and in consequence an organization is being effected in that city having for its purpose the general welfare of the city."

The report concluded with the committee's appeal for suggestions as to "How best to show that good government means personal good to the individual.

"How to inform the community that good government is a selfish proposition, not an altruistic dream.

"How to remove from such organizations the sign of the 'high brow' and substitute the 'dollar mark,' which alone, apparently, is sufficiently potent to be effective.

"How to bring such organizations down to earth where they will appeal to inhabitants thereof."

WALSH HARD TO DEFEAT

McCall Likely to Run Again—Says
Walsh Has Made a Very Popular Governor

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The "Jollification" dinner of the Middlesex club, the old republican organization, at the Hotel Somerset last night, teemed with exuberance in the addresses of Senators Lodge and Weeks, ex-Congressman McCall and others. The republican party apparently intends to renominate Mr. McCall for governor. Ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers presided at the banquet.

Senator Lodge held his auditors spell-bound as he recited the victories of the republican party in the recent state elections and prophesied that the democratic party was committing political suicide by its attitude, past and present. The Mexican policy was vigorously denounced.

Mr. McCall received an ovation. He declared that he was entirely satisfied with the result of the state election, "for," he said, "I received votes enough to elect any republican candidate for state office, but I was confronted by an individual through whom I could not make a hole, to use the vernacular of the day."

Referring to Senator Lodge's remarks, Mr. McCall said: "I have no claim on the party and I do not know what my desire will be next year, but my present tendencies are to keep going. I never believed I had the stomach of a quitter. I am inclined to believe, however, that it is not going to be an easy fight next year, despite the enormous republican gains this year."

Mr. Walsh has made a very popular governor; he has made few or grave mistakes and he is going to be a hard man to defeat, but, nevertheless, I believe the republican party is coming into its own."

He said that the three great problems that confront the party are taxation, transportation and administration, and declared that the democratic party is showing little capacity to deal with them. "If our friends who deserted us two years ago will rejoin us, or allow us to rejoin them, we will again have a reunited republican party and if that is so, I believe our triumph is assured and the high tide of prosperity which the nation ever enjoyed under republican rule, will return."

Women, she said, owe a duty to the community in which they live to do something toward the betterment of that community. Men are too busy; they cannot do more than they are doing. Women, on the other hand, are not doing one-half as much as they should. It is the women of leisure who should take up these movements and push them through. SERG. DAVID ROCHE DEAD

SERVED IN ARMIES OF TWO COUNTRIES—VOTED MEDAL BY CONGRESS FOR BRAVERY

WORCESTER, Nov. 20.—Serg. David Roche, one of the few medal or honor veterans of the Civil and Indian wars, who gave 20 years of his life to fighting the battles of the United States, died suddenly from heart failure yesterday at his home at 721 Southbridge street.

During the 75 years of his life Serg. Roche had never been under the care of a physician except for injuries sustained in his service as a soldier.

Serg. Roche was born in Kerry, Ire., and had just completed a term of five years in the British army when he read in an English paper of the outbreak of the Civil war in this country. He immediately set sail for the United States, landing at New York on June 5, 1861. On June 25 he enlisted for service in the 2d United States Infantry Regiment. At the expiration of this enlistment he reenlisted with the fifth corps of the Army of the Potomac. He was wounded by a pistol shot fired by a Confederate officer in his second battle with the Army of the Potomac at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863, receiving an injury which entitled him to an honorable discharge. But he decided to stick and remained in the service through the war.

When hostilities ceased between the north and the south, he remained in the regular army and went west as an Indian fighter. He saw service in Montana, Dakota and Texas, his last assignment being in the company, 1st United States Infantry, at Fort Davis, Tex. While serving his term of enlistment, he was thrown from a horse and received injuries that won him an honorable discharge on July 2, 1881, the day that President James A. Garfield was shot.

Serg. Roche received his bronze medal of honor for an especially brave deed on the field of battle while fighting Indians at Wolf mountain in Montana on Jan. 8, 1877. The medal was voted to him by congress and was pinned to his breast in the presence of his regiment by Gen. William T. Sherman.

It was a few months after the Custer massacre and Gen. Nelson A. Miles volunteered to lead a column into Montana. There were 14 companies in Gen. Miles' command and they quickly dispersed the Indians under Sitting Bull and went after Crazy Horse, another noted Sioux Indian. A detachment of the United States troops was surrounded by the Indians at Wolf mountain and the others were hurried to their relief, when Serg. Roche called the attention of Gen. Miles to the value of a knoll as a position for the soldiers, and he was ordered to occupy it with a squad of soldiers. They reached the knoll after considerable difficulty, and then their ammunition nearly became exhausted. Gen. Miles sent a box of cartridges to them, but the messenger left it at the foot of the knoll.

Serg. Roche, recognizing the absolute need of more ammunition for his comrades, ran down the hill armed only with a screwdriver. He used this to open the box, which was too heavy for him to carry up the hill, and coolly filling his pockets with all the cartridges they would hold, he returned to his comrades with the powder and bullets that saved them from being wiped out, although he was the target of hundreds of bullets fired at him in his exposed position by the Indians. This brave act was reported to his superiors and congress voted him the medal of honor.

A new cast of the medal was sent to him from congress on June 19, 1908. At the close of his service in the regular army, Serg. Roche came to Worcester and procured work in the wire mills, where he was employed until placed on the pension list. For many years he had served as janitor at St. Matthew's Episcopal church.

POLICE WOMEN

Their Employment is Favored for Special Police Duties

Policewomen for special police work in the city of Lowell was recommended at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the city hall at which ten women's organizations and 19 churches were represented. Mrs. Kate Walter Barrett of Alexandria, Va., addressed the meeting and waxed eloquent on the question of policewomen. She favors them rather than chaplains because a police woman can be a good chaperon for the dance halls as any other, and can do many things besides. Mrs. Barrett went on record as disapproving of commercialized amusements for young people. These amusements, she said, should be a part of our civic system.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Florence Crittenton association. Problems affecting the welfare of the young men and women of the city were discussed, and it became the sense of the meeting that the delegates report back to their organizations with a view to getting them to bring pressure to bear upon the city fathers to have policewomen appointed. Among those present at the afternoon conference were the following: Mrs. Alvah Sturges, chairman of the department of civic, Middlesex Women's club; Mrs. F. E. Dunbar of the Humane society; Mrs. E. W. Clark, representing the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. E. W. Trull of the College club; Mrs. Frederick A. Flather, and others of the Florence Crittenton association; Miss Horace Boulet of the Y. W. C. A. Other organizations represented were the Educational club, the Sam Walter Foss Library club, the Women's Research club, the Lowell General Hospital Aid association, and 19 churches.

At the close of the conference, Mrs. F. A. Flather served tea and the delegates were given the opportunity to meet Mrs. Barrett personally.

The Evening Meeting
The evening meeting was open to the public and was well attended despite the very unfavorable condition of the weather. Rev. Appleton Granits presided and he expressed himself as in favor of the appointment of policewomen; thought we needed more prevention to work and less rescue work; that the need here in Lowell is not so much to establish rescue homes, but to establish conditions that will obviate the necessity of such homes.

In her talk on policewomen, Mrs. Barrett said there are innumerable things done by policeman every day that could be better done by women. For example: The conducting of women prisoners to jail and from the jail to the court should be done by women. A girl arrested on the street should be escorted by a woman, and also, women arrested on warrants. Already, the bureau of immigration is employing women to examine girls and women who are to be deported. If that sort of thing is thought by the United States government to be necessary, why is it not necessary in our courts? Policewomen, she said, are not expected to make many arrests. Their work is preventive. They are put on the

GERMAN GENERAL DEAD

VON VOIGTS—RHETZ, QUARTERMASTER GENERAL OF GERMANY, DIED FROM HEART FAILURE

BRUGES, Nov. 20.—The official announcement of the sudden death from heart failure of Major General Von Voigts-Rhetz, quartermaster general of the German army, recalls the fact that he succeeded General Von Stein in his post only a short time ago. His appointment caused at the time the erroneous statement to be circulated in Holland that General Von Voigts-Rhetz had been chosen as the eventual successor of General Van Moltke as chief of the general staff.

RUSSIAN SEA VICTORY

OFFICIAL REPORT FROM PETROGRAD TELLS OF NAVAL BATTLE IN BLACK SEA

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The following official statement was given out yesterday by the Russian ministry of marine regarding the naval battle in the Black sea between the Turkish and Russian fleets:

"On Nov. 18 a division of the Black sea fleet, returning from its cruise to Sebastopol, near the coast of Anatolia, sighted, 25 miles from the Bosphorus light, a Turkish detachment consisting of the Goeben and the Breslau. The Russian fleet immediately drew up in battle order, bringing the enemy to starboard, and opened fire at a distance of 40 cable lengths (about five miles). The first salvo of 12-inch guns from the flagship Admiral Evstafyev struck the Goeben and caused an explosion amidships, setting her on fire. Following the Evstafyev the other Russian ships opened fire, the Russian guns giving an excellent account of themselves.

"A series of explosions were seen in the hull of the Goeben, which opened the slowly. The enemy seemed not to have expected to meet us. The Germans fired salvoes of their heavy guns, directing them exclusively at the flagship. The encounter continued for 14 minutes, after which the Goeben withdrew and disappeared in the fog, taking advantage of her speed.

"The Breslau took no part in the fight, holding herself on the horizon. The Evstafyev suffered only insignificant damage. The Russian losses were a lieutenant, three ensigns and 29 sailors killed, a lieutenant and 19 sailors killed and five sailors slightly wounded."

SWEDISH CHURCH EVENT

FAREWELL RECEPTION TENDERED REV. MR. HAMMARLOF—PRESENTED PURSE

The people of the Swedish Lutheran church showed their regard for their departing pastor, Rev. Sven F. Hammarlof, in a very substantial manner last evening by presenting him a substantial purse of money. Mrs. Hammarlof was also remembered by the various ladies' organizations of the church, which presented her several beautiful and useful gifts.

The popular pastor will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday evening next, before departing for Jersey City, N. J., to take up the pastorate of a thriving church in that city. He was called as pastor to this city in September, 1909, and while here has made a host of friends by his devotion to duty and pleasing personality. He was born in Sweden and graduated from a seminary in New Jersey and from the Augustana Theological school, Rock Island, Ill. He was married only two weeks when he took up his duties in Lowell.

Last evening was the second evening of the fare under the auspices of

SULLIVAN CASE

Grand Jury Ends Investigation at Houlton—More Arrests Expected

HOULTON, Me., Nov. 20.—The Grand Jury, investigating the death of Mildred Sullivan, has completed its labors, and the report that a prominent local man is connected with the case has been much strengthened.

Contrary to the plans of the prosecuting officer, who expected to have several more witnesses go before the grand jury tomorrow, it was decided late yesterday that enough testimony had been given the grand jury.

Whether Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, accused of the murder of Mildred Sullivan, will be indicted on this charge or manslaughter is known only to the grand jurors. Nothing will be given out until a partial report is made to the court when it opens. Just when this will be is uncertain. Some time next week seems to be the general opinion of those who are in a position to know.

The last witness to go before the grand jury was Kate Michael, the Wallagrass nurse, whose confession to the county authorities was responsible for finding the body of Mildred Sullivan.

She entered the jury room shortly after 3 this afternoon and it was nearly 6 before she came out. That more arrests will be made in the case seems probable.

"We will fight to the bitter end, no matter how strong public sentiment is against us," said Ransford W. Shaw, chief counsel for Dr. Dudley and Alko and Perley Pelletier, held as accessories.

The Cambridge girl, Ruth Devenney, was a witness yesterday.

"My God! I have killed her!" are the words said to have been uttered by Dr. Dudley, on the night Mildred Sullivan was operated upon at his office, according to Kate Michael's confession to County Attorney Archibald.

GEO. H. BACHELDER
POST OFFICE SQUARE

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

In my last, I mentioned the mayoralty and aldermanic tickets of a quarter of a century ago. In those days there was also a common council of 24 members, four from each of the six wards, the president of which was quite a power as he was a member of the school board ex-officio and had the appointment of the councilmanic committees, in days when the committees were also powers. For instance, there was an annual battle for a place on the committee on streets, for the members of that committee practically placed all the men who worked on the street department. All work was laid out and all appropriations estimated by the committees and then the superintendents of the different departments, naturally kept in good favor with the members of their respective committees. The caucus contests for common council were always held only for practically every ward they were aided in the caucuses.

The candidates of 25 years ago were as follows:

Democratic Nominees

Under the headlines, "Completion of Our Ticket," the old Sun has the following:

"Thursday night the democrats of the city met in the ward rooms to nominate candidates for the common council and the school board. Everything passed off smoothly and the nominations were made in fairness to all."

"In wards two and five there was a sort of disposition to endorse the republican candidates for the school board but the majority of the voters fastened upon straight nominations and they were made straight."

The caucus in ward three exposed the fact that there were no files on Councilman Sparks who will be sent once more to the common council. Editor Houston of the Times was nominated for the school board in ward four and for the council in ward two. He will decline the former nomination, as he is not a voter in ward four. Ward three took all night to count the ballots, the count not being completed until 7:30 this morning. The counters were paid for their trouble out of purse made up by the candidates.

The nominations are as follows:

Ward 1. For council, last year's council, re-nominated by acclamation, as follows: Councilmen: Joseph H. Cullen, Daniel J. Courtney, Patrick J. Savage and William J. Johnson. Lawrence Cummings re-nominated for the school board.

Ward 2. Common council: Alexander W. Houghton, John E. Radcliffe, W. J. Joddy and William H. MacKenzie. Dr. Andrew J. Halpin for the school board.

Ward 3. Common council, Thomas J. Sparks, Patrick H. Brosnahan, Charles L. Marren, Robert C. Gallagher, George Hartigan was re-nominated by acclamation for the school board. This was the largest caucus ever held in any ward in Lowell.

Ward 4. For council: George W. Lang, Phillip Ginty, Thomas G. Little and Philip S. Carey. For school board, A. C. Houghton.

Ward 5. For council, James W. Cassidy, Thomas J. McLaughlin, Henry J. Draper and Charles F. White, William V. Meade for the school board.

Ward 6. For council, James Gookin, Daniel D. Driscoll, George H. Brown (not the one), and Thomas J. Lyons. Dr. Hugh W. Water was nominated for the school board by acclamation.

Republican Nominees

Concerning the republican nomination the old Sun had the following:

"Thursday evening the republicans held caucuses for the purpose of selecting a city committee and nominating candidates for the common council and the school board. Everything passed off smoothly and business was transacted in short order."

The nominations for the common council and the school board were as follows:

Ward 1. For council, Samuel H. Clark, Homer B. Nay, Amos B. Filling, Thomas Don. For school board, William D. Brown.

Ward 2. For council, Arthur H. Oliver, Newell Abare, W. C. Coburn, J. Stuart Murphy. For school board, Greenleaf C. Hreck.

Ward 3. For council, Ambrose Hindle, Joseph H. Ashworth, Charles A. Rock, Charles D. Hoffe. For school board, John Monson.

Ward 4. The present councilmanic delegation was re-nominated: B. F. Hale, Edwards Cheney, A. G. Walsh, Frank Gray. For school board, Rev. R. A. Greene.

Ward 5. For council, Orford J. Blood, Henry W. Ladd, (re-nominated), Louis P. Throckmole, Herbert M. Jacobs, Walter Chubb was re-nominated by acclamation for the school board.

Ward 6. For council, Albert Crow, E. F. G. Hobbs, Benjamin Rawcliffe, Edward E. Spaulding. For school board, Clarence F. Burnham.

J. L. Chaffoux's Overture

If I were a stockholder in the J. L. Chaffoux company, which unfortunately I am not, I have the papers filled with "ads" today announcing a grand "silver jubilee sale" for tomorrow, for 25 years ago tomorrow the late J. L. Chaffoux opened his establishment in the Central building and presented to the public what was then considered one of the finest stores of its kind in New England. The old Sun in "writing up" the opening presented a screed out of the new Central building which in those days was a most imposing edifice and had the following:

"Thursday evening (Nov. 21), J. L. Chaffoux, a Scotch merchant and a white-awake merchant and the whole city looked on and wondered at the enterprise of the man. Almost the whole floor space of the new Central block, 20,000 square feet in all, is now devoted to his business. Mr. Chaffoux needs no introduction to the public of Lowell. He has been here since 1865, and during his residence he has established himself as the head and brains of a gigantic business. He came here a poor young man and today he is one of the business kings of northern Massachusetts. Business enterprise, honest dealing and a perfect knowledge of his business has made his success. He is also an important factor in the business life of Manchester, N. H., controlling as he does, in that city one of the largest clothing establishments."

Working as a clerk in a clothing store, he laid aside every cent he could until he had acquired a business capital of $7000. He opened in 1875 a modest establishment, a few doors west of the present Sun building. Here he laid the foundation for the enormous business which he now controls. Three times he has been obliged to move into larger quarters and his latest "move" is the subject of this sketch. For the past six years he has been located in the Shattuck building, occupying two floors and a basement. For a long time he has been cramped for store space. The completion of the great Central block, the most imposing business building in the city, furnishes the desired space. Arrangements for a house were made and Mr. Chaffoux has transferred his business to the Central block."

The Sun then described the new establishment in detail, together with the scene on opening day and also had the following:

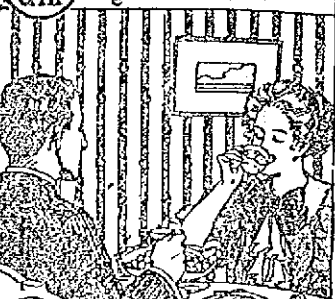

"The following notice to employees has been a prominent feature in Mr. Chaffoux's establishment for years and every clerk is expected to know it 'by heart' and to live up to its provisions:

"For the golden rule govern all your transactions with customers and visitors to this store. Do unto others as you would have others do unto you. Do not recommend any article of merchandise that you cannot conscientiously say is honest merchandise and fully worth the price asked for it. If mistakes occur, always rectify them immediately and to the satisfaction of your customer, and always treat your customers as personal friends and never give cause for dissatisfaction with your goods or in any other way."

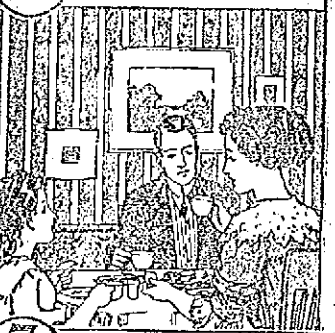

Mr. Chaffoux has since passed away, leaving behind him a business of far greater magnitude than that described by The Sun of a quarter of a century ago; and a son who has shown his ability to continue the fine reputation established by his respected father as a progressive and honest business man.

NO. CHELMSFORD NEWS

Town Politics Stirring—The Jobs Sought—Coming Social Events—Street Lighting—Boy Scouts

Town politics is the main subject for discussion among the men at the present time in the town of North Chelmsford, and although no one has come out and openly declared his intention of aspiring to the offices within the gift of the people of the town, quite a number are said to be around sounding the sentiment of the voters as to their respective candidacies. It is a well known fact that the present selectman, D. Frank Small, who has done much for the town during his administration, will not be a candidate again under any consideration. Mr. John Mariné, one of the most prominent citizens, and a merchant in the town has been approached by quite a number of voters and asked to be a candidate, but he remains non-committal, and all he has said to date in answer to the many queries is, "Gentlemen, I have troubles of my own."

Regular Officer for the Town

The general consensus of opinion of the townspeople seems to be that the town should supply a regular officer and do away with the present system of employing two special officers. This they claim would result in the suppression of the many breaks that have been committed during the past and present seasons. This question is quite sure to be agitated at the coming election, owing to the number of breaks committed in the town during the past few months. The men now doing duty as special officers have performed splendid work, in some instances, but their authority is limited, and having other duties to perform, they cannot always be found when wanted. Mr. George Sheppard announces his candidacy for this position, and in a talk with the writer he stated that he was out to work hard for the position. Mr. Sheppard said that much good could be accomplished by a regular officer stationed in the town and that the appointment of one would fill a long felt want.

Assessor's Job

At the coming election the voters will also be called upon to elect an assessor. Mr. James Dunnigan is the present incumbent, and during his stay in office he has filled the position in an admirable manner. He has been mainly instrumental in giving to the people of the town a reduction in the tax rate, which at the present time is only $15 per thousand. It is not known whether Mr. Dunnigan will allow his name to go on the ballot as a candidate for re-election. Several names are mentioned, but as yet, no official announcement has been made by any of them.

Annexation to Lowell

Talk of annexing North Chelmsford to the city of Lowell has been brought up and many people of the town, realizing the benefits to be derived in increased fire protection, police protection, new schools and other equally splendid improvements, look with decided favor on the idea. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the sentiment on this question seems to be well divided.

On the other hand those favoring annexation say that in case of fire, a gang of men would not have to rush from their work, run for a horse, drive the horse to the bottom of a hill, hitch up to an antiquated horse wagon and proceed to a fire, with the chances 99 to 100 that the horse will be burned before their arrival. The town has been particularly fortunate in the past in not having any serious fires, but such a catastrophe is liable to break out at any moment. They also state that with proper police protection, such would be afforded with annexation, the town would be rid of the sensational breaks that have been perpetrated in the past few years.

St. John's Character Party

Next Wednesday evening, which, lest you forget is Thanksgiving eve, the parishioners of St. John's parish, attired in their best will assemble in the town hall and participate in the second annual character party and bazaar dance, and indications point to its being a highly successful and enjoyable affair. The affair is in direct charge of Rev. E. C. Mitchell, who has a faithful corps of young ladies and young men of the parish as assistants, and each and everyone of them is striving to make the party the leading event in the social season of the town. A stellar entertainment will precede the dancing and this in itself gives promise of being a long looked for treat. Dainty awards will be presented the first three ladies and gentlemen wearing the most attractive costumes, after which general dancing will be indulged in until after midnight.

Street Lighting

North Chelmsford has come to the front in the past few years in the matter of street lighting and today the streets of the town are exceptionally well lighted. This is a fitting tribute to the men who have directed the public affairs of the town for the past few years. At night North Chelmsford presents a beautiful picture with its street lights conveniently situated at given points; it can safely be stated that there isn't a dark spot in the residential center. There are still some of the old fashioned lamps in use, but modern lights will in a short time be substituted for these.

Attempted Burglary

Another burglary was attempted last Friday evening, when some unknown man tried to gain entrance into the drug store situated directly opposite the Special Officer Mariné's store. The man was frightened away by a young man who was standing at the entrance of the constable's place of business, and although Mr. Mariné and others proceeded on his trail, no trace could be found of him. Mr. Mariné informed the writer today that the season for breaks is just about to start, and that this year he will wage an active campaign against the thieves. Last year entrance was gained into his store on about six occasions and as a result he lost about $100 in money, not to speak of the cigars and tobacco stolen.

Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts are preparing for an active winter, and rehearsals for their coming minstrel show will be held within a short time. Under the direction of Mr. James Kibberd, this group of boys has developed into the largest troop in the state, and shows signs of continuing in the lead. A week or so ago the Boy Scouts did valiant work in suppressing a fire that raged in one of the wooded sections of the town, and although no mention has thus far been made of the fact, they are to be highly complimented on their quick response to the call, and their knowledge of fire fighting.

WAR MARRIAGES

5793 Marriages in Berlin, Germany in One Month

(The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—"War marriages" will materially increase the number of marriages for Berlin this year. When the war broke out many officers and in some cases privates of the reserve and landwehr decided to marry on the eve of their departure for the front. As a result of this, August, 1914, shows a total of marriages for Berlin of 5793 as against 1303 for the same month of last year. In the mobilization week, August 2-8, 3241 marriage contracts were made, of which the largest number was due to the outbreak of the war. The first seven months of 1914 showed 14,620 marriages as against 11,620 in 1913.

It is believed here that the number of marriages in Berlin due to the war is not far below 4500. Some of them had been planned for the autumn and winter seasons, and it is expected that for this reason the average for these months will fall below normal. This has already been demonstrated by the records for September, in which month 1570 marriages took place as against 1332 in September, 1913. For 1914, up to and including September, the number of marriages is 18,436 as against 14,721 for the same period of 1913.

The outbreak of the war has also materially influenced for the better the legitimization of children born out of wedlock. In nearly all cases this was done by the father of the child marrying its mother. While in August, 1913, only 168 children were legitimized, their number in August, 1914, was 1045, of which number all but five were given a proper status before the law by marriage. In the first seven months of 1914 only 1409 children were legitimized as against 1422 for the same period in 1913.

HURTLER PANAMA CANAL WORK

PANAMA, Nov. 20.—A hurry-up order has been issued by Governor Goethals for the completion of the canal. The time limit set by congress is July, 1915, and Colonel Goethals is determined that the last of the finishing touches in every department from dredging to landscape gardening shall be completed ahead rather than behind time. Colonel Goethals himself is setting a pace, and may be seen often at work in the canal administration building at Balboa late at night.

Men and machines now on the isthmus are said to be working harder than at any time since the great work was started ten years ago. Every morning Colonel Goethals appears at some part of the work where he has not been for several days previously, to hurry things along. There is the case of the steam shovels delving into the side of Sosa Hill for the rock that goes to form the east breakwater in front of Colon harbor. On each one is a huge placard which shows the number of cars loaded as the work progresses. For every job a mark has been set, to be surpassed if possible. On Sosa Hill the man who has charge of loading the cars that take the rock 50 miles across the isthmus to the new breakwater is working against the man in charge of transporting those same cars those 50 miles, while the man who unloads them out at the end of the 2-mile trip is rushing things so that he will always be just a little ahead of the other two. At present there are 200 to 250 cars of rock sent him every working day.

FOR SPOT CASH

I Buy 800 Yards of Sherriffs Worsteds

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF THIS SALE

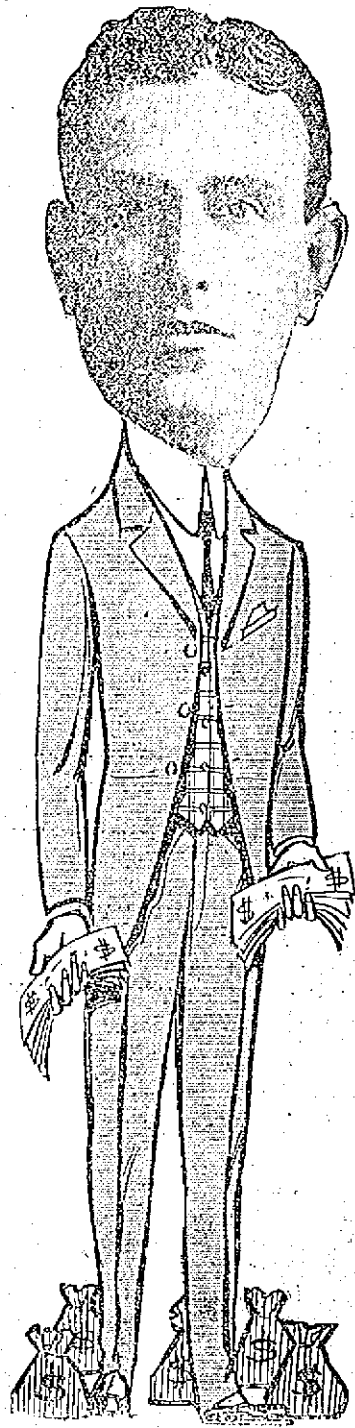

In last Friday's issue of The Sun I advertised the purchase from a Boston commission house of several hundred yards of Sherriffs Worsteds of Fitchburg, Mass., the finest worsteds made in New England. I advertised them made to order any style for $15. I thought this announcement of Sherriffs cloths at that price would create a sensation. Whether the approaching holiday made people feel poor, or general business conditions was the depressing cause, I only know that the greatest trade ever offered in Lowell for many and many a day only brought ordinary business. I offered them last Friday for $15 to order,

I offer the balance to close, today and Saturday, Suit or Overcoat, made to order, any style, for $12.50

The cloth woven by the Sherriff mill of Fitchburg is sold monthly to the high priced tailors—I mean the $25 and $35 tailors, and I state positively that the quality and style of these woollens would warrant such prices. The goods range from $2.50 to $3.50 per yard, and are all worsted fabrics of elegant quality. As a matter of fact, when I bought these goods, I already had an enormous stock in my store. I was tempted by the high class merchandise. My cash offer was accepted, and so added to my already overheavy stock. Another tailor would dispose of these goods slowly and get perhaps regular prices for them. This is not my business policy, however. I bought them ridiculously cheap and I will sell them on the same basis for quick disposal.

I have about five hundred yards of this stock left. Today and Saturday every yard must be sold and my price will be for

Cider Mills Can Make Clear Table Syrup From Perishable Apple Juice—Process Described

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Following extensive experiments begun last spring, the head of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the department of agriculture has applied for a public service patent covering the making of a new form of table syrup from apple juice. This patent will make the discovery, which the specialists believe will be of great value to all apple growers as a means of utilizing their culls and excess apples, common property of any cider mill in the United States which wishes to manufacture and sell apple cider.

The new syrup, one gallon of which is made from seven gallons of ordinary cider, is a clear ruby or amaranth colored syrup of about the consistency of cane syrup and maple syrup. Properly sterilized and put in sealed tins or bottles, it will keep indefinitely, and when opened, will keep under household conditions as well as other syrups. It has a distinct fruity aroma and special flavor of its own which is described as being practically the same as the taste of the baked apple.

The syrup can be used like maple or other syrups for griddle cakes, cereals, household cooking, and as flavoring in desserts. The government cooking experts are at present experimenting with it in cookery and expect shortly to issue recipes for use of the new syrup in old ways and for taking advantage of its special flavor in novel dishes.

The department chemists have already produced over ten gallons of this syrup in their laboratories, using summer and other forms of apples. The success of the experiment has greatly interested some of the apple growers, and during November a large cider mill in the Hood River valley, Oregon, will in co-operation with the government chemists, endeavor to produce 1000 gallons on a commercial scale and give the new product a thorough market test by making it accessible through retailers in a limited field. The interests of apple growers in the product arises from the fact that the new apple cider syrup promises to give them a commercial outlet for vast quantities of waste fall and other apples for which the hitherto could find no market either in perishable raw cider or in vinegar. Cider production, it seems, comes largely at one season of the year during which the market is more or less flooded with this perishable product. The bulk and perishability of the raw cider, moreover, the cider makers state, often make it unprofitable for them to ship the raw cider of one distant long distance to a non-apple-growing region. The market for cider, therefore, has been largely restricted in many cases to localities near the area of production. No method of sterilizing ordinary cider has been found practical for the reason that boiling cider at once interferes with its delicate flavor.

With the cider mill able to make a palatable, long-keeping table syrup out of its apple juice, growers, it is believed, will be able to use all excess juice for bottled or canned apple syrup. The new syrup, the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually throughout the year.

The process for making the syrup calls for the addition to a cider mill of a filter press and open kettles or some other concentrating apparatus. The process is described as follows: The raw cider is treated with pure milk of lime until nearly, but not quite, all of the natural malic acids are neutralized. The cider is then heated to boiling and filtered through a filter press, an essential feature of the process. The resultant liquid is then evaporated either in continuous evaporators or open kettles, just as ordinary cane or sorghum syrup is treated. It then is cooled and allowed to stand for a short time, which causes the lime and acids to form small crystals of calcium malate. The syrup is then re-filtered through the filter press, which removes the crystals of calcium malate and leaves a syrup with practically the same basic composition as ordinary cane syrup. Its flavor, however, and appearance are distinctive.

Calcium malate, the by-product, is a substance used in medicine and at present selling for $2 per pound. It is believed that if calcium malate can be produced in this way cheaply and in large quantities, it can be made commercially useful in new ways, possibly in the manufacture of baking powder.

The cost of making this syrup on a commercial scale will be determined during the test.

"HOWDY, PAP?" TO MOOSE

Here follows the Chicago Herald's account of the entertainment of the Moose in that city on the day preceding the opening of the supreme convention at Mooseheart.

Chicago shouted "Howdy, Pap!" to 20,000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose who paraded the Loop district. The Moose came in herds from all parts of the country, on their way to the national convention at Milwaukee. They carried long enough to shout their fraternal greeting and to place the antlers of Moosedom on the heads of 2000 candidates, the largest class the order has initiated. For more than an hour the companies of red and white uniformed men paraded to the music of a dozen bands. It was one of the largest fraternal parades in several years. Behind them marched the "white banner" infantry under the leadership of Hartley L. Replogle, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the two days' celebration here and the convention in Milwaukee. Many gorgeously decorated floats appeared in the parade. The largest bore three stuffed moose, which appeared lifelike as they swayed with the motion of the automobile. Reno, Nev., Los Angeles, Cal., and Sharon, Pa., were represented by several decorated floats, filled with enthusiastic members. Many of Chicago's best known citizens were in the herd of 3000 candidates initiated in the evening at the Auditorium theatre. The majority of them, however, did not personally experience the sensations of "riding the moose." There were three "model" candidates, who were instructed in the ritual work by the crack Englewood source team. They were Lieut. Gov. O'Hara, Mobil McCormick and Judge Henry C. Bettler.

After the initiation Gov. Dunne and the supreme officers of the order spoke and were hailed with cheers and the familiar, "Howdy, Pap?" James J. Davis, father of the lodge, explained to the cheering throng that the word for the greeting phrase is not a word for the first three letters of purity, and progress. These are the watchwords of the order.

Thanksgiving Offering

From The Chalifoux Corner Store

25 years ago tomorrow the Chalifoux store made its third move to larger quarters at the corner of Central and Middle streets, occupying three stores in one, comprising 20,000 feet of floor space. At that time that was considered a wonderful store and had made rapid progress in the 14 years prior to 1889. It can plainly be seen today that the Chalifoux store did not stop at that move but has been steadily growing with the times and still has that reputation it had 25 years ago. "THE GRANDEST STORE IN THIS SECTION." Obtained and held by serving the public with the best values possible to obtain.

IMMIGRATION TO SOUTH

Meeting at Washington to Interest European Immigration in Southern States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, issued a call today for state and local officials, representatives of the press, commercial and civic organizations, railroad officials, bankers, and real estate and business men of the south, to meet in Washington on Saturday, Dec. 12, to consider and devise methods of interesting and locating agricultural immigrants in the southern states. The call is issued by the Southern Commercial Congress, with the approval of Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, at the instance of leading business men throughout the south to discuss the

Best Laxative

For Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood.

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington, St. Monticello, Ill.

advisability of undertaking efforts for placing the agriculturally inclined immigrants now out of employment in our industrial communities on southern farms, and to plan methods of caring for the needs of foreigners that will probably come to this country at the close of the European conflict.

Secretary Wilson will deliver the opening address at the conference. The Southern Commercial congress will have the co-operation of the department of labor in this work, and Mr. T. V. Powderly, chief of the division of information of the bureau of immigration, has been designated to actively assist in arranging for the meeting.

The conference is called, it is stated, to determine a southern immigration policy, and to work out a practical plan by which the south can take advantage of existing opportunities. There are thousands of immigrant families in our industrial communities, either out of work or on short time, that have been working and saving for years in order to be able to return to Europe and purchase agricultural homes, who are now prevented from leaving this country. Many of these people no longer desire to return abroad in view of the economic burden which the war has placed on the countries of Europe, and large groups can be placed on southern farms if the proper efforts are made to secure them.

Large numbers of European immigrants, many of whom will be practically destitute, will come to the United States at the close of hostilities in Europe and must be cared for. The advisability of attempting to utilize this class of people on the farm lands of the south will also be considered. Preparations are being made to have representatives of the foreign press in this country and officials of the more important of the immigrant societies to attend the conference. In addition to Secretary Wilson, other high officials of the federal government will also be in attendance.

MEMORIAL TO HERO

GOV. WALSH TO UNVEIL MONUMENT TO WALTER L. WATSON, KILLED AT VERA CRUZ

EASTHAM, Nov. 20.—A monument in Evergreen cemetery, erected by shipmates and Cape Cod friends to the memory of Walter L. Watson, a seaman on the battleship Arkansas, who was killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz last April, will be unveiled Saturday, Nov. 28, by Gov. Walsh. The exercises will begin at 1 p. m. in the town hall, where Seaman Watson's funeral services were held last May. Gov. Walsh will make an address.

The monument is 7 feet 2 inches high and two of its faces bear inscriptions. One reads: "In Memory of Walter Louis Watson, born April 14, 1892, killed April 22, 1914, in the battle of Vera Cruz, Mex., while a member of the battleship from the United States battleship Arkansas. His Duty Done—His Honor Won."

The other inscription reads: "Erected by His Shipmates and Cape Cod Friends." The inscription is surrounded by a picture of the Arkansas lightly carved in the stone.

The success of the movement to secure funds for the memorial is largely due to the efforts of J. Bradley Steele, one of Eastham's foremost citizens, who, with William B. Higgins and Mrs. Sarah Clark, were chosen a committee to endeavor to erect a monument to the memory of the gallant young sailor.

WARNED ABOUT IMPOSTERS

Federal Department Cautions Stockmen and Farmers Against Men Coming With Cures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Warnings to cattle men to beware of men posing as federal agents in the fight against foot and mouth disease went out yesterday from the department of agriculture. Reports to the department say such persons are appearing in infected states with a so-called cure.

Officials say there is no specific cure for the disease and that the only way to prevent its spread is to keep well herds from contact with infected ones. The warning cautions farmers to make sure that men claiming to represent the department are actually federal inspectors.

Stockmen are particularly warned not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of cures by injections or otherwise, as there is great danger, such persons might disseminate the disease by carrying the germs on their clothing. Much of the spread of hog cholera was thus accounted for.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head jars with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food-ionic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

SIT ERECT FOR BEAUTY

So many business girls acquire the habit of slouching in their chairs while they run the typewriter. Sit erect girls, as slouching spoils the lines of your grace and makes you old before your time.

In the restaurants, in the theatres and in the street cars we see women slouched in their seats with their heads poked forward and their chests thrown in this attitude. Slouching leaves in its wake, crooked spines, shapeless backs, flat bony chests, weak lungs, slouching.

Double chins and lazy bones. Does it pay?

If you are tired you will find that it is a great deal more restful to sit erect and lean on the back of your chair than to slouch forward with your chin on your hands. Always sit well back in your chairs, whether you are plugging at the typewriter or playing at the piano. If the stool is too high have it lowered. If your desk is too low place your typewriter on some books, but do spare yourself from all

DISEASE OF SHEEP AND GOATS

The department of agriculture has undertaken the investigation of a serious disease which is affecting the Rocky mountain bighorn sheep and the mountain goats, and is reported as existing on the Lemhi national forest in Idaho.

The forest officers think that it is the same disease that caused the mountain sheep to die in great numbers during 1882-83. The nature of the disease is not known, though it results fatally and sheep affected with it seem to have rough and mangy coats and are very much emaciated. Three bureaus of the department are engaged in the study—the biological survey, bureau of animal industry, and the forest service. A competent veterinarian has already gone to Idaho to start the work.

DARING AUTO DRIVERS

WHIZ ALONG FRINGE OF SHELL-TORN BATTLE FRONT ON MILITARY DUTY

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press.) The exploits of the daring automobile drivers who whiz along the fringe of the shell-torn battle front, and sometimes into it, on missions of military duty that have cost many a life, are as remarkable as the aerial dashes in this war.

Thousands of luxurious touring cars and limousines that once graced the boulevard of Paris are now employed in this service and many of them are driven by their wealthy owners, who rank as privates, and are comrades with professional chauffeurs. They wear uniforms marked with an "A" on the arm. Little is heard of their individual deeds, which led the "Figaro" to say their service was "obscured." In reply the "Figaro" printed on its first page a letter from one of these daring drivers, a Paris lawyer, that speaks for itself. It follows:

"Obscured." The word is quickly said. There is too much "obscured." And one has reason for being so who is forced to remain far from the front. Thus the automobile service is obscured. But the "Figaro" ought to say that in their obscurity the automobilists know how to die and that numerous indeed have been those who already have fallen.

"If, at the beginning of the war, one saw automobiles enjoying a ride in the woods or with their cars stationed before fashionable restaurants, just time has passed. That should be known.

"The automobile squad to which I belong is submitted to the most rigid military discipline. We have three roll calls a day. We do not sleep at home. No one quits the garage during hours of service.

"The other day, about nine in the morning, the quartermaster entered the garage. Everyone was at his post. The machines were all equipped, tanks filled, provisions in the hampers, carbines ready—everything there to show that we don't just merely make a run around the lake."

"They want a car," cried the quartermaster. "Who can go?"

"Every man answered 'I'."

"One of our comrades, Jean R—," was chosen. A turn of the crank and the car was gone. Where? No one asked. One is too much accustomed to seeing these machines depart to put the question. They go, remain absent—many days, sometimes.

"And R— went this time, like others before him, and as still others will follow him, each day.

"In the evening the machine returned to the garage. All its windows were broken. Bullets had riddled its panels. Jean R— was not with it. His comrade, tears in his eyes, had brought the car back alone. Jean R— had been killed during the trip. His body was on the ground back there, somewhere in the north. They had not been able to bring it back. Some English soldiers had arrived in time to save the survivors of this mission on which the poor chauffeur had left so joyously in the morning.

"Some hours later, in the garage where each evening they call the roll, to the name of Jean R—, the quartermaster answered:

"Dead on the field of honor."

"The men, in two ranks, raised the hand to their caps.

"A day or two later, one could see, one morning, some soldiers marching with measured tread toward a church. All wore on the left arm that letter 'A' that is feared at. They were the comrades of the 'obscured one.' They were going to have a mass celebrated for him who had been killed by German bullets.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the Quickest, Surest Dandruff Cure Known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

HERE ARE TWO COACHES AT EXTREMES OF SYSTEMS OF COLLEGE COACHING

George H. Brooke, coach of the football team of the University of Pennsylvania, and Frank A. Hinkley, who holds the same position at Yale, are men entirely different in their methods and systems. Brooke is regarded as an "easy boss." He is mild and persuasive, always gentlemanly, and he is well liked. He knows his business, too, knows it up and down and sideways. Hinkley is a human crab. He is never satisfied with the work his players do. He "rides" them all the time, and if he has any friends they are not loud in expressing their friendship. The result? Brooke is to end his connection with the Pennsylvania team with this season, and Hinkley is sure of being retained.

THE NERVES AND THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all-right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.

You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

COUNT TOLSTOI

Dispute Over the Disposition of His Manuscripts Finally Settled

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press)—The dispute respecting the disposition of the most important manuscripts of Count Tolstoi, the novelist, has at length been decided by the court of final instance in favor of the widowed countess. The manuscripts of these earlier works, upon which the writer's true fame is based, were given in Tolstoi's lifetime to his wife, who deposited them, with other relics, in the Moscow Historical Museum.

The unfortunate wording of Tolstoi's will led the daughter to attempt to secure these gifts to Countess Tolstoi as a part of the novelist's estate, while the Countess, also fearing to lose them, endeavored to recover them from the Historical Museum, which, pending a settlement of the dispute, refused to hand them over to either party. It has now been decided that they may be returned to the widowed Countess as her property.

MANY OFFICERS KILLED

OFFICIAL ORDER TO ARMY LEADERS TO COVER STRIPES ON BATTLEFIELDS

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press)—The official order against exposure to the enemy's fire, resulting from the alarming proportion of mortality among the officers, has caused a great deal of discussion and some resistance.

"Is it you who bring me reinforcements?" asked the colonel of a regiment.

"Yes," replied the officer.

"Very good, but you are an officer?"

"Yes, Colonel."

"But where are the stripes?"

"They are turned under, Colonel, conformably to the minister's instructions."

"You are afraid, then?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then you accept the circular?"

No stripes, in this colonel's estimation, were equivalent to immunity from danger or showing the "white feather."

To please him, or perhaps, as the result of his infectious bravado, the officers about him kept their stripes. This regiment has lost two-thirds of its officers.

ANNEXATION IN DRACUT

Prominent Residents Think the Whole Town Should be Annexed—News of the Town

"Dracut is bound to be annexed to Lowell sooner or later," said a prominent resident of the Centre village in conversation with a reporter of The Sun yesterday, "and why not make the annexation movement a general one all over the town?" he continued. This man who is prominent in social, political and church circles argued that the question of annexation in a very intelligent way and he believed there would be but little opposition to the project if it were made general.

One of the chief arguments of the Centre man for annexing the entire town is that all parts of Dracut connect with the city of Lowell and that it would be an easy matter to supply the town with proper sewerage by simply extending Lowell's trunk lines. He said that the sewerage problem, and he feels that the town cannot supply adequate service in this particular line. He also touched on the police and fire protection as well as the water service.

In speaking about water, the man who was being interviewed said the Centre village and Collingsville have good service and excellent water, but the residents of the other districts have to go without it on account of the distance between the various sections of the town, while if the entire town were annexed to the city, all that would be necessary for the districts already supplied with water would be to connect the city mains to that of the town, and in the other sections extend the city mains.

Dracut is a long narrow territory, with a population of about 4000 people. It is connected with Lowell by Mammoth road, Lakeview avenue, Bridge street and Merrimack avenue, which are all noted to be the best pieces of road work in this vicinity. A distance of two miles is about the limit from the centre of any one district to the centre of Lowell, and inasmuch as Lowell is bound to expand, Dracut is the most desirable district for annexation on account of its close proximity to the city and its many roads leading to the city.

The Kenwood district was also the topic of discussion and the annexation man, as we may call him, feels assured that in the event of that district being annexed there would not be the slightest opposition from other localities. That section of the town is a district by itself and most of its residents are employed in the city and have city manners and they are all looking for certain protection which the town cannot afford to give them. "I feel sure," he said, "if a mass meeting is held 95 per cent of the residents will favor annexation. We have good schools in Dracut, but we prepare the children for the Lowell high school and have to pay the city a certain amount yearly for the advanced education of our children. We also have a library in the town, but inasmuch as only $500 is expended each year for its maintenance and the purchase of new books, our equipment is very small, while if the town were annexed we would have access to the beautiful and well equipped library of Lowell."

Voting Booths
An interesting meeting of representatives of the democratic and republican town committees was held Tuesday night at the town office in the Centre village, the purpose of the gathering being to discuss the possibility of dividing the town into precincts. The meeting was held at the request of the "republicans," who were also present, and as a result of the meeting it is possible a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

A year ago last March at a town meeting the residents of the town voted to instruct the selectmen to divide the town into districts and report at the next town meeting which was held last March. The selectmen did their work and reported and that was the end of it. A short time ago the matter was taken up again by the town committees and a delegation from the democratic town committee called on the selectmen and again talked over the matter of town precincts. After listening to their arguments the selectmen signified their intention of meeting representatives of both committees and last evening all met at the town office. Present at the meeting were Selectmen Percy Smith and Victor Clark; John W. Brennan, James J. McManis, William Tyrell, J. Fogarty, Thomas Carroll and John J. Klerman, representing the democratic town committee, and Harry E. King, Henry Fox and the republican town committee and Town Counsel Warren Fox. It was decided to establish a precinct at Collingsville, at the Navy Yard and the Centre village. It was also decided to transact the town business on one day and have the election on another, and of course the matter will have to be voted upon by the citizens and accordingly a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

Entertainment
The Christian Endeavor society of the Centre village will conduct an entertainment in aid of its coming fair. The affair will be held on Friday evening, December 4 and the program which will consist of moving pictures, a one-act pantomime and vocal and instrumental selections will be under the direction of Augustus Dutton. It is expected that some of the Lowell Y. M. C. A. boys will assist at the entertainment.

Reception to Pastor
Rev. Mr. Dupont, who on next Sunday will assume the pastorate of the Hillside church will be tendered a reception at the church on Monday evening. It is expected that all parishioners will be on hand to welcome their new pastor, and among the other clergymen who have been invited are Rev. Ernest Bartlett of the Yellow Meeting house, Rev. F. G. Alger of the Pawtucket Congregational church and Rev. Mr. Rannette, pastor of the French Baptist church in West Sixth street.

Mad Collison
Mrs. Joseph Ouellette of Pleasant street is being confined to her home suffering from injuries she received in a collision which took place Monday, when an electric car struck the carriage in which she was riding. The accident took place near the car barn in Lakeview avenue. Mrs. Ouellette was seated in the carriage which was stepped near the car tracks. An electric car came along and crashed into the rear of the carriage, throwing its occupants to the ground. Mrs. Ouellette was badly shaken up and received a few bruises. The carriage was damaged to some extent. The horse ran away but was brought to a stop before any serious damage was caused.

Another Accident
The many friends of James Cunningham of Parker avenue will be grieved to learn that he is confined to his home suffering from serious injuries he received in an accident which occurred Wednesday under the School street bridge in Lowell. Mr. Cunningham, whose duties consist of going to the freight yard where he gets the tar oil for street oiling, was riding on top of his wagon and when he reached a spot under the School street bridge, the horses took fright at a passing train and Mr. Cunningham's head came in contact with one of the bolts on the long girders. The blow threw the man to the ground, where he was picked up by employees of the Lowell Gas Light company, and removed to the plant of the company. Mr. Cunningham was later able to return to his home, where he is now confined suffering from a deep gash in the forehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Fox of Marsh Hill are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

WESTON MAN ASKS RETURN OF MONEY AND RINGS—JUDGE RESERVES DECISION

WALTHAM, Nov. 20.—Harry J. Downs of Weston was the plaintiff against Miss Agnes T. Murphy in the civil session of the local court before Judge Luce yesterday in a suit to recover money and rings he alleges he gave Miss Murphy for safekeeping when keeping company with her. Downs' wife was in court.

He said he became acquainted with Miss Murphy in 1902 in Cambridge, and from that time until 1910 had kept company with her. As he was unable to save money himself, he gave it to her to keep for him, he said. He gave her in all about $100. "In 1910," he told the court, "Miss Murphy's love grew cold, and every time I called on her I felt the cold shoulder." From that time until 1912 they were just friends.

He testified that in 1903 he gave her a ring for a birthday present, but it was not an engagement ring, as he had never been engaged to her. He said she had given him presents also, among them a bathrobe and a suitcase.

The matter was brought to court, he said, because last September when he asked her to return the money she refused.

Miss Murphy, who runs a restaurant at 6 Cushing street, testified that she gave Downs $70 in 1910, and that it was all the money he had given her. She said he proposed to her in 1907. Downs testified that he married a Boston widow, Mrs. Marie Sault, in 1911 after Miss Murphy's love grew cold. Judge Luce reserved his decision.

INVENTION TO SAVE WOUNDED

Swiss Surgeons Present Large Quantities of Coagulum to Both Armies—Stops Bleeding, It Is Said

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—A preparation which, it is said, will stop almost instantly the flow of blood from a wound has been invented by Professor Theodore Korber of Berne, who was awarded the Nobel prize for surgery in 1912, and his assistant, Dr. A. Fonce.

The new preparation is called coagulum. It is in the form of a powder and is dissolved in water before being applied to a wound.

The discoverers of coagulum have made a gift of their invention to the armies in the field and have sent large quantities of the powder to the surgical headquarters of both the German and French armies.

The discovery is regarded by medical men here as likely to save the lives of thousands of soldiers, since it can be applied by untrained hands, so that the wounded man himself or his comrade might use the solution.

ACCUSED OF TREASON

Sayer, a Canadian, Admits Aiding Austrians to Join Regiments, It Is Said—Death the Penalty

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Nov. 20.—Robert Sayer of this city is held in custody here on a charge of high treason. He is said to have admitted in court yesterday that he aided six Austrians to cross the St. Lawrence from the United States into Canada to join their home regiments in the European war. The crime is punishable by death. The hearing has been postponed eight days while local officials wait for instructions from the military authorities at Ottawa.

WEATHER AND THE WAR

STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM, THE WAR HAS CAUSED A LACK OF WEATHER BULLETINS

Even the dullest-witted persons have been impressed by the wonderful weather we have been having in this part of the world this fall. It has persisted in remaining fine in spite of various pessimistic predictions by the official weather experts. The great majority of the succeeding days of the past six weeks have been of the exceptional sort that in most seasons are described as "weather bredders," and yet they have bred very little in the way of adverse conditions. All of which must have inspired considerable reflection on the laws of cause and effect as they apply to climatic phenomena. How far may this superb autumn weather be attributed to the war in Europe? The curious fact, whether of significance or not, is that heavy rains have been prevalent in the battle zones since the early days of the war. Thus is revived the old controversy over the relation of weather and battles.

The theory that the discharge of powder in vast quantities is almost invariably followed by storms and heavy downpours of rain is an old one, although scientists have vigorously maintained that it is not worthy of scientific credence. And efforts to produce precipitation by the use of big explosives have usually failed, making a laughing stock of the well-meaning "rain makers."

Nevertheless, there has been much battling in Europe during the past two months and there has been an exceptional amount of rain. Coincidentally, there has been almost no rain at all in this part of the world, and with the absence of precipitation we have had a balmy autumn that exceeds all the records. Are these facts related? At least, it would be interesting to have the controversy revived by those who are capable of discussing the question intelligently.

In any event, it cannot be denied that the war has had its effect on the weather in this country. There has been a commercial effect, if not a climatic, for the weather bureau, like the stock exchange, has felt obliged to curtail its business. Announcement has been made of the suspension of weekly forecasts, and the limitation of prophecies to periods of 24 or 48 hours. And the reason given for this is the lack of meteorological data from abroad upon which the longer forecasts are based. The war has paralyzed foreign quotations on the weather as well as those on stocks and bonds. For some time to come,

SECRET BRIDE SINCE MARCH

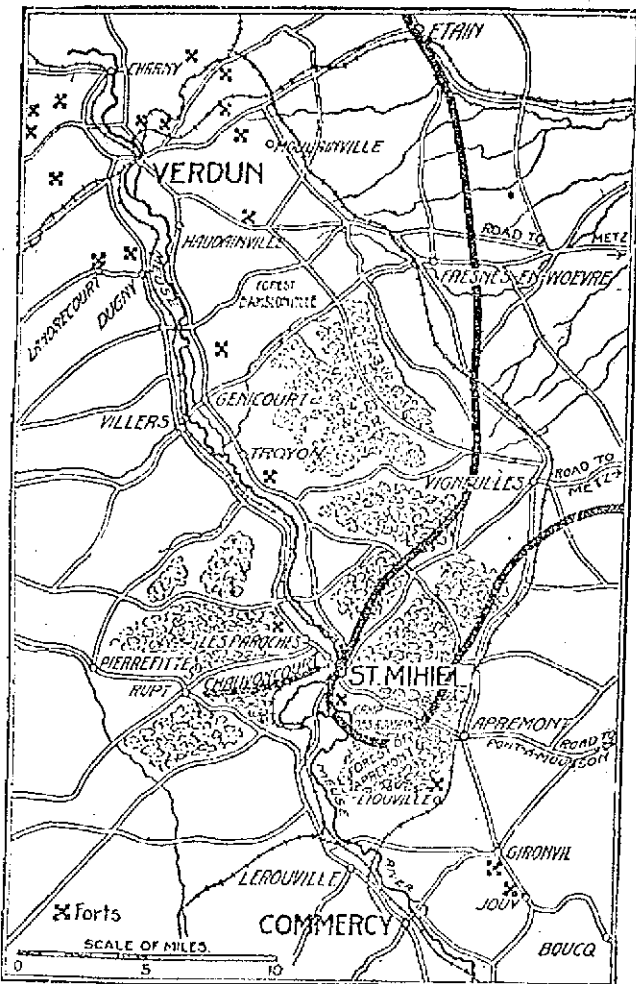

New York Girl of 17 Married to Supposed Foster Father, More Than Three Times Older

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—That pretty 17-year-old Dorothy Breding, popular among her friends in Flatbush, has been a secret bride since last March, and that Edwin A. Breding, supposed to be her foster father, and more than three times her age, is her husband, was announced last evening by the girl herself at the Breding home, 1712 Ditmars avenue.

The girl entered the Breding home when she was 4 years old. When she was a baby she was adopted by the former Mrs. Breding's mother, who found her at South Framingham, Mass., and took a great fancy to her. The foster mother became an invalid, however, and Dorothy went to the home of the Bredings.

Breding and his former wife were married Feb. 10, 1909. In March, 1912, Mrs. Breding filed suit for divorce, alleging that she had found love notes written to her husband by other women in his pockets. These notes were put in evidence. The new Mrs. Breding said last night she had never been legally adopted by Mr. Breding.

MAP OF ST. MIHIEL AND SURROUNDING SECTION WHERE FIGHTING IS SEVERE

The region of St. Mihiel and the battle line along the heights of the Meuse are shown in this map. The French, according to the official statement from Paris, have taken possession of houses in the village of Chauvencourt, which had served as barracks for the St. Mihiel garrison. Chauvencourt is the only point of support still held by the Germans on the left bank of the Meuse. On the right bank of the Meuse the French command the road from Apremont to Vignelles, and this leaves to the Germans only one way from St. Mihiel to the east, the road from St. Mihiel northeast to Vignelles and thence to Metz.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 19.—A post-office official here has carried out the idea of printing stamps for 1, 2 and 3 cents, bearing the picture of St. Martin, Belgium's patron saint, and for cents bearing the picture of the Belgian royal family, which are to be sold for the benefit of Belgian refugees. The press subscription through-out Denmark for the same purpose has been most successful.

WILL NOT SELL RAILROAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad will not be sold at public auction on Nov. 21 as ordered by the federal district court. The circuit court of appeals reversed this afternoon the lower court's order by a decision handed down in the litigation looking to a foreclosure sale in the suit brought by the Central Trust company as trustee.

JILTED LOVER THEORY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 19.—The love element yesterday came into the mystery of the poisoning of the Cosigan family Sunday morning with a pot of coffee. The police are now working on the theory that a jilted lover was responsible.

The poisoning has already cost two lives, those of Daniel Cosigan, aged 63 years, and his sister, Mary, aged 66.

The police believe that the jilted lover of one of the two women boarders, Meta Valler and Teckla Miller, tried to poison the entire family to make sure that the girl who had spurned his love died with the others.

As fate would have it, however, one of the two girls, Meta Valler, woke late Sunday and did not reach the dining-room until all of the other five persons in the house were unconscious on the floor.

The other young woman's constitution resisted the drug, so the clue was least seriously poisoned of the five who drank of the coffee, and is now out of danger.

SUMMERFIELD'S

Where You Can Have a Year or More To Pay

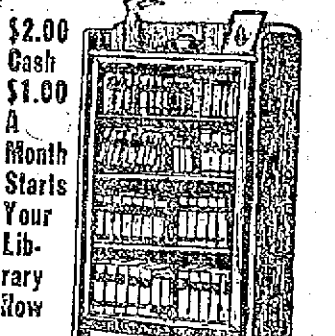

He had been worried for months and did not dare to pop the question to the sweetest girl in all the world. He wanted to give her a home such as she had been used to, but his salary did not permit him to save enough to pay the cash to furnish the home like he would want his intended to live in. For days and days he worried until he met his dearest friend and stated his troubles to him; he had been married only a short time and had such a pretty furnished home.

"Nothing easier," was the advice. "Go to Summerfield's, the House of Dignified Credit; they furnished my home and gave me over a year to pay for it. They allow me to pay weekly or monthly, and put the goods in my home on 30 DAYS' FREE TRIAL to see how I would like them. I had the privilege to exchange any article that did not meet with our approval, and must say the delivery by their Packard trucks was such that I did not have to exchange a single article. Could anything be fairer? Consult with Summerfield and your troubles will soon be over."

He brought her in yesterday and picked out a pretty 4-room outfit.—Moral, come and do likewise.

ELECTION AFTERMATH FROM THE POLITICIANS

An Attempt to Attach Bet on Defeated Candidate Said to Have Failed—Other City Hall Notes

There was considerable discussion about city hall today relative to a sum of money bet on a defeated candidate for alderman, and approximately $1500, being held up. It was stated that the money had been bet by the candidate himself and that he was "squawking." The statement that the money was bet by the candidate himself proved true, but he was not responsible for the attempted hold-up. A lawyer, to whom the candidate is indebted for services rendered, heard about the money being bet and decided that by attaching it he could make the candidate show his hand. The money, however, was paid over before the sheriff to whom the lawyer entrusted the necessary papers arrived at the places where the money was deposited. The sheriff then sought out the man who had bet the money against the aldermanic candidate in question. This man is a barber and he told the sheriff that the money bet was not his money and that he had paid it over to the party who had given it to him to bet.

"What is the name of the party?" queried the sheriff.

all of the filter pipe and water supply pipe has been laid and this includes the supply pipe from the pumping station to the filters. The city has about completed the excavation work on the filtering and settling basins and what remains to be done to go over until next year. Work on the plant has progressed rapidly, especially because of the very favorable condition of the weather and the contractor today, nothing daunted, though it was snowing at the time, said he expected another month of good weather.

More Building Permits
Joseph Johns has been granted a permit at the office of Commissioner James Donnelly at city hall for the erection of a two apartment house at 53-55 Daniels street. Each of the apartments will have five rooms, pantry and bath and the house will be two and one-half stories in height. The estimated cost is $3000.

The Lowell General hospital has been granted a permit for the addition of a sun room. The sun room will be built over a one-story corridor connecting two buildings. It will be 8 feet wide, 60 feet long and 24 feet high. The estimated cost is $900.

FELL ON THE SIDEWALK
The first accident of the season as a result of slippery sidewalks occurred about 2 o'clock this afternoon at the corner of Central and Tyler streets, when Michael McAlister, a middle-aged man residing at 63 Concord street fell on the sidewalk and sustained a probable fractured left leg. The ambulance was summoned and the injured man was taken to St. John's hospital. Mr. McAlister is well known in this city, having been employed at the Saco-Lowell shops for many years. It is said that he was walking along Central street alone when he slipped on the snow and fell.

FOR EVERY SUFFERER FROM CONSTIPATION

Rheumal salts Insures Quick and Safe Relief

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all the misery and ill that go with it, is to dissolve a little Rheumal salts in water and drink it while it is effervescent.

Rheumal salts is a scientifically blended and clinically pure carbonated lithia salt that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, yellow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, nervousness or rheumatism, then you need Rheumal salts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "doping" yourself with drug-forming, heart-depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumal salts. It is delicious to the taste and acts quickly without griping or nausea. Rheumal salts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

THE SANCTUARY CHOIR ROADS TO RAISE FARES

PINO MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT
LAST NIGHT

The members of St. Patrick's sanctuary choir lived up to their reputations as first class soloists and entertainers last night, when they held their annual minstrel show and dance in Associate hall. Despite the inclement weather, the boys from the acre had their usual large following of friends and the affair, aside from being most enjoyable socially, was also highly successful financially.

The minstrel show opened up with a snap and vim characteristic of the leading professional troupes, and everything went off without the slightest hitch. Encores were the order of things and were frequently demanded by the generous audience.

Edward J. Flannery was the interlocutor and filled his position most admirably, and his work contributed in no small way to the smoothness in which the program was carried out. The end men who kept their audience in screams of laughter by their witticisms and comic songs were: James S. King, Cornelius M. Cloheey, Daniel A. Powers, Eugene Dean, John F. Stapleton and James L. Neilligan. The solos by Master Peter Kane, Master William Chandler and Thomas Delmore were executed in finished style and encores were demanded in every instance. Miner's orchestra furnished the music for the entertainment, and also for the dancing which followed immediately after and continued until midnight. The program was as follows:

NEW BASIS 2½ CENTS A MILE—
CHICAGO-BOSTON ROUTE INCREASED FROM $22.00 TO $23.10

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Material increases in passenger fares, virtually throughout the country, except in southeastern territory, will be caused by advances announced by railroads in trunk-line territory between New York city and Pittsburgh and its Central Passenger association territory, between Pittsburgh and Chicago and St. Louis. Virtually, the basis for readjustment is 2½ cents a mile, the present basis generally being 2½ cents.

Within Central Passenger Association territory the new fares will become effective on Dec. 1 and on trunk-line territory and between the two territories they will become effective on Dec. 15.

From Chicago the fare to Boston is raised from $22.00 to $23.10, and from St. Louis to Boston from $24.80 to $25.95. The proposed advances were made by the railroads after the Interstate Commerce commission had suggested increased passenger fares, as one method by which the revenues of the carriers might be increased. The commission is receiving some protests against the proposed increases, but at this time it is regarded as likely that the tariffs fixed by the roads will not be suspended.

THE PRESIDENTIAL BIRD
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The White House and cabinet Thanksgiving turkey this year will be Kentucky bred. South Trimble, clerk of the house, has ordered from his farm at Frankfort, Ky., a 41-pound bird, fed on celery and chestnuts, for President Wilson's table, and is sending 30-pound birds to each member of the cabinet and in Sec. Tumulty.

GREAT SUCCESS AT ARMORY

Battalion Night Attracted Very Large Gathering

Fine Entertainment in Military Evolutions and Other Features

The second in a series of battalion nights was conducted at the local armory in Westford street last evening and it is safe to say that its success was gratifying to those in charge. The large drill shed was taxed to its capacity and in order to accommodate the visitors it was necessary to introduce a large number of additional chairs and settees and despite the efforts of the men in charge to find seating room for all, many were forced to stand all evening. It is figured that over 1500 men, women and children were in attendance and all spent a most enjoyable evening. The affair had been organized by Major Colby T. Kittredge, who was ably assisted in all arrangements by the officers of the various companies.

The program consisted of military evolutions by Companies C, G and K of the Sixth regiment of this city; Company L of Boston of the same regiment and Company 21 of the Ninth regiment of this city. Tabor's famous Sixth Regiment band was in attendance and supplied excellent music. Short addresses were delivered by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of this city and Capt. William Puseall of Lynn, chairman of the Sixth regiment, and both speakers highly congratulated the local militiamen for their efficient work and the success achieved with their military nights.

Among the other visitors were Major J. H. McMahon of the First battalion, Capt. Edward Connelly, Company A, Concord; Capt. Michael Dea, Lieutenant George L. Prescott and Thomas Mansfield; Sergt. Whipple, Parker, Company I, Concord; Capt. Thorndike Howe, Battery C, Lawrence; and Capt. H. J. Patton, ordinance officer, Sixth regiment, and about 10 members of Company I, Concord.

Early in the evening the members of each company gathered at the armory and enjoyed supper in their respective quarters. Then followed the battalion parade and specialties staged by each of the individual companies and men. The militia men in the battalion parade were headed by Tabor's Sixth

The numbers on the program were carried out in the following order:

At the close of the program the visitors were given an opportunity to inspect the building from basement to roof, and luncheon was served to the visiting militiamen.

IMMUNE FROM FLIRTING

JURY STILL WRESTLING OVER GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF CHICAGO CLUBMAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A jury of men who, before they were accepted, swore they were absolutely immune from flirting, early today were still wrestling over the guilt or innocence of Louis J. Weigle, a dashing clubman and broker, who was charged by Miss

Marie McKinley with annoying her on a suburban train.

The disagreement is a climax to a case which received some notoriety when Weigle tried to escape publicity at the time of the arrest by using the alias of John Jones. He refused to appear in court when his case was first called.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Capt. John Fish was found not guilty of setting fire to his schooner yacht Santa in Edgartown harbor on Oct. 25, 1913, by a jury in federal court today. The jury had been out 24 hours. Capt. Fish, who had been at liberty on $10,000 bail, was immediately released from custody.

The government charged that the vessel was fired to secure the insurance. Fish was convicted at a former trial, but the court of appeals set aside the verdict.

THE JUVENILE LAW

It seems to be the unanimous opinion of press and public that in some of its phases our juvenile law is not working well, and that some definite agitation for its amendment is timely. The subject is treated editorially in the leading papers of the state with great frequency, and while all do not agree on the form of the proposed change, all seem agreed that the present law is not achieving its ends. Needless to say, the news columns of our Massachusetts papers confirm the editorial views, for we have frequent examples of all manner of juvenile crime, much of which is plotted with great cunning and executed with professional daring.

The Lynn News dwelt on this subject in detail a day or two ago, calling special attention to the movement agitated by the local Molly Varnum chapter D. A. R. and to the comments of The Sun. To quote from the News:

There are few parts of our state in which people are not more or less stirred up over the practical working of the juvenile law. And if the Molly Varnum Chapter, D. A. R., of Lowell, which has been looking into the matter, decides to take action looking towards the reform of the law, the ladies will find a response in every part of the Commonwealth.

Probably most men who have thought on the subject will agree that boys of 16 and under should not be branded with older criminals; they will agree also that boys who are not to be treated in the same fashion as the crimes of older men. But they will also agree that boys who are old enough to know what they are doing should not be dealt with in ways which lead them to despise the law and to feel it safe to affront the community.

The News then goes on to contrast the juvenile offences of the present with those of the past, reflecting particularly on the fact that the boys of today are a great deal more brazen in their offences than the boys of an older generation. This undesirable change, attributed in great part to the ineffectiveness of the juvenile law, is summed up as follows:

As things are boys can stand on street corners and use vile and impertinent language both among themselves and to passers-by; they can rob fruit trees under the eyes of the owners; they can indulge in many forms of malicious mischief; and then defy the people against whom they have done the wrong. They seem to feel that nobody can do anything to them, that the almost they have to face is perhaps a mild scolding, or a fine laid on their parents.

There was a time when if a man caught a youth robbing him of his fruit he would and could thrash him. Now he must keep his hands off and resort to the gentle processes of a law which may or may not work. The boy is protected at the expense of the rest of the community. Even his crime is called by the gentle name of delinquency rather than by the term which rightfully belongs to it.

Neither the Lynn News nor The Sun would advocate a change in the law which would permit the owner of fruit trees or the householder to attend personally to the punishment of a boy caught robbing his orchard or damaging his property, but it is not a good thing that boys should realize their practical immunity from punishment. The strongest argument for an amendment of the juvenile law is in the boast of the boys, when, referring to the police, they say: "They can't do anything to us." At the local meeting of the mercantile branch of the D. A. R. many persons present, including the superintendent of police, testified that juvenile wrongdoers frequently make such a boast.

It must also be remembered that no law, no matter how adequate or how far-reaching, and no amount of police activity will make up for parental supervision and attention. Remembering this, the closing paragraph of the News editorial has an obvious moral:

There is nothing in the world many such boys need so much as a good sound whipping. But the policeman who does not handle one of them with the utmost tenderness is likely to get into trouble. It is a pretty state of things where the elders have, in practice, whatever the theory may be, to surrender to the younger.

Says the Lowell Sun: "Boys have always been mischievous, but one time they feared God, their parents, and the cop. If our juvenile law keeps up the parents, the cop, and the entire public will have reason to fear the boy." The Sun isn't alone in thinking that.

Any law which does not work well needs changing. Isn't the juvenile law capable of some improvement?

There has been enough of aimless discussion of this subject in all its phases, and the local movement towards definite reform is deserving of support. A bill that would remove some of the technicalities that render the juvenile law ineffective, if not pernicious, would be in order at the coming session of the general court.

TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

That those who agitate political changes from selfish motives are not easily discouraged is proved by the rejuvenated activity of some Boston groups to foist the two-platoon firemen's system on some large city of the Commonwealth—professionally as a disinterested experiment. There is no legitimate agitation for such a change even among the firemen of the state, and any appearance of activity in that direction should be checked by the weight of public opinion. Here and there the conditions surrounding the life of the firemen are not what they should be, but the enormously costly two-platoon system would benefit neither the firemen nor the public. The idea is purely a political one and is unpopular as it is uncalled for.

Apart from the absolutely prohibitive cost of a fire department made up of two shifts, the two-platoon system would tend to a lack of efficiency and discipline. It would impair the service and would interfere eventually with the best interests of those it is meant to serve. In the very few cities where it has been tried it has proved an unqualified failure, and it has been almost universally abandoned. It is never sanctioned by any interest advocating really scientific municipal government. When agitated in Lowell a year or so ago, the public expressed ready disapproval, but there are indications that we may see a rebirth of the agitation in the near future.

It is but natural that some measure of dissatisfaction should obtain among the members of the local fire department, owing to the refusal of privileges to them which were granted to a more favored branch of the public service. In an era of boasted equality of rights to all, they have suffered from what looks suspiciously like discrimination. They should not act rashly, nevertheless, or sanction any movement that would afterwards react unfavorably on their city and on themselves. So far as all practical purposes are concerned, it is to be hoped that Lowell has heard the last of the two-platoon firemen's system.

TALK OF PEACE

One of the most significant statements regarding probable peace between the powers at war is that published by President Wilson to the effect that the next move towards mediation must be made by the belligerents. This country has made its position clear and while it stands not only ready but anxious to do everything possible to banish the war cloud from the earth, its dignity as a nation forbids its making unneeded pleas that would eventually reduce its effectiveness as a peace agent. Germany, France, England, Austria and Russia know well through their rulers and government officials that they may rely on this country to advance the first indication of peace, and more is not necessary or advisable. If there is no official talk of peace in Europe, it is because none of the powers want it, and when none of the powers favor it, our protestations and pleadings would sound puerile. President Wilson has shown his horror of war and his love of peace, but he has also shown a high sense of personal and official propriety.

A very persistent rumor has it that Henry Van Dyke, our minister to Holland, is coming to President Wilson with an offer of co-operation from the Queen of The Netherlands in the interests of peace. A recent encyclical of Pope Benedict XV. pleaded to the same end. Unfortunately, two of the great powers, at least, declare their determination to fight to the death, and while this is so, it is vain to hope for a cessation of hostilities. Those who hope for peace receive little encouragement from the rulers. When the first patriotic fervor of the warring nations is cooled off by the weight of the calamities, possibly the people will ask that the war shall end. Judging from the spirit shown by the leading powers, any hope for peace in the immediate future seems to be premature.

UNDER CONTROL

The Chicago stockyards have reported that owing to the prompt and efficient system of disinfection adopted, they are ready to resume business on a normal basis. It will be remembered that, for the first time during their existence they were closed some days ago as a precaution against the foot and mouth disease. Reports from the various states also indicate that the disease has been checked and that the ultimate loss will not be as great as was anticipated. This is all the more gratifying owing to the oft-mentioned charge that the pest got a strong footing owing to the carelessness of some state officials. The cattle scourge, for a time, threatened to wipe out the profits arising from good crops, and its abatement will be noted with relief in the agricultural sections. Because of the experience gained so clearly it is doubtful if the disease will again get such a hold in this country.

How many looked at the falling snow yesterday without at some time connecting it with the battlefields of the old world? For some days past we have read that snow and rain had fallen in the eastern and western theatres of war and that fighting was somewhat impeded thereby. As the snow fell yesterday in a soft white sheet, one could imagine its merciful hiding of the red patches in Flanders.

"Few, few shall part where many meet. The snow shall be their winding sheet."

There is a decided comfort for decent citizens in the fact that all the undesirable political methods used before the primaries were in the interest of men who were passed over by the electorate. The little revelations that are coming to light prove more and more that the people chose wisely.

The body of Lord Roberts now rests in St. Paul's beside that of the Duke of Wellington. Even the most loyal German may hope that their rest will never be disturbed by a Zeppelin bomb. They have earned their sleep.

Violent fighting goes on within a two-hour motor ride of the gates of Paris. Still, it's a long, long way to Paris. If you doubt it, ask the Kaiser.

If the voters at the city election will only show as good judgment as they did at the primaries Lowell will have reason to rejoice at the result.

Where are the leaves of yesterday?

SEEN AND HEARD

Always be as pleasant as you looked when you had your picture taken.

A pair of scales has the same effect on a fat woman that a mouse has on a thin woman.

You can believe all you hear and get by. But if you attempt to say all you believe you are going to spend a lot of time in a hospital.

There was a time when early to bed made a man wise. But nowadays the man who hits the hay too early doesn't get wise to much.

The man whose head is so swelled that he knows he leaves little to be desired is in the same class as a hunchback or a porcupine.

Funny how a fellow will chase about 375 flies away from the cheese on the free lunch counter and enjoy what he eats. But when he goes home if he finds a lone fly on the dining room table, he begins to indignantly about fifth carter and typhoid and won't eat anything.

ADAM A FOREIGNER

A teacher was delving among the members of her class to find out how much they really knew. She had sterling success in the case of one little shaver. Study was relaxed for a few minutes and she propounded among other questions this one:

"Who was the first man?"

The head of the little shaver arose frantically ahead of all the others and she singled him out for the answer:

"George Washington," he declared breathlessly, "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

"No, no," interrupted the teacher. "The first man—don't you remember?"

"Adam,"

"Aw well, I wasn't thinking about foreigners," was the comment that came back.

KEEP OFF THE FARMS

During these fall days, should inclination lead you to visit the country, beware of the farms, and especially of the pastures, for there is one chance in a million, or thereabouts, that you may be the cause of spreading the hoof and mouth disease, but state authorities do not want you to take even that chance. And those who care for their own health, as well as the health of the five stock of the vicinity, of course do not want to take the chance, either. So very careful, while the scare is on. You wonder why the warning? Well, wonder no more, for it is not our warning wholly. Throughout the state the public is being warned to keep away from farms, and to especially keep out of barns and pastures. The may be near to being going the limit in precaution, but state authorities may consider that it involves upon them to go the limit in this respect to offset going the full distance in carelessness in letting the disease get a foothold.

SKATING FOR THANKSGIVING

"Still think there will be skating Thanksgiving?" I asked my friend, the weather wise man, yesterday, when the snow and the chill in the air reminded me that he had previously made such a prophecy. Well, I haven't given up hope yet," was his reply. "You see as growing colder and the official prognosticator says that it is going to be colder, so there you are. If it keeps down below the freezing point for a week, the smaller ponds will be skinned with an inch or two of ice. I don't know as it will be safe for horse trotting on the river at that time, but I'm going to stick to my prophecy that there will be ice on the

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid soap, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and destroy every single sign and trace of it, and make how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

SULLY IN NEW YORK

A well known Lowell man recently in New York city dropped into the Royal theatre, where a high class vaudeville bill is always on tap. One of the numbers on the bill was a comedy playlet entitled "Mutterzoll & Son," by D. Darby Aaronson and Walter E. Colby, and when the curtain went up on the sketch, who did we behold, but our own eminent part but Lowell's old-time favorite, Daniel Sullivan, better known here as "Our Sully," who was everybody's friend while with the Huntington DeDeen and Isabelle Fletcher stock companies at the Academy of Music. Sully had said looking as youthful and as handsome as of yore and was as clever with his comedy role as when he made them roar at the Academy. In the cast also were Helen Barry, daughter of the famous Billy Barry of the "Rising Generation," and three other clever actors. After the show the Lowell man had a pleasant chat with "Sully" during which the latter asked to be remembered to his old friends in this city. The sketch with which "Sully" is cast is after the style of "Polish and Perlmutter," which has been running big in Boston, and may well be, as we hope to on the local Keith circuit. "Sully" would certainly get a warm welcome should he appear again in this city.

HIGHLAND MARY

To banks, and braes, and streams around
The little o' Montgomery, Green be your woods, and fair your flowers,
Your waters never drumble!
There's a summer's sun, unfaded her robes,
And there the angel sang,
For there I took the last farewell
O' my sweet Highland Mary.
How sweetly bloom'd the gay green
birk,
How rich the hawthorn's blossom,
As underneath their fragrant shade
I clasp'd her to my bosom!
The golden hours, on angel wings,
Few o'er me and my dearie,
For dear to me, as light and life,
Was my sweet Highland Mary.
We're moun' a vow, and loek'd embrace,
O' parting was fu' tender;
And, minding aft to meet again,
We tore ourselves asunder.
But oh! fell death's untimely frost,
That nipt my flower so early!
Now sleeps the sod, and could'st the clay
That wraps my Highland Mary!
O pale, pale now, those flow'rs lips,
I aft ha' kiss'd so fondly;
And clos'd for aye the sparkling glance,
That dwelt on me so kindly!
And minding aft to meet again,
That heart that led me dearly!
But still within my bosom's core Shall live my Highland Mary.
—Robert Burns.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

WHO STARTED IT?

It stands to reason that somebody started this fearful war. It is a question to twentieth century civilization, but as much as each of the belligerent powers has taken pains to prove, to its own satisfaction at all events, an alibi, the identity of the guilty one bids fair to be enveloped in as much mystery as that of the man who struck Billy Patterson.—Fall River Globe.

A FINE CRUSADE

Health and long life to the National Health Guard! Here is a crusade in which everybody can enlist without violating any of the principles of neutrality. A war on the conditions that tend to reduce vitality and shorten life is civilization's war against the powers of ignorance and disease. There can be no grander militarism in the world than this, and it is eminent that a movement along this line should be inaugurated in the United States, the only one of the great powers of the world that cares little or nothing for the other form of militarism.—Springfield Union.

MINES

Here and there some ship runs across a submarine mine and goes to smash. When it is a merchant vessel, we arise in protest. It is a violation of the principles of neutrality. True, the sowing of commercial war with these fearful instruments of destruction is practiced by each of the several maritime nations involved in the European war. This is a matter in which neutral nations have a most important concern.

PRESIDENT WILSON

The president of the United States for a variety of reasons is not touring the country sightseeing or making speeches. Relieved for a season from the solution of pressing domestic problems owing to adjournment of congress, he nevertheless is still vigilant and at the helm, so acute is the international situation and so important is it that the republic's foreign policy should be defined with full knowledge of world conditions. "The time has come for great things," a little while ago, a little courage and a little self-forgetful devotion," as the president himself has said, may fundamentally affect the coming history of the world. He plans to be on hand when opportunity beckons.—Christian Science Monitor.

SKY IS CLEARING

The financial sky is clearing and an era of prosperity is at hand. The lessons learned during the financial depression should not be forgotten when the money market is easier. The people have been shown their way to financial salvation. Careful investments, economy wherever possible, and small savings, no matter how small they may be, will eventually bring prosperity in greater or less degree to all who conduct their business along these lines.—Hartford Post.

GET UP AND GET BUSY

The manufacturer who has been fabricating in Connecticut antique sawnails to be sold at Pompeii would better turn his attention to the making of sawnails to be sold in Montana or elsewhere. The place of the imported knives that the Germans no longer have time to forge, if we merely sit down and wait for the storm to blow over, we shall find ourselves very cold and very wet and very hungry before this international hurricane blows itself out—and find in the end that we have been waiting for mighty little.—New London Day.

KILL MORE THAN WARS

EARTHQUAKES WORSE THAN WAR

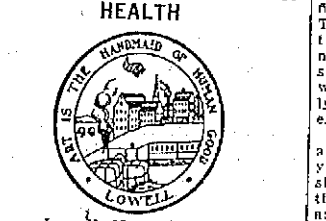

GUNS—THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN KILLED BY 'SINGLE DISASTER'

It is popularly supposed that the ravages of war are the most fatal of the mishaps that can happen to the human race, but cold figures show that the deaths resulting from the war are insignificant when compared with the results of earthquakes and tidal waves, and that these, as terrible as they may appear, so to speak, cause but a mere ripple over the mighty population of the world. This is shown by the following figures taken from an article in the special war issue of the Scientific American:

Terrible as are the ravages of war, they are far surpassed by some other disasters which from time to time overwhelm the human race. The Franco-Prussian war killed about 1,300,000 in seven months. The death toll of the Russo-Japanese reached about 200,000. A single earthquake (1737 in India) has been estimated to have caused 300,000 deaths. Fatalities of the Messina earthquake in 1908 cannot have been far short of 100,000. A tidal wave in 1896 drowned 27,000 persons in Japan, causing a greater loss of life than the whole war with China in 1894. The earthquake in Japan in 1703 is said to have killed 200,000 people. The Lisbon earthquake in 1755 destroyed 50,000 human lives, while 40,000 were lost in the same year in earthquakes in Persia.

Terrible as such disasters are, they pass over the multitudes of the human population of our globe as the merest ripples on a mighty sea. The total population of the earth is somewhere about 1,500,000,000. Annually there are added to it 14,000,000 souls. Every year at least 50,000,000 are born, and 50,000,000 or 70,000,000 die. This means a daily birth rate of about 320,000, a death rate of 150,000. The daily increase in population is 40,000. In comparison with this, the greatest swelling tide, what are the greatest battles, wars or earthquakes, but almost microscopic ripples! If we imagine that the power were given to some man to order a wholesale slaughter, and that gullitons were kept busy beheading one man every minute, night and day, this would add only one-quarter of 1 per cent to the existing death rate.

WATER SUPPLY

Is of Vital Importance to an Army—Only Running Water is Used

Suitable drinking water is of vital importance to an army, and this is only one of a multitude of problems that must be studied carefully by those who conduct a successful campaign. In the special war issue of the Scientific American there is a comprehensive article on modern military camps which gives the following description of the provisions made in regard to water:

The water of a camp is a matter of great importance. Only running water is used. In the German army the upstream water is used for drinking purposes, and the downstream water for watering horses and for bathing. Suitable signs notify the men which water is safe to drink and which may be used only for bathing. In shallow or narrow streams, basins are dug or small dams built so as to form a reservoir of simple dimensions. Slipping stones are provided to keep the water clean, as well as board protection to prevent the banks from crumbling. Basins are dug for watering horses; troughs are provided only in case of necessity, and are then propped on posts and filled by means of pumps. Pipes may be driven to water lies at a reasonable depth, in other words, more than 20 feet. Depending upon their size, these pipes will deliver from four to twenty-two gallons of water per minute. If water lies very near the surface a hole is dug and a tank, the bottom of which has been knocked out, is placed in the hole to form a basin. If water lies at a greater depth, the basin may be formed of box sections, driven in one on top of the other.

COOLNESS SAVES HIM

DARRELL WILKINS ESCAPES DEATH BY FEW FEET IN AUTO ON WEST MEDFORD CROSSING

MEDFORD, Nov. 20.—The coolness of Darrell Wilkins, aged 20, son of Frank D. Wilkins of Mystic Valley Parkway, saved him from death about 5:30 yesterday when the automobile he was driving skidded at the High street crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad in West Medford, stopping half over the track while an express train from Boston was approaching only 25 feet away.

Wilkins came down High street from the boulevard to meet his father at West Medford Square. He was driving the auto through the darkness in the face of a stiff wind and rain which obscured the view of the lights on the crossing gates, which were down. When he did see them he set the brakes so hard the streams of fire shot out from the rear wheels. The road, however, was slippery, and the car shot under the gates into the north gates on the other side, then skidded completely around and half way on to the outbound track directly in the path of the rapidly moving express.

Disregarding the cries of bystanders and the crossing tender to jump, young Wilkins threw on the self-starter of his stalled car and cleared the outbound track by a few feet just as the train shot by.

The glass front of the auto was smashed to bits when it hit the north gate. The cap on the radiator, taken off by the gate, struck Wilkins on the chest, but he was not seriously injured. His right hand was cut by broken glass. The gate was smashed.

EUROPEAN WAR ZONES

PRODUCT OF YEARS OF TOIL IN PREPARATION OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—To the wonderfully complete maps of the European war zones, prepared by the war offices of the belligerents, American army officers owe the detailed study they are able to make of the troop movements in Belgium and France and to some extent, upon the Austrian, Russian, and German-Russian frontiers. When despatches give the names of villages around which fighting is in progress, it is possible to turn to these maps and see at a glance the character of the country, its roads and byways with details of their construction and even to note the nature of the soil on slopes where the men will have to "dig in" to withstand the storm of rifle, machine-gun and field-piece fire.

There are yet no such maps of this country. The European maps, the product of years of toil in preparation for war and those used by General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, General Foch, the English leader, and the German, to mention no others, are far more complete than any other foreign governments have been able to obtain showing the regions now torn by war.

With such maps at his disposal a commander can be far in the lead of his long battle line and yet know from moment to moment the exact nature of obstacles in any portion of the front he is facing. He could direct the placement of his troops to within a few yards of any small detail or battery of guns and could order forward his heavy artillery along a certain road with entire confidence that the road would carry the huge weight. There is no trail or bypath, ditch or stone fence that is not shown.

For nearly fifteen years the United States army has been struggling in a modest way to supplement its maps of this country, so they would offer, to a very modest degree at least, the aid to military operations which European commanders have at hand. The work is known as the Progressive Military Map of the United States and officers are assigned to carry it forward in various parts of the country each year. A dual purpose is served by the assignment since the officers are given practical training in map-making which would be invaluable to them in case of war.

The progress of fifteen years on the huge task is described by army officers as "insignificant," outside of its educational value. To obtain adequate maps for military operations covering every possible theatre of war in this country would mean the expenditure of enormous sums of money and no provision for such an achievement ever has been made. The work is being carried forward, however, as fully as is possible under the circumstances, and whenever officers are available they go out to gather data to be added to war department maps. It is possible more attention will be given to the work at a later date and the data thus far assembled will be invaluable as indicating where to concentrate efforts and what changes are to be expected in any section from year to year.

BOON-DIPLOMAT
"Harry, I am beginning to believe the baby looks like you."
"Are you, dear?"
"Yes, I mean it. And more every day. I'm so glad."
"Do you really want him to look like me?"
"Of course I do. I've been sorry ever since we had him christened that we didn't give him your name."
"Sweetheart, you don't know how happy you make me by saying the name. And Harry's found the love-hat today. I don't believe I ever saw anything that was so becoming to him. It's $3.50. Do you think I ought to pay that much for a hat?"—Chicago Herald.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

MENDING RATTAN FURNITURE

"We have several old rattan chairs in the attic that I very much want to utilize. Can you tell me how to fix them up Marie?" and Marjorie sank back on the couch perfectly sure that the French maid would not fail her in giving the desired information. "Old rattan chairs may be much improved unless they are broken," began Marie, "and even then they may be mended by scrubbing and rinsing, and after they are perfectly dry, dressing them with oil, as described on both the wrong and right sides, working well into the crevices. If new rattan furniture is, thus, oiled at first and renewed and oiled once a year thereafter, it will last for years."

"If your market basket, clothes basket, or waste paper basket of willow shows a few loose ends, put it to soak for twenty minutes in lukewarm water. Rest it on the part that is to be repaired, then turn in enough water will shrink the cane to its original to soak this part. The important size."

thing is to get the willow ends soft and pliable. "When this is accomplished, the strips can be readily bent back into place and if you push them in firmly they will stay in place when dry, as they will be sure to snap off. If you use thick glue for mending, cover the mended joint with shellac varnish after the glue has dried. "During damp, muggy weather glue is apt to loosen and allow the intended article to come apart. Shellac varnish is impervious to moisture and so prevents the glue from being attacked. It is also of a neutral color and does not show. "When the same seats of chairs have become stretched, take a teaspoonful of washing soda and dissolve it in a quart of boiling water. Dip a cloth in this solution and wipe the underside of the seats, leaving the chairs turned upside down to dry. This treatment will shrink the cane to its original to soak this part. The important size."

FIGHTING NOW BEING CARRIED ON IN BOATS

BRUGES, Belgium, Nov. 19.—Fighting between the German and the allied forces in the inundated territory between Dixmude and Nieuport on the North sea coast is now being carried on in boats. The first 40 men, including 15 severely wounded, have been rescued. The battle is beginning to resemble the battle of the Somme.

TO KILL COBURN HERD

State Board Will Conduct the Slaughter in a Few Days—Will Not Burn Buildings

The Coburn herd of cattle, in Deerpark, N. H., will be slaughtered next week by the state bureau of animal industry. All of the cattle have had "foot and mouth" disease in a mild form. The state board intended to kill the cows this week, but the officials informed Mr. Coburn that they had so much work on hand that it would be impossible for them to come to Lowell before the end of next week. In the meantime the 54 cattle are eating their heads off, so to speak, for none of them has been sufficiently sick to interfere with its appetite. The cows are being milked regularly and the milk is being thrown away, so in view of these facts and inasmuch as the cows have got to be killed anyway, Mr. Coburn feels that, so far as his pocketbook is concerned, the sooner the herd is killed the better.

LOWELL HUNTERS RETURN STEAMERS IN COLLISION

HAD GOOD LUCK ON DEER—STOPPED AT MOOSELOOKING GUNTING

Just two weeks ago Messrs. Freeman M. Bill, Frank Strout, Frank N. Kenney and D. J. MacDougall went to the Maine woods after big game. All of them have returned to Lowell except Mr. MacDougall, who made his trip one of business as well as pleasure. He represents the Murray company of Boston. His territory includes the state of Maine and immediately upon breaking camp he exchanged his rifle for a business bag and started out to see his customers.

The four Lowell men had good luck and if you don't believe it just step across Central bridge and take a peek at the deer hanging at Mr. Strout's store, mute testimony of the Lowell hunters' skill as marksmen. Some hunters allow the guides to do their shooting, but not so with the Lowell men. They insist upon doing their own shooting and so familiar are they with the Maine woods that lots of days they insisted upon their guides remaining in camp. Messrs. Strout, Bill, Kenney and MacDougall will have to make a good many trips to the hills, however, before they will be in a position to share honors with Emmens Harris, the man who sells all the periodicals in the world in Little Appleton street. Two years ago Mr. Harris brought down the finest bull moose seen in the Rangeley for many a day and ever since the Lowell hunters go to Maine the guides show great disappointment if Emmens is not in the party. The guides declare that Mr. Harris is one of the best shots they have ever seen in the Rangeley region.

WORRIED HIMSELF TO DEATH

SCAMMON, Kas., Nov. 19.—That Thomas B. Evans, local postmaster of Scammon, worried himself to death because of a supposed shortage of nearly $3000 became known today when his wife received a check for $320.51 from the postoffice department.

The office had been entered by burglars some months before, but nothing being missing Evans had not reported the matter to the postoffice department. Later Evans thought he discovered a shortage but, saying nothing to his family, began to pay it back dollar by dollar. Before the supposed shortage was refunded he died. Auditors of the department checking through the books discovered an error and found that instead of Evans being in debt to the postoffice, that the department was in debt to him. Today Mrs. Evans received the check.

BOND MARKET

Stock Exchange Heads Cancel Previously Announced Opening

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Late this afternoon the governors of the New York stock exchange cancelled the previously announced opening of the bond market. In explanation, it was said that the governors believed an opening at this time to be premature. Earlier in the day it was announced that trading in this class of securities would be resumed on Saturday. Soon after the first announcement was made officials of the exchange received inquiries from various parts of the country, some of which stated that the proposed opening did not allow sufficient time for bondholders to make adequate arrangements. It was intimated also that pressure had been brought on the exchange by prominent banking interests which are said to have deemed that domestic and financial conditions were not yet sufficiently stable to permit the resumption of such operations with safety. It was also learned that soon after the announcement of the proposed opening on Saturday large blocks of bonds were offered in the unlisted market at prices several points below the recent high level, indicating that a return to normal trading might be attended by considerable liquidation. These and other factors, when brought to the attention of the governors of the stock exchange caused a hasty cancellation of the plans previously announced.

WAR HAS KILLED MARKET

ST. LOUIS JEWELERS TELL COAL MINER WHO FOUND A "PEARL OF GREAT PRICE" IN WATER CLAM

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—Richard Thomas, a coal miner of Breese, Ill., found a "pearl of great price" Tuesday in a fresh-water clam in Shual Creek, near Breese. Yesterday he found himself in much the position of Mark Twain's hero with the $1,000,000 note in London. Thomas cannot get rid of his pearl, which St. Louis jewelers value at $1250.

The pearl is pure white, perfectly spherical and weighs a fraction less than 52 grains. It is about a quarter of an inch in diameter and is said to be the largest ever found in Illinois. Several St. Louis jewelers looked longingly at the gem, but told Thomas they could not afford to buy it now, as the war had knocked the bottom out of the market.

SIX DAY RIDERS PROTEST
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Worried by frequent accidents which had kept them ahead of the record for more than 55 hours, riders in the six day bicycle race protested today to the management against the offers of prizes for sprinting. No action was taken on the protest.

The ten leaders were more than four miles ahead of the record at one o'clock with a score of 1657 miles and 8 laps. The relative positions of the trailers were unchanged.

JEW MASSACRED EUROPEAN WAR 3 MEN KILLED

Reports Tell of Great Atrocities by Russian Cossacks in Galicia Has no Serious Effect on Municipal Activities Says Woodruff

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Thousands of Jews throughout Galicia are being robbed, tortured and killed under license granted by a Russian pogrom, according to a cabled protest sent yesterday from Vienna by Dr. Heinrich Reizes, a Jewish member of the Austrian parliament, to Dr. Dumba, Austrian ambassador to this country. The cable message charges that Russian soldiers, chiefly the Cossacks, have pillaged and destroyed stores and residences of Jews and have attacked women. In part, the message says:

"The merchant, Trautner, from Lemberg, managed to escape on the 10th of last month, bringing the news that on Sept. 29 the Russians arranged a pogrom on the Jews in the city of Lemberg, shooting and killing 14 and wounding 88 others. Rabbi Brande was dragged through the streets and the celebration of the ceremonies of the Day of Atonement has been prohibited. Jewish shops and Jewish houses have been looted and burned. In Galicia and Bukovina the Russians have committed great atrocities."

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—The European war is having no serious effect on municipal activities in the United States, according to a survey made by Clinton Rogers Woodruff, secretary of the National Municipal league, who delivered his annual address before that organization here last night. With inquiry among many of the representative cities of the country, Mr. Woodruff learned that municipalities were going ahead without the slightest abridgement in their plans for such improvements as had already been authorized, and although some cities were experiencing difficulty in placing loans through the usual channels, municipal credit did not seem to be jeopardized.

"Indeed," he said, "the opinion prevailing among financial authorities that the European situation will in a short time make municipal securities the most desirable in America."

He reported no recession of interest in the commission or commission-manage forms of city government. "What is really called the 'vanishing system'—the bicameral form of city government," he said, "is to be found now in only nine of the largest 50 cities—Philadelphia, Baltimore, Kansas City, Providence, Louisville, Atlanta, Worcester, Richmond, Va., and Cambridge, Mass."

In the light of events of the past five years," he continued, "it would not be hazardous to predict that five years hence not one of the larger cities will be risking its business and its future to the evils of a form which affords such abundant opportunities for inefficiency, and waste and mismanagement."

Hand in hand with this advance he notes, the progress of municipal housekeeping accounts. "Which in the course of the coming generation is destined to become the settled policy with regard to the relations of the states to the cities."

Nine Iowa cities operating under the commission form of government had, he noted, lived within their income for the first time, in 1913. A federal census also showed that out of 60 commission cities, 61 were found to be running at less per capita than the average head expense of the 125 metropolitan centers of all classes considered.

There was a notable improvement in municipal housekeeping accounts, he found. The "happy go lucky" way was being superseded generally by scientific budgets which made both ends meet. Both the demand for municipal ownership and that for effective control of privately operated municipal utilities continued unabated. Wyoming and Utah, he noted, were the only states in the Union which had no form of control to regulate, in some way or another, the public utilities. There was still much discussion throughout the country as to whether such control should be by state or local commissions with the development of the past year seemingly more in favor of state action in these matters.

He concluded with a reference to social problems. The fear that interest in work along these lines would be abated on account of the great war, he believed to be unwarranted. "The very greatness of the European cataclysm will emphasize the need for greater social and civic effort," he said. An increased emigration from Europe to America was to be expected as a result of the war and this itself would require no little attention.

Will Assist in Pushing the Movement For Development of Merrimack River
Congressman John Jacob Rogers, who has taken up the matter of arranging for a hearing before the army board of engineers on the adverse report of Col. Craigbill on the project of deepening the Merrimack river in order to make it navigable from Lowell to the sea, has notified the Lowell board of trade that the hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., on Dec. 8th.

The delegation from the Merrimack valley including Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill who are scheduled to go to the congressional hearing to be held at Washington, D. C., on Dec. 10, will endeavor to be present at the hearing before the army board of engineers and they will do their utmost to have the engineers report on Dec. 3, and the following day they will attend the congressional hearing, providing the report of the engineers is given out on Dec. 3.

A. B. Sutherland, of Lawrence, chairman of the Merrimack Valley Waterway commission, is preparing a reply to the adverse report of Col. Craigbill, in which he will attempt to state reasons why the colonel is wrong in certain parts of his report, and this reply will be presented to the army board of engineers.

SALOON DISTRICT SWEEP BY FIRE
LEADVILLE, Colo., Nov. 19.—That district of Leadville which was famous for its saloons and dance halls in the pioneer days of violence and riotous celebration of sudden wealth was swept away by fire early today. The damage was not heavy as most of the buildings were flimsy wooden shacks which had stood since the boom days following the discovery of silver in the hills. The fire started in a rooming house over a saloon and dance hall.

ENGLISH SUBMARINE E-9 APPROACHES IN DARING EXPLOITS OF GERMAN U-9

SKETCH OF E-9 TORPEDOING GERMAN DESTROYER
Lt. Comdr. MAX K. HORTON

Lieutenant Commander Max K. Horton has won recognition in England for his exploits with his submarine E-9. In daring, if not in actual damage accomplished, this British submarine has nearly equaled the German submarine U-9, which sank several English warships in the North sea. Commander Horton on Sept. 13 sank the German cruiser Heia under the guns of Helgoland. Within a month later he sank the German destroyer S-126 at the mouth of the Ems. She was sent to the bottom in three minutes. The accompanying illustration shows Commander Horton and a sketch of his latest exploit drawn from a rough sketch made by a sailor on his submarine. This drawing shows the periscope of the submarine through which the crew under the water could witness the destruction of the destroyer.

143 CENTRAL STREET

OPP. TALBOT CLOTHING CO.

(sometimes called Mechlin) had 60,000 inhabitants and was an important art and manufacturing center. St. Rombold cathedral, one of the most interesting medieval church buildings in Europe, dating back to the 15th century, contained an altar piece which was one of Van Dyke's masterpieces. St. John's church and the Church of Our Lady contained paintings of Rubens. The historic Palace of Justice was once the home of Margaret of Austria.

Malines, which lay in the course of the German army as it moved from Brussels to Antwerp, has, like most ancient cities, narrow streets. The main traveled street, along which nearly all traffic moves in passing northward toward Antwerp, is scarcely 30 feet wide from curb to curb, and has many turns in it, which made the progress of an enemy exceedingly difficult.

Stone and brick business houses and residences three or four stories high, built in a continuous line, stood along this street. Many of these were battered down completely by the German artillery, and the debris filled the street so completely that only enough has been cleared away in places to permit the passage of a single automobile.

Soldiers Use Habitable Houses

Where the fire did not spread to the wrecked buildings, the ruined stocks of merchants and the broken furniture of their living apartments in the upper stories may still be seen. Such food supplies as were useful for the army were taken by the German officers, and soldiers are billeted in the houses which are still fit for habitation.

Malines is intersected by several arms of the river Dyle, and is practically surrounded by a canal and a wide boulevard. Visitors entering the city from the south are challenged by German soldiers standing guard at the canal bridge, and are again stopped as they enter the great medieval stone arch forming the entrance to the main portion of the old city.

The historic cathedral stands in the very center of the town, in a sort of triangle, its tower, at least 300 feet high, evidently was a target for the German artillery, whose aim was not sharp enough to bring down the massive Gothic pile of stone. Corners of the tower were clipped by shells, but the foundations and walls suffered no serious damage.

However, the main portion of the church was less fortunate. It stands in such a way that it presented its entire south side as a target for the approaching army. All the windows were shattered, the south wall was hopelessly shattered, so battered, in fact, that it was feared the entire main portion of the building must be torn down. All the furnishings of the cathedral were buried in the crushed tile, stone and mortar from the damaged roof and walls.

Artillery Wrecked Factories

Factories along the river and the canal shared the same fate as residences, business houses and churches. The great railway shops were ruined. Hat factories, tapestry factories, woolen mills and starch factories, which furnished employment to thousands were wrecked by artillery fire.

Trenches in the sandy beet fields which flank the highways leading into Malines, and thousands of rifle pits show how stubbornly the Belgians resisted the Germans. Many of the trenches are so long they resemble drainage ditches. They are from three to five feet deep and about three feet wide. In many places they are covered with planks and timbers, upon which brush and earth were piled to afford protection against shells.

The rows of beautiful elms which lined the highway were torn and shattered by the rain of bullets and shell. Where the trees were obstacles to artillery fire they were cut down and used as shelter by the soldiers. Hedges were mowed down by the German guns wherever they afforded a screen for the Belgians. The small fields, none of which contains more than 10 acres, where the crops were not burned out by the trenching, army, were so trampled over by the rival forces that little remains of the potatoes, beets and cabbage, which would have sustained Belgium this winter. Pastures suffered as badly as the cultivated lands, and the beautiful Holstein cows, which afforded Belgium's milk and cheese supply, have nearly all been driven away by the German army. A few horses unfit for work remain in the fields, and the faithful dogs, which are harnessed beneath the high two-wheeled carts of the peasants, are about the only domestic animals left.

It is no uncommon sight to see a family of refugees on the Malines road with their bedding, a few household utensils and children too young to walk, loaded on one of these carts, pushed by a tired mother, assisted by the dog tugging patiently at the axle.

A GREAT SPY SYSTEM

INNOCENT LOOKING SKETCHES OF COWS ARE FULL OF SIGNIFICANCE—SYSTEM DISCLOSED

One of the surprising features of the war is the elaborate and extensive spy system that has been disclosed, particularly on the part of the Germans. Some of the clever tricks practiced by these parties is told in the special war issue of the Scientific American of Nov. 7, in a genuine letter from the firing line, written by an aide-de-camp of the

French army, who tells the following incidents:

It has just been discovered that the spies who kept the army of the famous Gen. van Kluck informed were using a very old way of proceeding, very romantic indeed, that of the gipsies, the vagabonds and the tramps, who, as a means of corresponding with each other draw varied figures on the walls of the farms and houses along the road.

One thinks he is looking at the artless drawings of a child, while these awkward lines have a precise significance, and the smallest detail is full of meaning. Moreover, the German spies have lately copied a burglar's trick, and this is how:

On the walls are seen some simple drawings, which do not attract attention, and before which no one would stop. The design, for instance, represents a cow, the face is artlessly drawn, however, easily discernible. Sometimes the cows are of small dimensions, or medium, or very big. Some are looking one way, some another. Certain of them have the head raised toward the sky.

These cows were drawn by the scouts. A small cow meant that the road was poorly guarded; a bigger one that there were French troops in the neighborhood; and a still bigger cow that a fort or some important work of defense was to be found nearby.

To render the information more precise, the orientation of the cow's head gave indications as to the dangerous spots to be avoided, or to be watched. As for the cows looking toward the sky, their meaning was that before advancing any farther it was necessary to explore the surrounding country.

Edward Murphy, James Corbett, Willie Miland and Joseph Hoey, employees of the Bay State mills, have decided to keep their camp at Silver Lake open throughout the winter months.

Bill Barry of the Hartford-Bislow Carpet Co. wins the distinction of being the best crib player at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, defeating Mike Moran of the Massachusetts mills.

Charles Farwell's duties as secretary of the Manufacturers Bowling league must have impaired his bowling eye. We don't see his name at the top of the list.

Clarence Spaulding of the Field Lumber Shoe Co. gives promise of developing into quite an able artist. Clarence is rolling well above the averages.

Alton Blake of the A. G. Pollard Co. will in all probability be seen in basketball this coming season. Alton is a tall, rangy fellow and has played centre on some fast teams.

Bennie Persans of the U. S. Hobbin & Shuttle Co. will have in his hands the job now that winter is upon us, but this shouldn't worry him. He's done it before.

Many employees of the American Hide & Leather company will attend the future concert in Associate hall next Sunday evening in celebration of the Manchester martyrs under the auspices of the Allen, Larkin and O'Brien club. The concert program promises to be a rouser.

The friends of Jimmie Liston, the speedy little halfback of the local high school team, who during the summer was employed at the U. S. Hobbin Co., should feel exceptionally proud of him. This boy has been one of the mainstays of the local eleven all through the season, and his work was mainly instrumental in defeating Nashua High Wednesday afternoon. Watch him next year.

Machinists Union Held Smoker

The Machinists union held a largely attended smoker last evening in the union headquarters in Middle street, followed by a "smoker," which proved quite enjoyable. President Walter Phelps presided at the business session and called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Quite a list of routine business was disposed of and seven new members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. Cigars and refreshments were then passed, and a carefully arranged musical program was carried out. Messrs. Bedour and Lescault played several duets on the piano and were given a grand reception.

Many of the members were contributed by the members of the organization, and interesting remarks were made by the officers. The evening's festivities closed with the members listening to the secretary's report, which showed the union to be in a flourishing condition both financially and numerically.

Meeting Postponed

Owing to the inclement weather, the meeting and entertainment scheduled by the West & Shaw Workers union for last night was called off. The meeting was to have been held in flanneling hall, and a goodly number of members of the union put in appearance, but Organized Daniel E. Whalen, who has by hard work built up a strong organization in this city, did not deem it advisable to hold the meeting. The full complement of members present. By calling off the meeting Mr. Whalen suffered quite a loss in money, as he had widely advertised the affair. The talent who were to contribute to the entertainment were also in attendance, but accepted to the wishes of Mr. Whalen, and offered their services for the next meeting, which promises to be a rouser. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

A. G. Pollard E. M. R. A.

The A. G. Pollard Employees Mutual Benefit association meeting which was to have been held in the shoe department after work last evening, was postponed owing to bad weather. The meeting was called to take action on the dancing party which is an annual event conducted by the association. Another meeting will be called at an early date, and it is to be hoped that the members will forego their hunger for a few brief minutes and show by their attendance that they are willing to take an active part in making the affair an unprecedented success.

J. L. Chaffoux Bowling Tournament

The clerks of the J. L. Chaffoux store will assemble at one of the local alleys tonight and witness the second games on the store bowling tournament. Most of the teams have been undergoing secret practice and exceptional scores are sure to be recorded. Bill Souder, captain of the gent's finishing team, who has been the biggest over consistent bowler, is said to be quite a few of the members of other teams are looking for his scalp. Whether they get it remains to be seen. Mr. Morton Walker, as usual, has charge of the arrangements. During the evening refreshments will be served to the fired bowlers and spectators alike, and the evening spent promises to be very enjoyable.

Domestic and Imported

Attention has been called to the fact that there is a vast deal of information relative to the value of domestic and imported fabrics prevalent throughout the country. This matter has been discussed at greater or less length in previous issues of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, and comparisons of fabrics have been made at various times, conclusively proving that the products of our domestic mills are frequently of greater intrinsic worth than those manufactured abroad. In years past it is quite probable that there was a legitimate reason for this belief, as the industry was in a state of development and could not be expected to have attained the same degree of skill as in countries where woolen manufacturing has been carried on for many generations.

In more recent years, however, the domestic manufacturer has become more expert in fabric construction, as well as in the manipulation of raw materials, and at the present time is capable of producing fabrics equal to those made in any manufacturing country in the world. The responsibility for the continuance of the fallacy that imported goods are superior to those manufactured in our own country may be laid at the door of the retailer almost entirely. It is customary to feature imported goods and to demand for them prices far higher than could be obtained for similar goods of domestic manufacture, even though our own goods are of greater intrinsic worth.

In past years our tariff laws have been such that it was impossible to profitably import medium and low grade fabrics, and as a result the imported fabrics shown were of distinctly high type. For this reason the majority of the consuming public has become imbued with the idea that nothing but high grade fabrics were manufactured by foreign mills.

This is a very much mistaken idea, the foreign manufacturer being particularly efficient in the production of woolsens containing a minimum of wool. A proof of this contention may be found in the fact that England and the continent are the best markets in the world for rags and by-products suitable for manufacturing into woolen goods. At the present time, the quantities of woolsens are very much increased because of war conditions abroad. It would seem that a concerted effort to do away with this false impression as to relative values might be productive of excellent results.

It must be evident to every one who examines the offerings of our better established and department stores that vast quantities of merchandise represented as the products of foreign looms are really of domestic origin, or that the figures furnished by the government as to the value of imports are of but little worth. Statistics show that nearly imported fabrics are marketed in rather limited quantities to a restricted trade, while if we are to believe the statements of the retailer, a considerable part of his stock consists of goods manufactured abroad. The most recent statistics available show that the entire quantity of woollen and worsted fabrics imported are somewhat less than 2 per cent. of the total quantity manufactured in this country. If this is true, and there is every reason to believe that the government figures relative to these matters are accurate, there must be an enormous percentage of domestic-made goods marketed as imported.

Probably the majority of those conversant with the merchandising of the woollen and worsteds are familiar with the fact that greater profits can be obtained by falsely labeling domestic products as imported, and that such goods are very prevalent. We are personally cognizant of the fact that a leading New England mill has manufactured thousands of pieces of men's wear fabrics having special listings, special tickets, and special methods of packaging, which have been sold to the ultimate consumer as foreign goods, while at the same time the mill was producing a superior fabric which reached the ultimate consumer at a much lower price, due to the fact that it was marketed as the product of an American mill.

SLAUGHTER OF CATTLE TO COST STATE $25,000

Estimate in the Foot and Mouth Disease Campaign — Payment for Losses Delayed

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The cost to the state for the slaughter of cattle infected with the foot and mouth disease will reach at least $25,000, according to Lieut. Gov. Barry, who as chairman of the committee on finance and accounts of the executive council, says the council cannot approve the bills and that payment for animals slaughtered must be put up to the next legislature.

He had a conference yesterday with Commissioner Fred F. Walker, to whom he suggested that out of an extraordinary expense fund of $100,000, with which the executive council started the year, there remains only about $30,000 for the extra expenses of a number of state institutions.

It was suggested by Lieut. Gov. Barry to Commissioner Walker that there is a constantly increasing number of complaints coming to the executive council from poultry raisers, Hebrew rabbis and dealers in poultry as to quarantine regulations ordered by the council on recommendation of Commissioner Walker.

Mr. Barry suggested that the council should not be expected to decide every case, and that the commissioner should be able to tell what permits might safely be granted without endangering the cattle of the state.

Commissioner Walker is understood to have assured the lieutenant governor that where it could be shown that no danger of infection was possible permits would be granted.

The state cattle bureau officials advised Oliver J. Coburn of Dracut that it will be necessary to kill 57 head of

CAUGHT IN SNOW STORM

Fears Are Felt For the Safety of a Three-Masted Schooner and Her Crew at Kennebunkport, Me.

Kennebunkport, Me., Nov. 20.

Feats were felt today for the safety of a three-masted schooner and her crew of five men, caught in the snow storm in a dangerous position off Kennebunkport point. The crew attempted to reach shore in their yawl but were forced back by the high seas and heavy northerly wind.

The schooner was anchored in deep water, about a mile off shore but was between two shoals and in danger of being wrecked if the anchors failed to hold. In response to distress signals assistance was summoned from Portland and word was sent to the Hildebrand life-saving station. There are no boats at the station that could reach the schooner, but relief was expected during the forenoon from the revenue cutter service.

The revenue cutter Woodbury was at Portland with her boilers blown down while they are being cleaned preparatory to the opening of the winter season. The officers, however, secured the Fall River tug Concord, which was stowabound in Portland and Lieutenant Brown, with a number of the Woodbury's crew started out shortly after 9:30 o'clock to attempt to reach the distressed vessel.

The men, who tried to reach shore for the purpose of summoning help or escaping from their precarious position struggled for nearly half an hour in the seas, kicked up by the northerly winds which at times during the night reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour along the coast. Finding they were unable to make headway they gave up the attempt and managed to return to their vessel.

The schooner apparently was coal-laden.

ESCAPED DESTRUCTION

Chatham Life-saving Station Was Seriously Threatened By Last Night's Unusually High Tide and Storm

CHATHAM, Nov. 20.—The Chatham life-saving station which was seriously threatened by last night's unusually high tide and storm escaped destruction although the waves tore off the slings on one side as high as the windows. The life-savers, who were prepared to abandon the station, managed to maintain their patrols throughout the night with great difficulty. At daylight the rain had ceased and no vessels were in sight off the coast.

BUZZARD IN PORTLAND

Wind Piles the Snow Up and Cars Are Operated With Much Difficulty in Some Branches

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 20.—The first snowstorm of the season began about 6 o'clock last night after a light rain and at midnight had become almost a blizzard. The electric lines are still running, but with considerable difficulty on some of the branches. There has been a very heavy fall of snow and the wind is driving it hard. Many telephones are out of commission.

FISHING SCHOONERS

Four Tons From Their Anchorages During Gale and Driven Ashore at Provincetown

PROVINCETOWN, Nov. 20.—Four fishing schooners, the Matthew Grier, Natalie Nelson, Rosa, Dorothea and Rebecca were torn from their anchorages during the gale early today and driven ashore on the west side of the harbor. The Rebecca had her stern smashed, but the other three were not damaged and it is expected that they will be floated at high water this afternoon.

The gale last night on the end of the cape was the hardest since last spring and other fishermen had difficulty in holding on to their ground tackle.

O'Sullivan Says:

It looks now as though Umbrellas and Raincoats would be the most interesting items to talk about today—we have them in plenty.

The truth is we had installed a window dress, beginning with the Boys' window on Worthen street, with everything for boys' wear except shoes that you can think of. Next comes the window devoted to Men's Furnishings and Sweaters, the prices marked to indicate a number of special drives from this active department.

We now take the immense front on Merrimack street, devoted to a display of Men's Winter Suits and Overcoats, the prices ranging on coats from $15.00 to $35.00 and suits from $15.00 to $25.00 and it isn't the prices that'll appeal so loudly to you as the styles, colorings and values they indicate.

The men of Lowell who have a thought of buying clothing in their mind should visit this magnificent clothing display.

Keep uppermost in your mind, here is clothing that was made in Massachusetts by Boston labor, who for all we know may be wearing goods made in Lowell. This is an age of reciprocity; there is no need of going outside of Massachusetts to get good clothing especially when you get goods like A. Shuman & Co.'s of Boston in a store like the Merrimack Clothing Co., and at prices lower than you can actually buy them in Boston for—on account of consideration of rent and other things. I have told you the story; it's up to you to patronize home industry or not, but lack the goods over anyway before you purchase.

FEDERAL RELIEF FOR SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

$200,000 Aid Restricted — No Money to Build—Available for Food and Shelter Only

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Plain charity, rather than aid to self-support, is the purpose to which the relief fund of $200,000 for sufferers from the Salem fire must be devoted, according to a ruling promulgated yesterday by Controller of the Treasury Downey.

The fund, says this ruling, may not be applied even indirectly to the rehabilitation of the city, but must be used solely and exclusively for providing food, clothing and shelter for those who may be destitute.

The money, added Mr. Downey, becomes available at once and the fund will be administered by officers of the war department under the supervision of Secretary Garrison.

This ruling was evoked by a suggestion that the fund might be used for paying sufferers for work in rehabilitating the city, such as the excavation of sewers, the rebuilding of public structures and along similar lines.

That such was not the purpose was the opinion of the judge advocate general of the war department, who was questioned by Secretary Garrison after several talks with Representative Gardner, the sponsor of the resolution. In this view the controller coincides.

NOT UNEXPECTED IN SALEM

Sec. Tivnan Says Fire Sufferers Will Feel Placed Because of the Action of Controller

SALEM, Nov. 20.—Decision by Geo. E. Downey, controller of the treasury, that no portion of the $200,000 appropriated by congress for relief of sufferers by fire in this city June 25 can be used to assist in rehabilitation work, is regretted by a large number here.

Such a verdict had long been anticipated, especially since the visit of Brig. Gen. Carroll A. Devol, who investigated the situation at the request of Secretary of War Garrison.

After Gen. Devol had submitted his findings a delegation of the fire relief committee went to Washington to denounce the needs of the fire sufferers.

Members of the relief committee, including Chairman John F. Moore, questioned the propriety of sending a delegation to Washington, yet the majority thought otherwise.

John B. Tivnan, secretary of the committee, vigorously condemned the decision of Controller Downey, and says among other things: "Owing to action by congress in appropriating $200,000 for relief of Salem sufferers, the fire relief committee regarded the money as additional to donations made by the public."

Owing to the action of congress, information was sent throughout the country that on account of the seeming benevolence of congress, subscriptions by the public should cease on a definite date. Had it been known that the federal government was not to furnish the $200,000, the people of the city would not have been advised to cease subscriptions when they did.

"Of course Salem can get along without the $200,000 federal appropriation, yet a great many fire sufferers will feel the pinch of poverty and the burden of taxation much more because of refusal to carry out the intent of congress in an act voluntarily proposed by President Wilson and advocated by Gov. Walsh, Congressman Gardner and Phelan and other big-hearted statesmen."

In conclusion Mr. Tivnan says: "Right-hearted officials might easily have found as great an obstacle in the way of the $100,000 appropriated by Massachusetts, as appeared to stand in the way of the federal appropriation, but Gov. Walsh and Atty. Gen. Boynton found a way to overcome the legal hitch. Not a single dissenter was heard, simply because the commonwealth lived up to her record—giving freely, heartily and sympathetically."

Allies Repulse Three Vigorous Attacks by German Infantry

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE OF LOWELL WOMAN

Mrs. Littlefield Got Her Husband Through an Advertisement and Now Sends Order to Lowell

"It pays to advertise" so says Charles Royce, a section foreman for a railroad at Knife river, London crossing Minnesota, for the westerner advertised in a newspaper for a wife and he got one, and right here in Lowell and his bride was formerly Mrs. Emma Littlefield of Wills street, this city, who left Lowell last August for Minnesota, where recently she was married to Mr. Royce. Mrs. Royce is now happy inasmuch as she has her two sons, Frank and Charles, with her.

It seems that sometime in July Mrs. Littlefield, who was employed at the Whitcomb Manufacturing Co. in Rock street, saw an advertisement in a newspaper where a man away out in Minnesota wanted a Lowell bride. Mrs. Littlefield replied to the advertisement in a joking way and pretty soon numerous letters were exchanged. Finally the correspondence became serious and the "lovers" exchanged photographs and an engagement followed.

Last August Mrs. Littlefield received a check covering her traveling expenses to Minnesota and accompanied by her two sons, Frank, aged 18 years, and Charles, 12 years of age, she set out for the west.

Not a word was received from the bride until yesterday, when a clerk in the shoe department of the A. G. Pollard Co. store received a large order for shoes from Mrs. Littlefield, who is now Mrs. Royce. The woman in her letter states she is married to the man she corresponded with and is very happy. She states her two sons are living with her, Frank being employed with his step-father, while Charles attends school. The letter also states that the husband is a section foreman on the railroad and a "very nice" man, who believes in advertising. It is safe to assume that the A. G. Pollard Co. also believes in advertising for it was through an advertisement placed in The Sun that the store received an order for shoes to be delivered at Knife River, London crossing, Minnesota.

GERMANS ATTEMPT TO CRUSH RUSSIAN ARMY

Lull in the West and Activity in East Taken by London to Indicate That German Chiefs Have Decided to Concentrate Energies Against Russia

The coming of winter having interrupted the fighting along the North sea coast, Germany is making an effort to pierce the line of the allies at another point. The French war office announced today that in the region of the Argonne forest, where severe engagements have been in progress for the last few days, three vigorous attacks had been made by German infantry. These assaults, it is said, were repulsed.

The importance of the outcome of this battle, foreign military critics explain, lies in the fact that if the Germans should succeed in pushing back the allies they would be able to join forces with their troops, which, farther to the east, have thrust a sharp wedge into the line. Such a junction of forces would result in the surrounding of the strong fortress of Verdun, which the German crown prince attacked in vain during the earlier days of the war.

The reply of the allies to this challenge was an attack on the Germans in the neighborhood of Verdun. An official German statement today said:

Second Edition FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE PREVENTION

Rigorous Measures by Federal Authorities — Merchants Notified to Burn Wrapping Material

As the result of the spread of "foot and mouth" disease extraordinary precautions are being taken, not only by the state and federal governments, but also by the owners of valuable herds, many of whom have posted their farms with "no trespassing" signs. These signs are in evidence everywhere at the Hood farm and, as an extra precaution, the herd at the Hood farm, and swine as well, have been fenced in. Visitors are not allowed, not even members of the local board of health or their inspectors.

While the state cattle bureau has been obliged to delay the slaughter of the Coburn herd in Draught, other herds out that way have been examined for symptoms of the malady. Mr. E. Fox and George E. Parker of Draught purchased cows in Brighton and they all have been examined. The cows purchased by Mr. Fox were among those in the Brighton shipment, part of which were received by Mr. Coburn, and Mr. Parker bought his cows a week or so after the Coburn cows arrived. The cattle on the Fox and Parker farms show no traces of the disease.

The Greatest Precaution

It is almost impossible for the ordinary citizen to appreciate the unusual precaution that is being taken by the United States government against the spread of the disease. Local merchants receiving shipments of goods packed in straw or excelsior are obliged to destroy the packing. Heretofore the straw and excelsior went to the Salvation Army, but now it must be destroyed.

The government is not satisfied with one's word either that the straw and excelsior will be destroyed, but require an affidavit. G. C. Prince & Son ordered a shipment of Japanese goods from a New York house and, before the goods were shipped, received notice from the New York house that the U. S. government required them to procure an affidavit that the straw used in packing contained in the shipment would be destroyed as soon after receipt as possible. Mr. Prince complied with the very unusual requirement and the straw will go up in smoke in his furnace instead of being given away to serve as bedding for cows and horses.

WAR BULLETINS

PARIS, Nov. 20.—A despatch from Rome to the Fourrier Agency states that Prince Von Bismarck has been appointed German ambassador in Italy. Recent despatches from Rome have indicated that Herr Von Bismarck, the German ambassador there, was about to resign. Prince Bernhard Von Bismarck, formerly chancellor of the German empire who usually resides in Rome and who through his Italian marriage has great influence in Italian society, was mentioned as likely to take the post in view of its importance at this crisis.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Great Britain today prohibited the exportation of tea to all continental ports, except those countries of the allies and of Spain and Portugal. This prohibition is due to indications that Germany is receiving large supplies of tea through the Netherlands.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Dublin, N. H., has taken the lead for per capita contributions to the Red Cross European war relief. With a population of 600 persons Dublin has subscribed $1800, three dollars for every man, woman and child in the town. In addition Dublin has given $1000 to the Belgian relief committee and much clothing and supplies.

ROME, Nov. 20.—Reports from Trieste telegraphed from the frontier say that the duty on grain which is falling throughout Austria. The abolition of the duty on grain which was opposed by the agrarian party was granted today by the government to be of service as Rumania, the only neutral state that could easily export grain into Austria, has prohibited its export. But little grain, it is stated, is reaching Austria from America and Argentina because of the Anglo-French blockade.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Major Adolph Messini at one time minister of war in the French cabinet and who recently was decorated with the Legion of Honor for an act of bravery on the battlefield, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel. The former war minister went to the front at the outbreak of the war as a member of the general staff.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Daily News states that news has been received that the Hamburg American liner Ek Batana has been sunk in the Persian gulf. There are no details of how this was accomplished. The Ek Batana, a vessel of about 8000 tons, was last reported to have arrived at Bussorah, Asiatic Turkey, early in August.

BOY BANDITS IN COURT

Judge Enright Sentenced All Three in Police Court Today—An Actor Artist Sent to Jail

The three youthful robbers who made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the store of Clayton B. Stoddard at 798 Moody street last Saturday night were arraigned before Judge Enright in the local court today. Two of the boy bandits, John F. Mitchell, aged 15 years, of Merrimack street, and William Vigeant, aged 14 years, of Pawtucket street, were brought into the juvenile court and after pleading guilty to being armed with a revolver and to assisting with intent to rob George B. Stoddard, aged about 60 years, manager of the store and father of the owner, they were ordered committed to the industrial school for boys at Salisbury. The third lad, Dana J. Dufee, aged 17 years, of Merrimack street, entered a plea of not guilty to the same charge but the evidence showed that he was implicated in the matter and he was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory.

During the trial of Dufee the story of the boys' plans was outlined from beginning to end. It seems that about two weeks ago Mitchell purchased a cheap 22 calibre revolver from a boy in Centralville. He and young Vigeant then lived for a week or more in a small shed in Pawtucket street. Last Saturday afternoon the pair called at the home of Dufee's parents in Merrimack street and invited Dana to go to a motion picture show. The trio went to the show and on their way home it is claimed, Vigeant mentioned that there was "easy money" in a Moody street bakery which was conducted by an elderly gentleman. The story of the attempted robbery and firing a shot at Mr. Stoddard has already been printed.

The Dufee boy's father said that he never heard a complaint about his son before, but realized the seriousness of the crime. He appealed from the sentence to the reformatory, and bail was fixed at $200.

Actor Sentenced

Robert Lee, an actor connected with a local stock company, pleaded guilty to assault and battery upon his wife, Pearl, and also to a complaint charging him with statutory offence. Judge Morgan of East Boston also pleaded guilty to a statutory offence.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly has filed his petition for a recount with the city clerk. The time for the filing of recount papers will expire at 5 o'clock this afternoon and at that hour, or a little later, the board of registrars of voters will meet for the purpose of deciding upon a time for the recount which, in all probability, will be held Monday morning. The belief that the recount would include only certain wards seemed to obtain in certain quarters, but that is a wrong impression. The recount will include all of the wards and the entire aldermanic vote will be counted.

School for Italians

Italians living in Lowell, and who have been thrown out of work for one cause or another, are desirous of improving their spare time by going to school and getting better acquainted with the English language. Fifteen Italians sent delegations to Superintendent J. J. McLaughlin to see what could be done in the way of procuring a class room and engaging a teacher. The fifteen Italians seemed anxious to attend school so that they have saved money enough to put them through the winter and instead of loafing around the streets they want to go to school and improve their time. They want a day school.

Dwelling and Store

Oliver Deauregard has been granted a permit at the office of Commissioner of the city hall for the erection of a building to include a dwelling and store at 365-363 Broadway. The building will be 25 by 55 feet, two and one-half stories. The estimated cost is $2500.

A hearing under the workmen's compensation act will be held in the aldermanic chamber at city hall on Dec. 14 at 10:30 a. m. David T. Dickinson of the state board will preside. Two candidates for chauffeurs' licenses took the weekly examination at city hall this forenoon. Mr. Lalrope, representing the Massachusetts highway commission, was the examiner.

THE RIVER PROJECT

COLONEL CRAIGHILL OF BOSTON IS NOT WILLING TO LET HIS REPORT BE PUBLISHED

Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade received a letter this morning from the chief clerk in Colonel Craighill's office in Boston in reference to a request sent in by the local board for a copy of the colonel's report on the project of deepening the Merrimack river in order to make it navigable from Lowell to the sea. The letter states there is no copy of the report available, but the report can be inspected by individuals at the office of the colonel in Boston, but not for publication.

The letter also gives the information that the district engineer considers the construction of a dam in the river, which would largely diminish the tidal flow, as attended with serious objections both as to the pondage of sewage and as to the effect of such a dam upon the existing improvement of the river at the mouth by tidal scour.

The board of trade is now making arrangements for the meeting which will be held at Colonial hall on the evening of Dec. 3, and this morning the president and secretary got in touch with prominent out-of-town men in an endeavor to secure interesting speakers for the event.

SUPERIOR COURT CASES

The civil session of the superior court broke down this morning, not because there were no more cases on the list, but for the fact that a number of cases which were scheduled to go on trial this week were settled out of court. The case of Raymond B. Chadbourne vs. the Teel Mfg. Co. et al., trustees, which went to trial yesterday was brought to a close this forenoon and given the jury.

Jury Waived Session

In the jury waived session, Justice Quinn presiding, a Boston law case occupied the attention of the court yesterday afternoon and this forenoon. At the close of this case an action for conversion of property brought by Doherty Bros. of this city against Esrael Greenberg, also of Lowell, went to trial. In this case it seems that Mr. Greenberg purchased the buildings formerly occupied by Cole & Nichols, founders in Willis street, while Doherty Bros. purchased the tools and equipment of the place and they also claim they purchased a certain building which the defendant demolished and removed. William D. Reagan for the plaintiffs and Bennett Silverblatt for the defendant.

OSBORNE ACCEPTS POST

PRISON REFORM ADVOCATE, WHO WAS ONE WEEK A "PRISONER," TO BE WARDEN OF SING SING

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Thomas Mott Osborne, chairman of the commission of prison reform, has accepted the post of warden of Sing Sing prison. The announcement was made last night by the Prison Association of New York, which made public Mr. Osborne's letter of acceptance to John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons. Mr. Osborne, in the letter, says his delay in giving a definite answer was caused only by doubt as to whether he could best serve the cause of prison reform by accepting an official position. Mr. Osborne, who is 35 years old and a man of wealth, became chairman of the commission on prison reform in 1913 and in the fall of that year attracted national attention by undergoing a week's voluntary imprisonment in Auburn prison.

Nearly 2000 have booked passage on the liner and others desirous of going back could not be accommodated. It will be the largest steerage list ever taken from this port. The first message of support was from Representative-Elect Richard Olney 2d, of Massachusetts.

BILLINGS, MONT., Nov. 20.—More than 40,000 sheep and 1000 cattle, ready for market, are being held in quarantine against the foot and mouth disease. BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—Political reform organizations must "come down to earth," they must remove the sign of the "highbrow" and substitute the "dollar mark," which alone apparently, is sufficiently potent to be effective," according to a report to the National Municipal League today by its committee on plan of political organization.

The committee has not completed its work, and the report is described as only an "interlocutory expression." It was prepared by the chairman, A. Leo Weil, president of the Voters League of Pittsburgh.

In part the report is as follows: "A plan of political organization which relies for its support upon that class who have reached the elevation where they look down upon selfishness and are moved solely by altruistic considerations, must fail. The number is too limited."

"It will not do for the so-called 'high brow' to involve against the complacency of the average citizen. This gets him nowhere. It will not do to assume that all voters are corruptly influenced when they support political faction. This presupposes the preponderance of corruption. The

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEI

Also One of the Best Remedies for Head Colds or Bronchitis.

Be wise in time and use Hyomei at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, constant sniffing, drooping in the throat, or dull headaches. Do not let the disease become deep-seated for it will surely wreck your health, often causing the loss of hearing, and if not checked may result in one of the most dreaded diseases. Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh—it is the direct method—you breathe it so that the medication goes right to the sore and diseased tissues lining the air passages of the head and throat. Its antiseptic healing must begin at once.

It's no bother to use Hyomei. Simply put a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, that comes with every complete outfit, and breathe it. You will feel better after the first breath of Hyomei. It clears the head and throat like magic; while after a few days' use you will notice all your catarrhal symptoms are disappearing. There is nothing easier, quicker or more satisfying for catarrh than Hyomei which can be had at any drug store. It is not merely a relief but a sure and lasting benefit—and most economical.

SULLIVAN CASE

Grand Jury Ends Investigation at Houlton—More Arrests Expected

HOULTON, Me., Nov. 20.—The Androscoggin county grand jury, investigating the death of Mildred Sullivan, has completed its labors, and the report that a prominent local man is connected with the case has been much strengthened.

Contrary to the plans of the prosecuting officer, who expected to have several more witnesses go before the jurors tomorrow, it was decided late yesterday that enough testimony had been given the grand jurors.

Whether Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, accused of the murder of Mildred Sullivan, will be indicted on this charge or manslaughter is known only to the grand jurors. Nothing will be given out until a partial report is made to the court when it opens. Just when this will be is uncertain. Some time next week seems to be the general opinion of those who are in a position to know.

The last witness to go before the grand jury was Kate Michaud, the Wallingford nurse, whose confession to the county authorities was responsible for finding the body of Mildred Sullivan.

She entered the jury room shortly after 2 this afternoon and it was nearly 6 before she came out. That more arrests will be made in the case seems probable.

"We will fight to the bitter end, no matter how strong public sentiment is against us," said Raymond W. Shaw, chief counsel for Dr. Dudley and Alice and Perley Pelletier, held as accessories.

The Cambridge girl, Ruth Devenney, was a witness yesterday.

"My God! I have killed her!" are the words said to have been uttered by Dr. Dudley on the night Mildred Sullivan was operated upon at his office, according to Kate Michaud's confession to County Attorney Archibald.

The music will be in charge of Frederick Butler of the Alice Neilson Opera company fame, who resigned his position in that company to travel with Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman on his trip around the world. His wife accompanies him as pianist. Prof. E. O. Excell also has a large part in the musical program.

In all there are twenty-one speakers and musicians who compose the squadron. The meetings will be held in Associate hall, Nov. 23 and 30 and Dec. 1, at 2.30 and 7.30. Arrangements have been made for overflow meetings in the First Congregational and Unitarian churches at the same time and speakers will go from place to place.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

In my last, I mentioned the mayoralty and aldermanic tickets of a quarter of a century ago. In those days there was also a common council of 24 members, four from each of the six wards, the president of which was quite a power as he was a member of the school board, ex-officio, and had the appointment of the councilman committees. In days when the committees were also powers. For instance, there was an annual battle for a place on the committee on streets, for the members of that committee practically placed all the men who worked on the street. Public drainage, all work was laid out and all appropriations estimated by the committees, and hence the superintendents of the different departments, naturally kept in good favor with the members of their respective committees. The caucus committee, for common council were always lively for in practically every ward they were decided in the caucuses.

The candidates of 25 years ago were as follows:

Democratic Nominees

Under the headlines, "Completion of Our Ticket," the old Sun has the following:

"Thursday night the democrats of the city met in the ward rooms to nominate candidates for the common council and the school board. Every thing passed off smoothly, and the nominations were made in fairness to all candidates. In wards two and five there was a sort of disposition to endorse the republican candidates for the school board but the majority of the voters insisted upon straight nominations and they were made straight.

The caucus in ward three exposed the fact that there were no flies on Councilman Sparks who will be sent once more to the common council. Editor Houston of the Times was nominated for the school board in ward four and for the council in ward five. He will defend the former nomination, as he is not a voter in ward four. In ward three it took all night to count the ballots, the count not being completed until 7.30 this morning. The counters were paid for their trouble out of purse made up by the candidates.

Ward 2. Common council: Alexander C. Houston, Lubin Parais, Thomas W. Duddy and William S. MacKenzie. Dr. Andrew J. Halpin for the school board.

Ward 3. Common council: Thomas J. Sparks, H. H. Buchanan, Charles L. Marron, Robert C. Gallagher, George M. Harrigan was renominated by acclamation for the school board. This was the largest caucus ever held in any ward in Lowell.

Ward 4. For council: George W. Lang, Philip Gibbs, Thomas G. Little and Philip S. Carey. For school board, A. C. Houston.

Ward 5. For council: James W. Cassidy, Thomas J. McLaughlin, Henry J. Draper and Charles F. White, William V. Meade for the school board. Daniel D. Driscoll, George H. Brown (not the same), and Thomas J. Brown. Dr. Hugh Walker was nominated for the school board by acclamation.

Republican Nominees

Concerning the republican nomination the old Sun had the following:

"Thursday evening the republicans held caucuses for the purpose of electing a city committee and nominating candidates for the common council and the school board. Everything passed off smoothly and business was transacted in short order. The nominations for the common council and the school board were as follows:

Ward 1. For council: Samuel H. Clark, Homer H. Nay, Ames B. Phillips, Thomas Don. For school board, William D. Brown.

Clark, Nathan Alare, W. C. Coburn, J. Stuart Murphy. For school board, Greenleaf C. Brock.

Ward 3. For council: Ambrose Hinde, Joseph H. Ashworth, Charles A. Rock, Charles D. Holve. For school board, John Monson.

Ward 4. The present councilmanic delegation was renominated: E. J. Hale, Edwards Cheney, A. G. Walsh, Frank Gray. For school board, Rev. R. A. Greene.

Ward 5. For council: Orford R. Reed, Henry W. Ladd, (renominated), Louis P. Turcotte, Herbert M. Jacobs, Walter Coburn was renominated by acclamation for the school board.

Ward 6. For council: Albert Crowell, F. G. Hobbs; Benjamin Havelle, Edward F. Spalding. For school board, Clarence P. Burnham.

J. J. Chalfoux's Opening

If I were a stockholder in the J. J. Chalfoux company, which unfortunately I am not, I'd have the papers filled with "ads" today announcing a grand "silver jubilee sale" for tomorrow, for 25 years ago tomorrow the late J. J. Chalfoux opened his establishment in the Central building and presented to the public what was then considered one of the finest stores of its kind in New England. The old Sun in "writing up" the opening presented a 3-column cut of the new Central building which in those days was a most imposing edifice and had the following:

"Thursday evening (Nov. 21), J. J. Chalfoux scored another success as wide-awake merchant and the whole city looked on and wondered at the enterprise of the man. Almost the whole floor space of the new Central block, 20,000 square feet in all, is now devoted to his business. Mr. Chalfoux needs no introduction to the public. He has been here since 1889 and during his residence he has established himself as the head and brains of a gigantic business. He came here a poor young man and today he is one of the business kings of northern Massachusetts. His business enterprise, honest dealing and a perfect knowledge of his business has made his success. He is also an important factor in the business life of Manchester, N. H., controlling as he does in that city one of the largest clothing establishments.

Working as a clerk in a clothing store, he laid aside every cent he could until he had acquired a business capital of $7000. He opened in 1875 a modest establishment, a few doors west of the present Sun building. Here he laid the foundation for the enormous business which he now controls. Three times he has been obliged to move into larger quarters and his latest "move" is the subject of this sketch. For the past six years he has been located in the Shattuck building, occupying two floors and a basement. For a long time he has been cramped for store space.

The completion of the great Central block, the most imposing business building in the city, furnishes the desired space. Arrangements for a lease were made and Mr. Chalfoux has transferred his business to the Central block.

The Sun then described the new establishment in detail, together with the scene on opening day and also had the following:

"The following notice to employees has been a prominent feature in Mr. Chalfoux's establishment for years and every clerk is expected to know it by heart and to live up to its provisions:

"Let the golden rule govern all your transactions with customers and visitors to this store. Do unto others as you would have others do unto you. Do not recommend any article of merchandise unless you can conscientiously say it is honest merchandise and fully worth the price asked for it. If mistakes occur, always rectify them immediately and to the satisfaction of your customer, and always treat your customers as personal friends and never give cause for dissatisfaction with your goods or in any other way."

Mr. Chalfoux has since passed away, leaving behind him a business of far greater magnitude than that described by the Sun of a quarter of a century ago; and a son who has shown his ability to continue the fine reputation established by his respected father as a progressive and honest business man.

NO. CHELMSFORD NEWS

Town Politics Stirring—The Jobs Sought—Coming Social Events—Street Lighting—Boy Scouts

Town politics is the main subject for discussion among the men at the present time in the town of North Chelmsford, and although no one has come out and openly declared his intention of aspiring to the offices within the gift of the people of the town, quite a number are said to be around sounding the sentiment of the voters as to their respective candidacies. It is a well known fact that the present selectman, D. Frank Small, who has done much for the town during his administration, will not be a candidate again under any consideration. Mr. John Marinet, one of the most prominent citizens, and a merchant in the town has been approached by quite a number of voters and asked to be a candidate, but he remains non-committal, and all he has said to date in answer to the many queries is, "Gentlemen, I have troubles of my own!"

Regular Officer for the Town

The general consensus of opinion of the townspeople seems to be that the town should supply a regular officer and do away with the present system of employing two special officers. This they claim would result in the suppression of the many breaks that have been committed during the past and present seasons. This question is quite sure to be agitated at the coming election, owing to the number of breaks committed in the town during the past few months. The men now doing duty as special officers have performed splendid work, in some instances, but their authority is limited, and having other duties to perform, they cannot always be found when wanted. Mr. George Sheppard announces his candidacy for this position, and in a talk with the writer he stated that he was out to work hard for the position. Mr. Sheppard said that much good could be accomplished by a regular officer stationed in the town and that the appointment of one would fill a long felt want.

Assessor's Job

At the coming election the voters will also be called upon to elect an assessor. Mr. James Dunnigan is the present incumbent, and during his stay in office he has filled the position in an admirable manner. He has been mainly instrumental in giving to the people of the town a reduction in the tax rate, which at the present time is only $15 per thousand. It is not known whether Mr. Dunnigan will allow his name to go on the ballot as a candidate for re-election. Several names are mentioned, but as yet no official announcement has been made by any of them.

Annexation to Lowell

Talk of annexing North Chelmsford to the city of Lowell has been brought up and many people of the town, realizing the benefits to be derived, in increased fire protection, police protection, new schools and other equally splendid improvements, look with decided favor on the idea. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the sentiment on this question seems to be well divided.

On the other hand those favoring annexation say that in case of fire, a gang of men would not have to come from their work, run for a horse, drive the horse to the bottom of a hill, hitch up to an antiquated horse wagon and proceed to a fire, with the chances 99 to 100 that the house will be burned before their arrival. The town has been particularly fortunate in the past in not having any serious fires, but such a catastrophe is liable to break out at any moment. They state that with proper police protection, such would be afforded with annexation, the town would be rid of the sensational breaks that have been perpetrated in the past few years.

St. John's Character Party

Next Wednesday evening, which, lest you forgot it, is Thanksgiving eve, the parishioners of St. John's parish, gathered in their best will assemble in the town hall and participate in the second annual character party and bazaar, and indications point to its being a highly successful and enjoyable affair. The affair is in direct charge of Rev. E. C. Mitchell, who has a faithful corps of young ladies and young men of the parish as assistants, and each and everyone of them is striving to make the party the leading event in the social season of the town. A stellar entertainment will precede the dancing and this in itself gives promises of being a long looked for treat. Dainty awards will be presented to the first three ladies and gentlemen wearing the most attractive costumes, after which general dancing will be indulged in until after midnight.

Street Lighting

North Chelmsford has come to the front in the past few years in the matter of street lighting and today the streets of the town are exceptionally well lighted. This is a fitting tribute to the men who have directed the public affairs of the town for the past few years. At night North Chelmsford presents a beautiful picture with its street lights conveniently situated at given points; it can safely be stated that there isn't a dark spot in the residential centre. There are still some of the old fashioned lamps in use, but modern lights in a short time will be substituted for these.

Attempted Burglary

Another burglary was attempted last Friday evening, when some unknown man tried to gain entrance into the drug store situated directly opposite Special Officer Marinet's store. The man was frightened away by a young man who was standing at the entrance of the constable's place of business, and although Mr. Marinet and others proceeded on his trail, no trace could be found of him. Mr. Marinet informed the writer today that the season for breaks is just about to start, and that this year he will wage an active campaign against the thieves. Last year entrance was gained into his store on about six occasions and as a result he lost about $100 in money, not to speak of the cigars and tobacco stolen.

Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts are preparing for an active winter, and rehearsals for their coming minstrel show will be held within a short time. Under the direction of Mr. James Kibber, this group of boys has developed into the largest troop in the state, and shows signs of continuing in the lead. A week or so ago the Boy Scouts did valiant work in suppressing a fire that raged in one of the wooded sections of the town, and although no mention has thus far been made of the fact, they are to be highly complimented on their quick response to the call, and their knowledge of fire fighting.

WAR MARRIAGES

5793 Marriages in Berlin, Germany in One Month

(The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—"War marriages" will materially increase the number of marriages for Berlin this year. When the war broke out many officers and in some cases privates of the reserve and infantry departed for the front, with the result that August 1, 1914, shows a total of marriages for Berlin of 5793 as against 1209 for the same month of last year. In the mobilization week, August 2-8, 3941 marriage contracts were made, of which the largest number was due to the outbreak of the war. The first seven months of 1914 showed 11,629 marriages as against 11,820 in 1913. It is believed here that the number of marriages in Berlin due to the war is not far below 4500. Some of them had been planned for the autumn and winter seasons, and it is expected that for this reason the average for these months will fall below normal. This has already been demonstrated by the records for September, in which month 1570 marriages took place as against 1832 in September, 1913. For 1914, up to and including September, the number of marriages is 18,436 as against 14,754 for the same period of 1913.

The outbreak of the war has also materially influenced for the better the legitimization of children born out of wedlock. In nearly all cases this was done by the father of the child marrying his mother. While in August, 1913, only 168 children were legitimized, their number in August, 1914, was 1018, of which number all but five were given a proper status before the law by marriage. In the first seven months of 1914 only 1099 children were legitimized as against 1492 for the same period in 1913.

HOSTILE PANAMA CANAL WORK

(The Associated Press)

PANAMA, Nov. 20.—A hurry-up order has been issued by Governor Goethals for the completion of the canal. The time limit set by congress is July, 1916, and Colonel Goethals is determined that the last of the finishing touches in every department from dredging to landscape gardening shall be completed ahead rather than behind time. Colonel Goethals himself is setting a pace, and may be seen often at work in the administration building at Balboa late at night.

Men and machines now on the isthmus are said to be working harder than at any time since the great work was started ten years ago. Every morning Colonel Goethals appears at some part of the work where he has not been for several days previously, to hurry things along. There is the case of the steam shovels delving into the side of Sosa Hill from the rock that goes to form the east breakwater in front of Colon harbor. On each one is a huge placard which shows the number of cars loaded as the work progresses. For every job a mark has been set to be surpassed if possible. On Sosa Hill the man who has charge of loading the cars that take the rock 50 miles across the isthmus to the new breakwater is working against the man in charge of transporting those same cars those 50 miles, while the man who unloads them out at the end of the 2-mile trail is rushing things so that he will always be just a little ahead of the other two. At present there are 200 to 250 cars of rock sent him every working day.

Out in Culebra Cut where a large slide recently choked the channel for a few days and canal traffic came to a standstill with a large number of ships seeking passage through dredging cases only during the eight daylight hours when the canal is used for navigation purposes. The other 16 hours are devoted to the fastest dredging the canal has ever seen. The men work in two shifts and as they eat and sleep on the dredges no time is wasted. Their work in handling the recent slide and reopening the canal to traffic within five days won for them high commendation from Colonel Goethals.

FOR SPOT CASH

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF THIS SALE

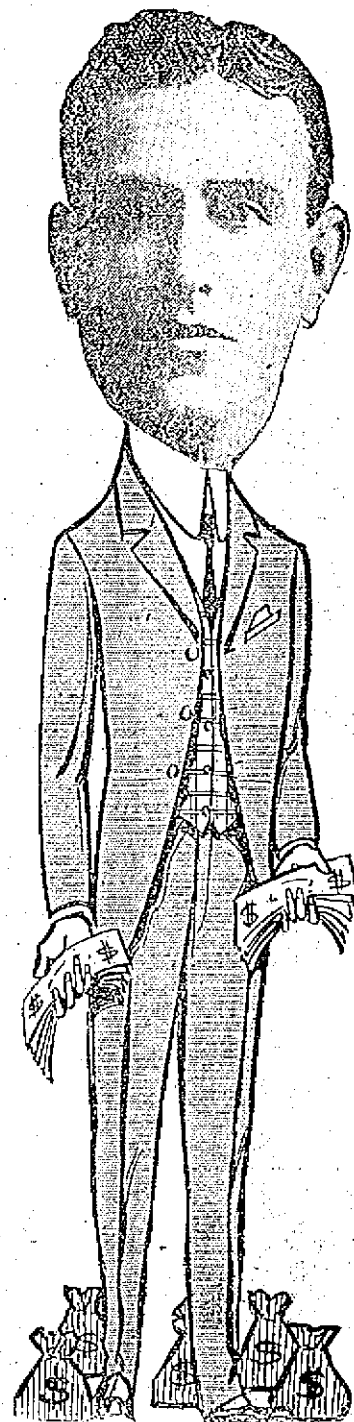

In last Friday's issue of The Sun I advertised the purchase from a Boston commission house of several hundred yards of Sherriffs Worsteds of Fitchburg, Mass., the finest worsteds made in New England. I advertised them made to order any style for $15. I thought this announcement of Sherriffs cloths at that price would create a sensation. Whether the approaching holiday made people feel poor, or general business conditions was the depressing cause, I only know that the greatest trade ever offered in Lowell for many and many a day only brought ordinary business. I offered them last Friday for $15 to order,

I offer the balance to close, today and Saturday, Suit or Overcoat, made to order, any style, for $12.50

The cloth woven by the Sherriff mill of Fitchburg is sold monthly to the high priced tailors—I mean the $25 and $35 tailors, and I state positively that the quality and style of these woollens would warrant such prices. The goods range from $2.50 to $3.50 per yard, and are all worsted fabrics of elegant quality. As a matter of fact, when I bought these goods, I already had an enormous stock in my store. I was tempted by the high class merchandise. My cash offer was accepted, and so added to my already overheavy stock. Another tailor would dispose of these goods slowly and get perhaps regular prices for them. This is not my business policy, however. I bought them ridiculously cheap and I will sell them on the same basis for quick disposal.

I have about five hundred yards of this stock left. Today and Saturday every yard must be sold and my price will be for

Cider Mills Can Make Clear Table Sirup From Perishable Apple Juice—Process Described

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Following extensive experiments begun last spring, the head of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the department of agriculture has applied for a public service patent covering the making of a new form of table sirup from apple juice. This patent will make the discovery, which the specialists believe will be of great value to all apple growers as a means of utilizing their culls and excess apples common property of any cider mill in the United States which wishes to manufacture and sell apple sirup.

The new sirup, one gallon of which is made from seven gallons of ordinary cider, is a clear ruby or amber colored sirup of about the consistency of cane sirup and maple sirup properly sterilized and put in sealed tins or bottles, it will keep indefinitely, and when opened, will keep under household conditions as well as other sirups. It has a distinct fruity aroma and special flavor of its own which is described as being practically the same as the taste of the sirup substance which exudes from a baked apple.

The sirup can be used like maple or other sirups for griddle cakes, cereals, household cookery, and as flavoring in desserts. The government cooking experts are at present experimenting with it in cookery and expect shortly to issue recipes for use of the new sirup in old ways and for taking advantage of its special flavor in novel dishes.

The department chemists have already produced over ten gallons of this sirup in their laboratories, using summer and other forms of apples. The success of the experiment has greatly interested some of the apple growers, and during November a large cider mill in the Hood River valley, Oregon, will in co-operation with the government chemists, endeavor to produce 1000 gallons on a commercial scale and give the new product a thorough market test by making it accessible through retailers in a limited field. The interests of apple growers in the product arises from the fact that the new apple cider sirup promises to give them a commercial outlet for vast quantities of windfall and other apples for which they hitherto could find no market either in perishable raw cider or in vinegar. Cider production, it seems, comes largely at one season of the year during which the market is more or less flooded with this perishable product. The bulk and perishability of the raw cider, moreover, the cider makers state, often make it unprofitable for them to ship the raw cider of one district long distances to a non-apple-growing region. The market for cider, therefore, has been largely restricted in many cases to localities near the area of production. No method of sterilizing ordinary cider has been found practical for the reason that boiling cider at once interferes with its delicate flavor.

With the cider mill able to make a palatable, long-keeping table sirup out of its apple juice, growers, it is believed, will be able to use all excess juice for bottled or canned apple sirup. The new sirup, the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually throughout the year.

The process for making the sirup calls for the addition to a cider mill of a filter press and open kettles or some other concentrating apparatus. The process is described as follows: The raw cider is treated with pure milk of lime until, nearly, but not quite, all of the natural malic acids are neutralized. The cider is then treated to boiling and filtered through a filter press, an essential feature of the process. The resultant liquid is then evaporated either in continuous evaporators or open kettles, just as ordinary cane or sorghum sirup is treated. It then is cooled and allowed to stand for a short time, which causes the lime and acids to form small crystals of calcium malate. The sirup is then re-filtered through the filter press, which removes the crystals of calcium malate and leaves a sirup with practically the same basic composition as ordinary cane sirup. Its flavor, however, and appearance are distinctive.

Calcium malate, the by-product, is a substance used in medicine and at present selling for $2 per pound. It is believed that if calcium malate can be produced in this way cheaply and in large quantities, it can be made commercially useful in new ways, possibly in the manufacture of baking powder.

The cost of making this sirup on a commercial scale will be determined during the test.

"HOWDY, PAPA" TO MOOSE

Here follows the Chicago Herald's account of the entertainment of the Moose in that city on the day preceding the opening of the supreme convention at Mooseheart:

Chicago shouted "Howdy, Papa!" to 20,000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose who paraded the Loop district. The Moose came in herds from all parts of the country on their way to the national convention at Milwaukee. They carried long enough to shout their fraternal greeting and to place the antlers of Moosehood on the heads of 2000 candidates, the largest class the order has initiated. For more than an hour the companies of red and white uniformed men paraded to the music of a dozen bands. It was one of the largest fraternal parades in several years. Behind them marched the "white flannel" infantry under the leadership of Hartley L. Replogle, chairman of the executive committee here and the convention in Milwaukee. Many gorgeously decorated floats appeared in the parade. The largest bore three stuffed moose, which appeared lifelike as they swayed with the motion of the automobile. Reno, Nev., Los Angeles, Cal., and Sharon, Pa., were represented by several decorated autos, filled with enthusiastic members. Many of Chicago's best known citizens were in the herd of 2000 candidates initiated in the evening at the Auditorium theatre. The majority of them, however, did not personally experience the sensations of "riding the moose." There were three "model" candidates, who were instructed in the ritual work by the crack Englewood degree team. They were Lieut. Gov. O'Hara, Medill McCormick and Judge Henry C. Heller.

After the initiation Gov. Dunne and the supreme officers of the order spoke and were hailed with cheers and the familiar "Howdy, Papa?" James J. Davis, father of the lodge, explained to a few curious "outsiders" that the greeting phrase is not a mere catch line, but that "Papa" is the word formed from the first three letters of purity, aid and progress. These are the watch words of the order.

Thanksgiving Offering

From The Chalifoux Corner Store

25 years ago tomorrow the Chalifoux store made its third move to larger quarters at the corner of Central and Middle streets, occupying three stores in one, comprising 20,000 feet of floor space. At that time that was considered a wonderful store and had made rapid progress in the 14 years prior to 1899. It can plainly be seen today that the Chalifoux store did not stop at that move, but has been steadily growing with the times and still has that reputation it had 25 years ago. "THE GRANDEST STORE IN THIS SECTION." Obtained and held by serving the public with the best values possible to obtain.

IMMIGRATION TO SOUTH

Meeting at Washington to Interest European Immigration in Southern States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, issued a call today for state and local officials, representatives of the press, commercial and civic organizations, railroad officials, bankers, and real estate and business men of the south, to meet in Washington on Saturday, Dec. 12 to consider and devise methods of interesting and locating agricultural immigrants in the southern states. The call is issued by the Southern Commercial Congress, with the approval of Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, at the instance of leading business men throughout the south to discuss the

SIT ERECT FOR BEAUTY

So many business girls acquire the habit of slouching in their chairs while they run the typewriter. Sit erect! girls, as slouching spoils the lines of your grace and makes you old before your time. In the restaurants, in the theatres and in the street cars we see women slouching in their seats with their heads poked forward and their chests thrown in this attitude. Slouching leaves in its wake, crooked spines, shapeless figures, flat bony chests, weak lungs, slouching.

double chins and lazy bones. Does it pay? If you are tired you will find that it is a great deal more restful to sit erect and lean on the back of your chair than to slouch forward with your chin on your hands. Always sit well back in your chairs, whether you are plugging at the typewriter or playing at the piano. If the stool is too high have it lowered. If your desk is too low place your typewriter on some books, but do spare yourself from all

Best Laxative For Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood.

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant, tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 461 Washington St. Monticello, N. H.

advisability of undertaking efforts for placing the agriculturally inclined immigrants now out of employment in our industrial communities on southern farms, and to plan methods of caring for the horde of foreigners that will probably come to this country at the close of the European conflict.

Secretary Wilson will deliver the opening address at the conference. The Southern Commercial congress will have the co-operation of the department of labor in this work, and Mr. T. V. Powderly, chief of the division of information of the bureau of immigration, has been designated to actively assist in arranging for the meeting.

The conference is called, it is stated, to determine a southern immigration policy, and to work out a practical plan by which the south can take advantage of existing opportunities. There are thousands of immigrant families in our industrial communities, either out of work or on short time, that have been working and saving for years in order to be able to return to Europe and purchase agricultural homes who are now prevented from leaving this country. Many of these people no longer desire to return abroad in view of the economic burden which the war has placed on the countries of Europe, and large groups can be placed on southern farms if the proper efforts are made to secure them.

Large numbers of European immigrants, many of whom will be practically destitute, will come to the United States at the close of hostilities in Europe and must be cared for. The advisability of attempting to utilize this class of people on the farm lands of the south will also be considered. Preparations are being made to have representatives of the foreign press in this country and officials of the more important of the immigrant societies to attend the conference. In addition to Secretary Wilson, other high officials of the federal government will also be in attendance.

MEMORIAL TO HERO

GOV. WALSH TO UNVEIL MONUMENT TO WALTER L. WATSON, KILLED AT VERA CRUZ

EASTHAM, Nov. 20.—A monument in Evergreen cemetery, erected by shipmates and Cape Cod friends to the memory of Walter L. Watson, a seaman on the battleship Arkansas, who was killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz last April, will be unveiled Saturday, Nov. 28, by Gov. Walsh. The exercises will begin at 1 p. m. In the town hall, where Seaman Watson's funeral services were held last May. Gov. Walsh will make an address. The monument is 7 feet 3 inches high and two of its faces bear inscriptions. One reads: "In Memory of Walter Louis Watson, born April 14, 1892, killed April 22, 1914, in the battle of Vera Cruz, Mex., while a member of the battalion from the United States battleship Arkansas. His Duty Done—His Honor Won."

The other inscription reads: "Erected by His Shipmates and Cape Cod Friends." The inscription is surmounted by a picture of the Arkansas lightly carved in the stone.

The success of the movement to secure funds for the memorial is largely due to the efforts of J. Bradley Steele, one of Eastham's foremost citizens, who, with William B. Higgins and Mrs. Sarah Clark, were chosen a committee to endeavor to erect a monument to the memory of the gallant young sailor.

WARNED ABOUT IMPOSTERS

Federal Department Cautions Stockmen and Farmers Against Men Coming With Cures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Warnings to cattle men to beware of men posing as federal agents in the fight against foot and mouth disease went out yesterday from the department of agriculture. Reports to the department say such persons are appearing in infected states with so-called cures.

Officials say there is a specific cure for the disease and that the only way to prevent its spread is to keep well herds from contact with infected ones. The warning cautions farmers to make sure that men claiming to represent the department are actually federal inspectors.

Stockmen are particularly warned not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of cures by injections or otherwise, as there is great danger such persons might disseminate the disease by carrying the germs on their clothing. Much of the spread of hog cholera was thus accounted for.

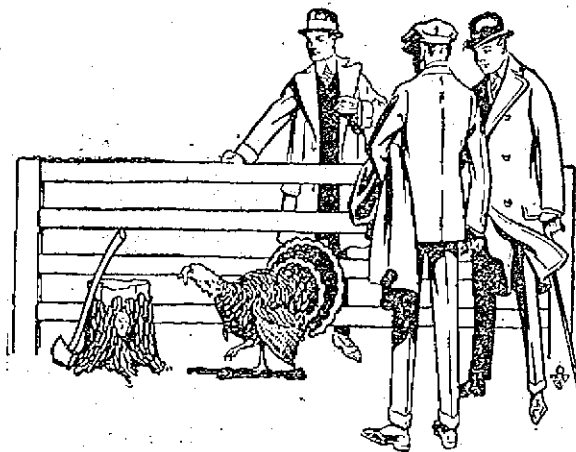

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food- tonic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

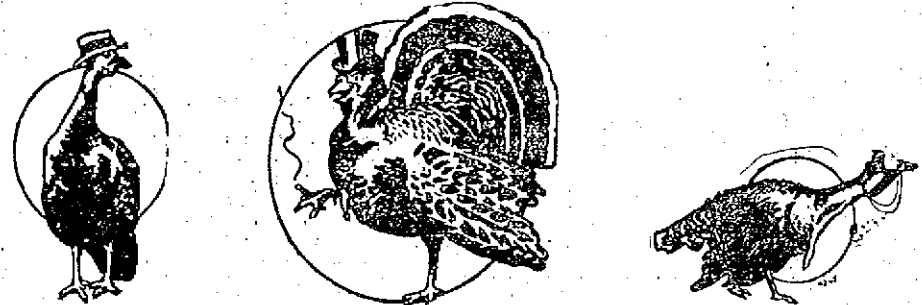

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

DISEASE OF SHEEP AND GOATS

The department of agriculture has undertaken the investigation of a serious disease which is affecting the Rocky mountain bighorn sheep and the mountain goats, and is reported as existing on the Lemhi national forest in Idaho.

The forest officers think that it is the same disease that caused the mountain sheep to die in great numbers during 1882-83. The nature of the disease is not known, though it results fatally and sheep affected with it seem to have rough and mangy coats and are very much emaciated. Three bureaus of the department are engaged in the study—the biological survey, bureau of animal industry, and the forest service. A competent veterinarian has already gone to Idaho to start the work.

DARING AUTO DRIVERS

WHIZ ALONG FRINGE OF SHELL TORN BATTLE FRONT ON MILITARY DUTY

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press.) The exploits of the daring automobile drivers who whiz along the fringe of the shell-torn battle front, and sometimes into it, on missions of military duty that have cost many a life, are as remarkable as the aerial dashes in this war.

Thousands of luxurious touring cars and limousines that once graced the boulevards of Paris are now employed in this service and many of them are driven by their wealthy owners, who rank as privates, and are comrades with professional chauffeurs. They wear uniforms marked with an "A" on the arm. Little is heard of their individual deeds, which led the figure to say their service was "obscured." In reply the figure pointed to its first page a letter from one of these daring drivers, a Paris lawyer, that speaks for itself. It follows: "Obscured! The word is quickly said. There is too much 'observed' and one has reason for being so who is forced to remain far from the front. Thus the automobile service is obscured. But the figure ought to say that in their obscurity the automobilists know how to die and that number indeed have been those who at ready have fallen.

"If at the beginning of the war, one saw automobiles enjoying a ride in the woods or with their cars stationed before fashionable restaurants, that time has passed. That should be known.

"The automobile squad to which I belong is submitted to the most rigid military discipline. We have three roll calls a day. We do not sleep at home. No one quits the garage during hours of service.

"The other day, about nine in the morning, the quartermaster entered the garage. Everyone was at his post. The machines were all equipped, tanks filled, provisions in the hampers, carbines ready—everything there to show that we don't just merely make a run around the lake.

"They want a car," cried the quartermaster. "Who can go?" "Every man answered."

"One of our comrades, Jean R—, was chosen. A turn of the crank and the car was gone. Where? No one asked. One is too much accustomed to seeing these machines depart to put the question. They go, remain absent—many days, sometimes.

"And it—went this time, like others before him, and as still others will follow him, each day.

"In the evening the machine returned to the garage. All its windows were broken. Bullets had riddled its panels. Jean R— was not with it. His comrade, tears in his eyes, had brought the car back alone. Jean R— had been killed during the trip. His body was on the ground back there, somewhere in the north. They had not been able to bring it back. Some English soldiers had arrived in time to save the survivors of this mission on which the poor chauffeur had left so joyously in the morning.

"Some hours later, in the garage where each evening they call the roll, to the name of Jean R—, the quartermaster answered:

"Dead on the field of honor."

"The men, in two ranks, raised the hand to their caps. "A day or two later, one could see, one morning, some soldiers marching with measured tread toward a church. All were on the left arm that letter 'A' that is feared at. They were the comrades of the 'observed one.' They were going to have a mass celebrated for him who had been killed by German bullets.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the Quickest, Surest Dandruff Cure Known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrivel, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

The presentation was followed by singing and speaking, with a song by Charles H. Howard. The success of the evening was due to the work of the following committee: Fred L. LOCOMOTIVE RAN AWAY

THROTTLE FAILED TO RESPOND AND ENGINE DASHED INTO CLEVELAND AT HIGH SPEED

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 20.—An Erie railroad engine, traveling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour, ran wild into Cleveland early today, endangering the lives of scores of persons at grade crossings and resulting in serious injury to J. S. Hinch, engineer of Youngstown, who jumped to avoid what he considered sure death. The fireman succeeded in stopping the engine at 45th street near the heart of the city.

When ten miles out of Cleveland, the throttle of the engine failed to respond to the engineer and as the engine lurched forward the coupling was broken from the tender which was followed by a long freight train.

MILLIONAIRE CURED IN RUB

J. McCormick, Jr., Had Consulted a Number of Noted Specialists in regard to Foot Trouble

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—After having consulted some of the most eminent specialists in the world in regard to a foot trouble, J. McCormick, Jr., the young millionaire real estate operator of Chicago, said yesterday that a Boston specialist had apparently found a cure for his trouble.

For some time young McCormick who is the son of R. H. McCormick, has been treated by Dr. E. H. Bradford of 220 Beacon street, dean of Harvard Medical school.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCormick have been guests at the Conley-Plaza for some time, that they might be near their son while he was receiving the treatment that has apparently been so effective. Last night young McCormick was the guest of Mrs. Susan Parker at Hamilton, where he went on the train without apparent difficulty, although still using crutches.

LATE WAR NEWS

that this attack had been repulsed. In Belgium the diminution of activity has become still more pronounced. There was almost a total absence of infantry attack northwest and even the artillery, which has been unusually severe, has lessened its fire.

The Germans, on their left wing have reoccupied a section of the town of Chaumont, which they recently blew up with mines after the French had forced their way in.

Either the censorship or the absence of decisive events was responsible for the fact that from the other fields of battle in Russian Poland, Turkey, Serbia and Persia, there came only fragmentary information today. The German statement said that the Russians were continuing their retreat.

in Poland but that in Eastern Prussia they had captured an unoccupied fort.

Comparative calm in the west and re-awakened activity in the east are taken by London to indicate that the German military chiefs have decided to concentrate their energies at the present stage of the war toward dealing, if possible, a crushing blow to Russia.

Such fragmentary reports as were received today from the eastern zone of fighting showed that the German army, was still pressing the Russians back through Russian Poland, over the same battlefields across which the Russians a few weeks ago were advancing victoriously. Much has been made of the reversal in form of the opposing armies, although it has been reported on several occasions that the Germans were sending thousands of their finest troops from France and Belgium to the east. The Russian war office states that their advance in East Prussia and Galicia continues in spite of their admitted retreat in the center.

German opinion admits of no doubt as to the outcome of the war with Russia. General Von Hindenberg is quoted as saying that Germany and Austria will win, although outmanned because they have no reserves of their own thinking, while Russian discipline is a "mere blind and dull obedience."

Besides the possible withdrawal of German troops from the eastern front, there is another reason for the halt in the fighting in the west. Cold, wet weather has numbed and exhausted the soldiers so that great physical effort is almost out of the question.

The weather in Belgium is compared with a bleak windy December day on the New England coast. The storm continues and the waters of the North sea flow through the locks at Newport which the allies opened to flood the lowlands and hold back the German advance.

Notwithstanding the extent of the flooded areas, the invaders hope to renew their advance. Large numbers of engineers are being sent to the front and German ingenuity is to be put to the test to provide a scientific method of crossing the inundated country. The outcome of yesterday's naval battle in the Black sea is still unknown. No fresh information was received to reconcile the conflicting claims of Russia and Turkey, each of whom asserted that a hostile battleship had been damaged seriously in the engagement.

GERMANY'S ADVANCE IN THE

WATCHED WITH INTEREST

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Both in London and Berlin the present stage of the campaign in Russian Poland is regarded as highly important and Germany's advance in the Wartha-Vistula country is being watched with interest.

Army headquarters in Petrograd announced that two great battles have developed along the eastern front, one on the line between Czenstochowa and Oradow, apparently extending along the railroad between these two points, the second in the Wartha-Vistula region, but Russian observers do not appear to attach much significance to the outcome in this latter region.

A general survey of the reports received here from all quarters conveys the impression that the German advance of the Vistula has met at least with a temporary check, while the Russian invasion of East Prussia has suffered a like fate near Angerburg, where the German defenses, consisting chiefly of vertical lines of wire entanglements are reported to be very strong.

Berlin declares that a concentric attack is being made on the Russian center, the German armies coming from the west and northwest while Austria is sending a force north from the Carpathian region. Petrograd, however, states that the offensive in western Galicia is still under way and that Cracow is believed to be invested on three sides, leaving only one line of rail communication open.

In West Flanders, owing to weather conditions operations apparently are at almost a standstill. Artillery duels and boat fights are the only features of the military situation there.

The advent of damp and bitter cold weather, with the disease and privations incident to its coming promise to make both the eastern and the western fronts scenes of great suffering. Parallels for what may be witnessed this coming winter are being sought in Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

New taxation for Great Britain, which under ordinary conditions would have taken a generation of the most bitter political controversy to pass, was today accepted with scarcely a murmur. The exact figures of the war loan subscriptions are not yet known and they probably will not be made public until Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George addresses the house of commons on the subject.

Later reports from Turkey indicate that the Turkish army are making better showing than at the opening of the Balkan war. This is believed to be due to the fact that the men are largely officers by Germans who are able to make better use of the recognized fighting ability of the Turkish soldier than are his own commanders.

In Constantinople there have been several outbreaks against foreigners but none of a serious nature.

NO GROANS OR SHRIEKS OF AGONY IN THESE PICTURES, ONLY WILD ENTHUSIASM OF WAR

1. CANADIAN TROOPS CHEERING KING, QUEEN AND LORD KITCHENER. 2. CHEERING GERMAN SOLDIERS ON WAY TO FRONT.

These are cheerful war pictures, taken far from the battle line. In them there are no groans or shrieks of agony, but cheers and wild enthusiasm for the fray. One shows Canadian highlanders cheering the king and queen of England and Lord Kitchener, who are reviewing them in an automobile just before they started for the continent. The other shows German soldiers cheering as they leave for the front on a train loaded with light artillery.

ANNEXATION IN DRACUT

Prominent Residents Think the Whole Town Should be Annexed—News of the Town

"Dracut is bound to be annexed to Lowell sooner or later," said a prominent resident of the Centre village in conversation with a reporter of The Sun yesterday, "and why not make the annexation movement a general one all over the town?" he continued. This man who is prominent in social, political and church circles argued the question of annexation in a very intelligent way and he believed there would be but little opposition to the project if it were made general.

One of the chief arguments of the Centre man for annexing the entire town is that all parts of Dracut connect with the city of Lowell and that it would be an easy matter to supply the town with proper sewerage by simply extending Lowell's trunk lines. He said sooner or later Dracut will have to face the sewerage problem, and he feels that the town cannot supply adequate service in this particular line. He also touched on the police and fire protection as well as the water service.

In speaking about water, the man who was being interviewed said the Centre village and Collinsville have good service and excellent water, but the residents of the other districts have to go without it on account of the distance between the various sections of the town, while if the entire town were annexed to the city, all that would be necessary for the districts already supplied with water would be to connect the city mains to that of the town, and in the other sections extend the city mains.

Dracut is a long narrow territory, with a population of about 1000 people. It is connected with Lowell by Mammoth road, Lakeview avenue, Bridge street and Merrimack avenue, which are all noted to be the finest pieces of road work in this vicinity. A distance of two miles is about the limit from the centre of any one district to the centre of Lowell, and inasmuch as Lowell is bound to expand, Dracut is the most desirable district for annexation on account of its close proximity and its many roads leading to the city.

The Kenwood district was also the topic of discussion and the annexation man, as we may call him, feels assured that in the event that district being annexed there would not be the slightest opposition from other localities. That section of the town is a district by itself and most of its residents are employed in the city and have city manners and they are all looking for certain protection which the town cannot afford to give them. "I feel sure," he said, "if a mass meeting is held 75 per cent of the residents will favor annexation. We have good schools in Dracut, but we prepare the children for the Lowell high school and have to pay the city a certain amount yearly for the advanced education of our children. We also have a library in the town, but it is only $300. It is expended each year for its maintenance and the purchase of new books, our equipment is very small, while if the town were annexed we would have access to the beautiful and well equipped library of Lowell."

Voting Booths

An interesting meeting of representatives of the democratic and republican town committees was held Tuesday night at the town office in the Centre village, the purpose of the gathering being to discuss the possibility of dividing the town into precincts. The meeting was held at the request of the selectmen, who were also present, and as a result of the meeting it is possible a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

A year ago last March at a town meeting the residents of the town voted to instruct the selectmen to divide the town into districts and report at the next town meeting which was held last March. The selectmen did their work and reported and that was the end of it. A short time ago the matter was taken up again by the town committee and a delegation from the democratic town committee called on the selectmen and again talked over the matter of town precincts. After listening to their arguments the selectmen signified their intention of meeting representatives of both town committees next evening all held at the town office. Present at the meeting were Selectmen Terry Smith and Victor Cluff; John W. Brennan, James J. McManmon, William Tyrell, J. Fogarty, Thomas Carroll and John J. Klerman, representing the democratic town committee, and Henry Fox, H. E. King, Henry Fox, for the republican town committee and Town Counsel Warren Fox. It was decided to establish a precinct at Collinsville, at the Navy Yard and the Centre village. It was also decided to transact the town business on one day and have the election on another, and as a result this matter will have to be voted upon by the citizens and accordingly a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

Entertainment

The Christian Endeavor society of the Centre village will conduct an entertainment in aid of its coming fall. The affair will be held on Friday evening, December 4 and the program which will consist of moving pictures, a one-act pantomime and vocal and instrumental selections will be under the direction of Augustus Dutton. It is expected that some of the Lowell Y. M. C. A. boys will assist at the entertainment.

Reception to Pastor

Rev. Mr. Dupont, who on next Sunday will assume the pastorate of the Hillside church will be tendered a reception at the church on Monday evening. It is expected that all parishioners will be on hand to welcome their new pastor, and among the other clergymen who have been invited are Rev. Ernest Bartlett of the Yellow Meeting house, Rev. F. G. Alger of the Pawtucket Congregational church and Rev. Mr. Ramette, pastor of the French Baptist church in West Sixth street.

And Collision

Mrs. Joseph Ouellette of Pleasant street is being confined to her home suffering from injuries she received in a collision which took place Monday, when an electric car struck the carriage in which she was riding. The accident took place near the car barn in Lakeview avenue. Mrs. Ouellette was seated in the carriage which was stopped near the car tracks. An electric car came along and crashed into the rear of the carriage, throwing its occupants to the ground. Mrs. Ouellette was badly shaken up and received a few bruises. The carriage was damaged to some extent. The horse ran away but was brought to a stop before any serious damage was caused.

Another Accident

The many friends of James Cunningham of Parker avenue will be grieved to learn that he is confined to his home suffering from serious injuries he received in an accident which occurred Wednesday under the School street bridge in Lowell. Mr. Cunningham whose duties consist of going to the freight yard where he gets the tar oil for street oiling, was riding on top of his wagon and when he reached a spot under the School street bridge, the horses took fright at a passing train and Mr. Cunningham's head came in contact with one of the bolts on the long girders. The blow threw the man to the ground, where he was picked up by employees of the Lowell Gas Light company, and removed to the plant of the company. Mr. Cunningham was later able to return to his home, where he is now confined suffering from a deep gash in the forehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Fox of Marsh Hill are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

WESTON MAN ASKS RETURN OF MONEY AND RINGS—JUDGE RESERVES DECISION

WALTHAM, Nov. 20.—Harry J. Downs of Weston was the plaintiff against Miss Agnes T. Murphy in the civil session of the local court before Judge Luce yesterday in a suit to recover money and rings he alleges he gave Miss Murphy for safekeeping when keeping company with her. Downs' wife was in court.

He said he became acquainted with Miss Murphy in 1902 in Cambridge, and from that time until 1910 had kept company with her. As he was unable to save money himself, he gave it to her to keep for him, he said. He gave her in all about $100. "In 1910," he told the court, "Miss Murphy's love grew cold, and every time I called on her I felt the cold shoulder." From that time until 1912 they were just friends.

He testified that in 1903 he gave her a ring for a birthday present, but it was not an engagement ring, as he had never been engaged to her. He said she had given him presents also, among them a bathrobe and a suitcase.

The matter was brought to court, he said, because last September when he asked her to return the money she refused. Miss Murphy, who runs a restaurant at 6 Cushing street, testified that she gave Downs $70 in 1910, and that it was all the money he had given her. She said he proposed to her in 1907.

Downs testified that he married a Boston widow, Mrs. Marie Sault, in 1911 after Miss Murphy's love grew cold. Judge Luce reserved his decision.

INVENTION TO SAVE WOUNDED

Swiss Surgeons Present Large Quantities of Coagulum to Both Armies—Stops Bleeding, It Is Said

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—A preparation which, it is said, will stop almost instantly the flow of blood from a wound has been invented by Professor Theodore Korcher of Berne, who was awarded the Nobel prize for surgery in 1912, and his assistant, Dr. A. Poncet.

The new preparation is called coagulum. It is in the form of a powder and is dissolved in water before being applied to a wound.

The discoverers of coagulum have made a gift of their invention to the armies in the field and have sent large quantities of the powder to the surgical headquarters of both the German and French armies.

The discovery is regarded by medical men here as likely to save the lives of thousands of soldiers, since it can be applied by untrained hands, so that the wounded man himself or his comrade might use the solution.

ACCUSED OF TREASON

Sayer, a Canadian, Admits Aiding Austrians to Join Regiments, It Is Said—Denies the Penalty

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Nov. 20.—Robert Sayer of this city is held in custody here on a charge of high treason. He is said to have admitted in court yesterday that he aided six Austrians to cross the St. Mary's river from the United States into Canada to join their home regiments in the European war. The crime is punishable by death. The hearing has been postponed eight days while local officials wait for instructions from the military authorities at Ottawa.

WEATHER AND THE WAR

STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM, THE WAR HAS CAUSED A LACK OF WEATHER BULLETINS

Even the dullest-witted persons have been impressed by the wonderful weather we have been having in this part of the world this fall. It has persisted in remaining fine in spite of various pessimistic predictions. The great majority of the succeeding days of the past six weeks have been of the exceptional sort that in most seasons are described as "weather breakers," and yet they have been very little in the way of adverse conditions. All of which must have inspired considerable reflection on the laws of cause and effect as they apply to climatic phenomena. How far may this superb autumn weather be attributed to the war in Europe? The curious fact, whether of significance or not, is that heavy rains have been prevalent in the battle zones since the early days of the war. This is revived the old controversy over the relation of weather and battles.

The theory that the discharge of powder in vast quantities is almost invariably followed by storms and heavy downpours of rain is an old one, although scientists have vigorously maintained that it is not worthy of scientific credence. And efforts to produce precipitation by the use of big explosives have usually failed, making a laughing stock of the well-meaning "rain makers."

Nevertheless, there has been much talk in Europe during the past two months, and there has been an exceptional amount of rain. Coincidentally, there has been almost no rain at all in this part of the world, and with the absence of precipitation we have had a balmy autumn that exceeds all records. Are these facts related? At least, it would be interesting to have the controversy revived by those who are capable of discussing the question intelligently.

In any event, it cannot be denied that the war has had its effect on the weather in this country. There has been a commercial effect, if not a climatic, for the weather bureau, like the stock exchange, has felt obliged to curtail its business. Announcement has been made of the suspension of weekly forecasts, and the limitation of prophecies to periods of 36 or 48 hours. And the reason given for this is the lack of meteorological data from abroad upon which the longer forecasts are based. The war has paralyzed foreign quotations on the weather as well as those on stocks and bonds. For some time to come, our weather, like various commonplace commodities, will have to be "made in America."

But this should be a source of gratification rather than of additional worry. Owing to various circumstances the war has greatly increased the total amount of misinformation in the world, but here at least is one particular in which the misinformation seems likely to be reduced. The less "information" it has, and the more limited the period of its prophecies, the smaller will be the percentage of mistakes made by the weather bureau.—Providence Journal.

SECRET BRIDE SINCE MARCH

New York Girl of 17 Married to Supposed Foster Father, More Than Three Times Older

among her friends in Flatbush, has been a secret bride since last March, and that Severin A. Breding, supposed to be her foster father, and more than three times her age, is her husband, was announced last evening by the girl herself at the Breding home, 1712 Ditmars avenue.

The girl entered the Breding home when she was 4 years old. When she was a baby she was adopted by the former Mrs. Breding's mother, who found her at South Framingham, Mass., and took a great fancy to her. The foster mother became an invalid, however, and Dorothy went to the home of the Bredings.

Breding and his former wife were married Feb. 10, 1909, in March, 1912, Mrs. Breding filed suit for divorce, alleging that she had found love notes written to her husband by other women in his pockets. These notes were put in evidence. The new Mrs. Breding said last night she had never been legally adopted by Mr. Breding.

The platform will be decorated with American and Irish flags and from the ceiling will be suspended in letters of gold, the dying prayer of these sons of Ireland, "God save Ireland."

The subject, "The Martyred Three; and the Influence of Their Death on the Present Home Rule Movement." The entertainment will consist of Irish songs by some of the best known singers of the city. James E. Donnelly will sing "God Save Ireland" and the audience is asked to rise and sing it with him.

Fire broke out in the partitions back of a store in a tenement block at 10 Fifth street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and necessitated an alarm from box 61, corner of Fifth and Bridge streets. When the firemen arrived the blaze threatened to work to the upper part of the house, but it was promptly checked with small damage resulting. The building is owned by E. J. Varian.

FEDERAL RELIEF FOR SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Plain charity, rather than aid to self-support, is the purpose to which the relief fund of $200,000 for sufferers from the Salem fire must be devoted, according to a ruling promulgated yesterday by Controller of the Treasury Dawney.

The fund, says this ruling, may not be applied even indirectly to the rehabilitation of the city, but must be used solely and exclusively for providing food, clothing and shelter for those who may be destitute.

The money, added Mr. Dawney, becomes available at once and the fund will be administered by officers of the war department under the supervision of Secretary Garrison.

This ruling was evoked by a suggestion that the fund might be used for paying sufferers for work in rehabilitating the city, such as the excavation of sewers, the rebuilding of public structures and along similar lines.

That such was not the purpose was the opinion of the judge advocate general of the war department, who was questioned by Secretary Garrison after several talks with Representative Gardner, the sponsor of the resolution. In this view the controller co-

TURKEY SILENT SHOES FOR ALLIES

No Word at Washington Regarding Firing on Americans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson conferred last night with Secretary Daniels of the navy department and Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department on the situation produced by the firing by the Turkish land forces on the launch of the American cruiser Tennessee at Smyrna, Asia Minor.

The president summoned the two secretaries to learn if there had been any word from Turkey shedding light on the reasons for the firing, but found that neither the cables nor the wireless had yielded a syllable of information.

The European war has virtually paralyzed cable communication to Asia Minor, and such messages as are received come by roundabout routes, about five days late.

If there is continued delay it is probable that the American government will ask the British admiralty for the courtesy of its wireless in the Mediterranean to reach the American ships.

The president and his cabinet are assuming that the shots fired at the American launch were merely a friendly warning giving the customary notice that the port was mined and closed. Even if the shots were fired with hostile intent, the Washington government believes that the Ottoman government would render apology promptly for unauthorized acts of subordinate officials.

In no quarter here is the incident or its consequences regarded as serious, for the United States has no quarrel with Turkey. The American government is caring for Turkish subjects and interests in France and Great Britain and there has been every indication of friendliness in the relations between Washington and Constantinople.

In the absence of definite information, however, the president is anxious to have the incident cleared up and is awaiting with much interest the arrival of messages explaining in detail just what occurred.

The next night, a conference ended with Secretary Daniels and Mr. Lansing said no further inquiries had been directed to the American ambassador at Constantinople, the talk being largely a detailed review of previous messages covering the general situation in Turkey and Asia Minor.

Sec. Tivnan Says Fire Sufferers Will Feel Plunge Because of the Action of Controller

SALEM, Nov. 20.—Decision by Gen. E. Dawney, controller of the treasury, that no portion of the $200,000 appropriated by congress for relief of sufferers by fire in this city June 25 can be used to assist in rehabilitation work, is regretted by a large number here.

Such a verdict had long been anticipated, especially since the visit of Gen. Carroll A. Devol, who investigated the situation at the request of Secretary of War Garrison.

After Gen. Devol had submitted his findings a delegation of the fire relief committee went to Washington to define the needs of the fire sufferers.

FINE MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT
LAST NIGHT

The members of St. Patrick's sanctuary choir lived up to their reputations as first class soloists and entertainers last night, when they held their annual minstrel show and dance in Associate hall. Despite the inclement weather, the boys from the acre had their usual large following of friends and the affair aside from being most enjoyable socially, was also highly successful financially.

The minstrel show opened up with a snap and vim characteristic of the leading professional troupes, and everything went off without the slightest hitch. Encores were the order of things and were frequently demanded by the generous audience.

Edward J. Flannery was the inter-luctor and filled his position most admirably, and his work contributed in no small way to the smoothness in which the program was carried out. The end men who kept their audience in screams of laughter by their witticisms and comic songs were: James S. King, Cornelius M. Clobery, Daniel A. Powers, Eugene Dean, John F. Stapleton and James L. Neilligan. The solos by Master Peter Kane, Master William Chandler and Thomas Delmore were executed in finished style and encores were demanded in every instance. Master's orchestra furnished the music for the entertainment, and also for the dancing which followed immediately after and continued until midnight. The program was as follows:

ROADS TO RAISE FARES

CHICAGO-BOSTON ROUTE INCREASED FROM $22.00 TO $23.10

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Material increases in passenger fares, virtually throughout the country, except in southeastern territory, will be caused by advances announced by railroads in trunk-line territory between New York city and Pittsburgh and its Central Passenger association territory, between Pittsburgh and Chicago and St. Louis. Virtually, the basis for readjustment is 2½ cents a mile, the present basis generally being 24 cents.

Within Central Passenger Association territory the new fares will become effective on Dec. 1 and on trunk-line territory and between the two territories they will become effective on Dec. 15.

From Chicago the fare to Boston is raised from $22.00 to $23.10, and from St. Louis to Boston from $24.80 to $25.52.

The proposed advances were made by the railroads after the Interstate Commerce commission had suggested increased passenger fares as one method by which the revenues of the carriers might be increased. The commission is receiving some protests against the proposed increases, but at this time it is regarded as likely that the tariffs filed by the roads will not be suspended.

AT ARMORY

Fine Entertainment in Military Evolutions and Other Features

The second in a series of battalion nights was conducted at the local armory in Westford street last evening and it is safe to say that its success was gratifying to those in charge. The large drill shed was taxed to its capacity and in order to accommodate the visitors it was necessary to introduce a large number of additional chairs and settees and despite the efforts of the men in charge to find seating room for all, many were forced to stand all evening. It is figured that over 1500 men, women and children were in attendance, and all spent a most enjoyable evening. The affair had been organized by Major Colby T. Kittredge, who was ably assisted in all arrangements by the officers of the various companies.

The program consisted of military evolutions by Companies C, G and K of the Sixth Regiment of this city; Company L of Boston of the same regiment and Company M of the Ninth regiment of this city. Tabor's famous Sixth Regiment band was in attendance and supplied excellent music.

Short addresses were delivered by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of this city and Capt. William Dussault of Lynn, chairman of the Sixth regiment, and both speakers highly congratulated the local militiamen for their efficient work and the success achieved with their military nights.

Among the other visitors were Major J. H. McMahon of the First battalion, Capt. Edward Connelly, Company A, Concord; Capt. Michael Dee, Lieutenants George L. Prescott and Thomas Mansfield, Sergt. Whipple Parkes, Company I, Concord; Capt. Thorndike Howe, Battery C, Lawrence; and Capt. H. J. Patten, ordinance officer, Eighth regiment and about 10 members of Company I, Concord.

Early in the evening the members of each company gathered at the armory and enjoyed supper in their respective quarters. Then followed the battalion parade and specialties staged by each of the individual companies and members. The militia men in the battalion parade were headed by Tabor's Sixth

JURY STILL WRESTLING OVER GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF CHICAGO CLUBMAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A jury of men who, before they were accepted, swore they were absolutely immune from flirting, early today were still wrestling over the guilt or innocence of Louis J. Weigle, a dashing clubman and broker, who was charged by Miles

Marie McKinley with annoying her on a suburban train.

The disagreement is a climax to a case which received some notoriety when Weigle tried to escape publicity at the time of the arrest by using the alias of John Jones. He refused to appear in court when his case was first called.

THE JUVENILE LAW

It seems to be the unanimous opinion of press and public that in some of its phases our juvenile law is not working well, and that some definite agitation for its amendment is timely. The subject is treated editorially in the leading papers of the state with great frequency, and while all do not agree on the form of the proposed change, all seem agreed that the present law is not achieving its ends. Needless to say, the news columns of our Massachusetts papers confirm the editorial views, for we have frequent examples of all manner of juvenile crime, much of which is plotted with great cunning and executed with professional daring.

The Lynn News dwelt on this subject in detail a day or two ago, calling special attention to the movement suggested by the local Molly Varnum chapter D. A. R. and to the comments of The Sun. To quote from the News:

There are few parts of our state in which people are not more or less stirred up over the practical working of the juvenile law. And if the Molly Varnum Chapter, D. A. R., of Lowell, which has been looking into the matter, decides to take action looking towards the reform of the law, the ladies will find a response in every part of the Commonwealth.

Probably most men who have thought on the subject will agree that boys of 15 and under should not be dealt with as criminals; that they will agree also that boys of 15 and under should be treated in the same fashion as the crimes of older men. But they will also agree that boys who are old enough to know what they are doing should not be dealt with in ways which lead them to despise the law and to feel it safe to affront the community.

The News then goes on to contrast the juvenile offenses of the present with those of the past, reflecting particularly on the fact that the boys of today are a great deal more brazen in their offenses than the boys of an older generation. This undesirable change, attributed in great part to the ineffectiveness of the juvenile law, is summed up as follows:

As things are boys can stand on street corners and use vile and impudent language both among themselves and to passers-by; they can rob fruit trees under the eyes of the owners; they can indulge in many forms of malicious mischief; and then defy the people against whom they have done the wrong. They seem to feel that nobody can do anything to them, that the utmost they have to fear is perhaps a mild scolding, or a fine laid on their parents.

There was a time when if a man caught a youth robbing him of his fruit he would catch him. Now he must keep his hands off and resort to the gentle processes of a law which may or may not work. The boy is protected at the expense of the rest of the community. Even his crime is called by the gentle name of delinquency rather than by the term which rightfully belongs to it.

Neither the Lynn News nor The Sun would advocate a change in the law which would permit the owner of fruit trees or the householder to arrest personally to the punishment of a boy caught robbing his orchard or damaging his property, but it is not a good thing that boys should realize their practical immunity from punishment. The strongest argument for an amendment of the juvenile law is in the boast of the boys when referring to the police, they say: "They can't do anything to us." At the local meeting of the energetic branch of the D. A. R. many persons present, including the superintendent of police, testified that juvenile wrongdoers frequently make such a boast.

It must also be remembered that no law, no matter how adequate or how far-reaching, and no amount of police activity will make up for parental supervision and attention. Remembering this, the closing paragraph of the News editorial has an obvious moral:

There is nothing in the world many such boys need so much as a good sound whipping. But the policeman who does not handle one of them with the utmost tenderness is likely to get into trouble. It is a pretty state of things where the elders have, in practice, whatever the theory may be, to surrender to the younger.

Says the Lowell Sun: "Boys have always been mischievous, but one time they feared God, their parents, and the cop. If our juvenile law keeps up the parents, the cop, and the entire public with any reason to fear the boy?" The Sun isn't alone in thinking that.

Any law which does not work well needs changing. Isn't the juvenile law capable of some improvement?

There has been enough of aimless discussion of this subject in all its phases, and the local movement towards definite reform is deserving of support. A bill that would remove some of the technicalities that render the juvenile law ineffective, if not pernicious, would be in order at the coming session of the general court.

TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

That those who agitate political changes from selfish motives are not easily discouraged is proved by the rejuvenated activity of some Boston groups to foist the two-platoon firemen's system on some large city of the commonwealth—professedly as a disinterested experiment. There is no legitimate agitation for such a change even among the firemen of the state, and any appearance of activity in that direction should be checked by the weight of public opinion. Here and there the conditions surrounding the life of the firemen are not what they should be, but the enormously costly two-platoon system would benefit neither the firemen nor the public. The idea is purely a political one as unpopular as it is uncalled for.

Apart from the absolutely prohibitive cost of a fire department made up of two shifts, the two-platoon system would tend to a lack of efficiency and discipline. It would impair the service and would interfere eventually with the best interests of those it is meant to serve. In the very few cities where it has been tried it has proved an unqualified failure, and it has been almost universally abandoned. It is never sanctioned by any interest advocating really scientific municipal government. When agitated in Lowell a year or so ago, the public expressed ready disapproval, but there are indications that we may see a rebirth of the agitation in the near future.

It is but natural that some measure of dissatisfaction should obtain among the members of the local fire department, owing to the refusal of privileges to them which were granted to a more favored branch of the public service. In an era of boasted equality of rights to all, they have suffered from what looks suspiciously like discrimination. They should not act rashly, nevertheless, or sanction any movement that would afterwards react unfavorably on their city and on themselves. So far as all practical purposes are concerned, it is to be hoped that Lowell has heard the last of the two-platoon firemen's system.

TALK OF PEACE

One of the most significant statements regarding probable peace between the powers at war is that published by President Wilson to the effect that the next move towards mediation must be made by the belligerents. This country has made its position clear and while it stands not only ready but anxious to do everything possible to banish the war cloud from the earth, its dignity as a nation forbids its making unheeded pleas that would eventually reduce its effectiveness as a peace agent. Germany, France, England, Austria and Russia know well through their rulers and government officials that they may rely on this country to advance the first indication of peace, and more is not necessary or advisable. If there is no official talk of peace in Europe, it is because none of the powers want it, and when none of the powers favor it, our protestations and pleadings would sound puerile. President Wilson has shown his horror of war and his love of peace, but he has also shown a high sense of personal and official propriety.

A very persistent rumor has it that Henry Van Dyke, our minister to Holland, is coming to President Wilson with an offer of co-operation from the Queen of the Netherlands. In the interests of peace, a recent encyclical of Pope Benedict XV. pleaded to the same end. Unfortunately, two of the great powers, at least, declare their determination to fight to the death, and while this is so, it is vain to hope for a cessation of hostilities. Those who hope for peace receive little encouragement from the rulers. When the first patriotic fervor of the warring nations is cooled off by the weight of the casualties, possibly the people will ask that the war shall end. Judging from the spirit shown by the leading powers, any hope for peace in the immediate future seems to be premature.

UNDER CONTROL

The Chicago stockyards have reported that owing to the prompt and efficient system of disinfection adopted, they are ready to resume business on a normal basis. It will be remembered that, for the first time during their existence they were closed some days ago as a precaution against the foot and mouth disease. Reports from the various states also indicate that the disease has been checked and that the ultimate loss will not be as great as was anticipated. This is all the more gratifying owing to the oft-mentioned charge that the pest got a strong footing owing to the carelessness of some state officials. The cattle scourge, for a time, threatened to wipe out the profits arising from good crops, and its abatement will be noted with relief in the agricultural sections. Because of the experience gained so clearly it is doubtful if the disease will again get such a hold in this country.

There was a time when early to bed made a man wise. But nowadays the man who hits the hay too early doesn't get wise to much.

The man whose head is so swelled that he knows he leaves little to be desired is in the same class as a burglar or a porch climber.

Funny how a fellow will chase about 976 flies away from the cheese on the free lunch counter and enjoy what he eats. But when he goes home if he finds a lone fly on the dining room table, he begins to indignantly about fifth carvers and typhoid and won't eat anything.

ADAM A FOREIGNER

A teacher was delivering among the members of her class to find out how much they really knew. She had sterling success in the case of one little shaver. Study was relaxed for a few minutes and she propounded among other questions this one:

"Who was the first man?"

The hand of the little shaver arose frantically ahead of all the others and she singled him out for the answer:

"George Washington," he declared breathlessly, "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his people."

"No, no," interrupted the teacher. "The first man—don't you remember?"

"Was Adam,"

"Aw well, I wasn't thinking about

How many looked at the falling snow yesterday without at some time connecting it with the battlefields of the old world? For some days past we have read that snow and rain had fallen in the eastern and western theatres of war and that fighting was somewhat impeded thereby. As the snow fell yesterday in a soft white sheet, one could imagine its merciful hiding of the red patches in Flanders.

"Few, few shall part where many meet, The snow shall be their winding sheet."

There is a decided comfort for decent citizens in the fact that all the undesirable political methods used before the primaries were in the interest of men who were passed over by the electorate. The little revelations that are coming to light prove more and more that the people chose wisely.

The body of Lord Roberts now rests in St. Paul's beside that of the Duke of Wellington. Even the most loyal German may hope that their rest will never be disturbed by a Zeppelin bomb. They have earned their sleep.

Violent fighting goes on within a two-hour motor ride of the gates of Paris. Still, it's a long, long way to Paris. If you doubt it, ask the Kaiser.

If the voters at the city election will only show as good judgment as they did at the primaries Lowell will have reason to rejoice at the result.

Where are the leaves of yesterday?

Look up, Lowell.

foreigners," was the comment that came back.

KEEP OFF THE FARMS

During these fall days, should inclination lead you to visit the country, beware of the farms, and especially of the pastures, for there is one chance in a million, or thereabouts, that you may be the cause of spreading the foot and mouth disease, and state authorities do not want you to take even that chance. And those who care for their own health, as well as the health of the live stock of the vicinity, of course do not want to take the chance, either. So be very careful, while the scare is on. You wonder why the warning? Well, wonder no more, for it is not our warning wholly. Throughout the state the public is being warned to keep away from farms, and to especially keep out of barns and pastures. That may appear to be going the limit in precaution, but the state authorities may consider that it develops upon them to go the limit in this respect to offset going the full distance in carelessness in letting the disease get a foothold.

HIGHLAND MARY

Ye banks, and 'o' braes, and streams The castle of Montgomery Green be your woods, and fair your towers.

Your kilted never drummed! There simmer, first unfaded her robes, And there the longest tarry; For there I took the last farewell Of my sweet Highland Mary.

How sweetly bloom'd the gay green sike, How rich the hawthorn's blossom, As underneath their fragrant shade I clasped her to my bosom! The golden hours, on angel wings, For ever sped my dearest life; For dear to me, dear to my life, Was my sweet Highland Mary.

WT. moule a vow, and look'd embrace, Our parting was a fond embrace, And, pledging a life to meet again, We wore ourselves asunder; But oh! fell death's untimely frost, That night our lives did part; Now green's the sod, and cauld's the clay That wraps my Highland Mary!

O pale, pale now, those rosy lips, I oft have kiss'd thee fondly; And closed for aye the sparkling glance, That darted on me kindly; And moulder'd now in silent dust, That heart that lov'd me dearly; But still within my bosom's core Shall live my Highland Mary.

—Robert Burns.

SKATING FOR THANKSGIVING

"Still think there will be skating Thanksgiving?" I asked my friend, the weather wise man, yesterday, when the snow and the chill in the air reminded me that he had previously made such a prophecy. Well, I haven't given up hope yet, was his reply. "You see it is growing colder and the official prognosticator says that it is going to be colder, so there you are. If it keeps down below the freezing point for a week, the smaller ponds will be skimmed with an inch or two of ice. I don't know as it will be safe for horse trotting on the river at that time, but I'm going to stick to my prophecy that there will be ice on the ponds on Thanksgiving day. Now you will wait and see. And of course we shall have to wait in order to see. I notice, right in this connection, that Foster's prognostication is to the effect that we are now in for a few days of unseasonably cold weather, to be alleviated the latter part of the month by a warm wave that is to send the thermometer above the normal.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single grain and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

SULLY IN NEW YORK

A well known Lowell man recently in New York city dropped into the Royal theatre where a high class vaudeville bill is always on tap. One of the numbers on the bill was a comedy playlet entitled "Mutterzolt & Son." Dan Barry, Harrison and Walter E. Colby, and when the curtain went up on the sketch, who did he behold cast in a prominent part, Lowell's old-time favorite, Daniel Sullivan, better known here as "Our Sully," who was everybody's friend and Isabelle Fletcher, stock company at the Academy of Music. Sully said was looking as youthful and as handsome as of yore and was as clever with his comedy role as when he made them roar at the Academy. In the cast also were Helen Barry, daughter of the famous Billy Barry of the "Bliss Generation," and three other clever actors. After the show the Lowell man had a pleasant chat with "Sully" during which the latter asked to be remembered to his old friends in this city. The sketch with "Sully" is cast in after the style of "Foster's Perimeter," which has been running big in Boston, and we may yet see him, as we hope to on the local Keith circuit. "Sully" would certainly get a warm welcome should he appear again in this city.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

WHO STARTED IT? It stands to reason that somebody started this fearful war that is a reproach to twentieth century civilization, but inasmuch as each of the belligerent powers has taken pains to prove, to its own satisfaction at all events, an alibi, the identity of the guilty one bids fair to be enveloped in as much mystery as that of the man who struck Billy Patterson—Fall, Six.

A FINE CRUSADE

Health and long life to the National Health Guard. There is a crusade which everybody can enlist without violating any of the principles of neutrality. A war on the conditions that tend to reduce vitality and shorten life is civilization's war against the powers of ignorance and disease. There can be no grander militarism in the world than this, and it is entirely fitting that a movement along this line should be inaugurated in the United States, the only one of the great powers the world that is not a nation or nation for the other form of militarism—Springfield Union.

MINES

Here and there some ship runs across a submarine mine and goes to smash. When it is a merchant vessel, we arise in protest.

True, the sowing of commercial waters with these fearful instruments of destruction is practised by each of the several warring nations involved in the European war. This is a matter in which neutral nations have a most important concern.

In time of war, the waters within a specified distance from the coast are left to be terrorized by the advance power. These, it would appear, may properly be protected in any way desirable. But it is altogether another matter to extend serious protection beyond this limit—Boston Post.

PRESIDENT WILSON

The president of the United States for a variety of reasons is not touring the country fighting or making speeches. Relieved for a season from the solution of pressing domestic problems owing to adjournment of congress, he never leaves the White House and at the helm, so acute is the international situation and so important is it that the republic's foreign policy should be guided with full knowledge of world conditions. The time has come for great things. A little wisdom, a little courage and a little self-sacrificing devotion, as the president himself has said, may dramatically affect the coming history of the world. He plans to be on hand when opportunity so beckons—Christian Science Monitor.

SKY IS CLEARING

The financial sky is clearing and an era of prosperity is at hand. The serious nearness during the financial depression should not be forgotten when the money market is easier. The people have been shown their way to financial salvation. Careful investment, many where there are possible small savings, no matter how small they may be, will eventually bring prosperity in greater or less degree to all who conduct their business along these lines.—Hartford Post.

GET UP AND GET BUSY

The manufacturer who has been fabricating in Connecticut antique souvenirs to be sold at Pompeii would better turn his attention to the making of can openers to be sold in Montana or cheap cutlery to take the place of the imported knives that the Germans no longer have time to forge. If we merely sit down and wait for the storm to blow over we shall find ourselves very cold and very wet and very hungry before this international hurricane blows itself out—and find in the end that we have been waiting for mighty little.—New London Day.

KILL MORE THAN WARS

EARTHQUAKES WORSE THAN WAR GUNS—THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN KILLED BY SINGLE DISASTER

It is popularly supposed that the ravages of war are the most fatal of the mishaps that can happen to the human race, but cold figures show that the deaths resulting from the war are insignificant when compared with the results of earthquakes and tidal waves, and that these, as terrible as they may appear, so to speak, cause but a mere ripple over the mighty population of the world. This is shown by the following figures taken from an article in the special war issue of the Scientific American: Terrible as are the ravages of war, they are far surpassed by some other disasters which from time to time overwhelm the human race. The Franco-Prussian war killed about 1,300,000 in seven months. The death toll of the Russo-Japanese war reached about 200,000. A single earthquake (1737 in India) has been estimated to have caused 300,000 deaths. The fatalities of the Messina earthquake in 1908 cannot have been far short of 100,000. A tidal wave in 1896 drowned 27,000 persons in Japan, causing a greater loss of life than the whole war with China in 1894. The earthquake in Japan in 1703 is said to have killed 200,000 people. The Lisbon earthquake in 1755 destroyed 50,000 human lives, while 40,000 were lost in the same year in earthquakes in Persia.

Terrible as such disasters are, they pass over the multitudes of the human population of our globe as the merest ripples on a mighty sea. The total population of the earth is somewhere about 1,500,000,000. Annually there are added to it 14,000,000 souls. Every year at least 80,000,000 are born, and 62,000,000 or 70,000,000 die. This means a daily birth rate of about 220,000, a death rate of 180,000. The daily increase in population is 40,000. In comparison with this irrefragably swelling tide, what are the greatest battles, wars or earthquakes, but almost microscopic ripples! If we imagine that the power were given to some despot to order a wholesale slaughter, and that guillotines were kept busy beheading one man every minute, night and day, this would add only three-quarters of 1 per cent to the existing death rate.

MEDFORD, Nov. 20.—The coolness of Darrell Wilkins, aged 20, son of Frank D. Wilkins of Mystic Valley Parkway, saved him from death about 5:20 yesterday when the automobile he was driving skidded at the High street crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad in West Medford, skidding half over the track while an express train from Boston was approaching only 75 feet away.

Wilkins came down High street from the boulevard to meet his father, at West Medford Square. He was driving the auto through the darkness in the face of a stiff wind and rain which obscured the view of the lights on the crossing gates, which were down. When he did see them, he set the brakes so hard that streams of fire shot out from the rear wheels. The road, however, was slippery, and the car shot under the gates into the north track of the other side, then skidded completely around and half way on to the outbound track directly in the path of the rapidly moving express.

Disregarding the cries of bystanders and the crossing tender to jump, young Wilkins threw on the self-starter of his stalled car and cleared the outbound track by a few feet just as the train shot by.

The glass front of the auto was smashed to bits when it hit the north gate. The cap on the radiator, taken off by the gate, struck Wilkins on the chest, but he was not seriously injured. His right hand was cut by broken glass. The gate was smashed.

EUROPEAN WAR ZONES

PREPARATION OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—To the wonderfully complete maps of the European war zones, prepared by the war offices of the belligerents, American army officers owe the detailed study they are able to make of the troop movements in Belgium and France and to some extent upon the Austrian, Russian, and German-Russian frontiers. When dispatches give the names of villages, towns, and cities, fighting is in progress, it is possible to turn to these maps and see at a glance the character of the country, its roads and byways with details of their construction and even to note the nature of the soil on slopes where the men will have to "dig in" to withstand the storm of rifle, machine-gun and field-piece fire.

There are yet no such maps of this country. The European maps, the product of years of toil in preparation for war and those used by General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, General French, the English leader, and the German chief of staff, undoubtedly are far more complete than any other foreign governments have been able to obtain showing the regions now torn by war.

With such maps at his disposal a commander can be far in the rear of his long battle line and yet know from moment to moment the exact nature of obstacles in any portion of the front he is facing. He could direct the places of entrenchment to within a few yards of any small detail or battery of guns, and could order forward his heavy artillery along a certain road with entire confidence that the road would carry the huge weight. There is no trail or bypath, ditch or stone fence that is not shown.

For nearly fifteen years the United States army has been struggling in a modest way to supplement its maps of this country so they would offer to a very modest degree at least, the aid to military operations which European commanders have at hand. The work is known as the Progressive Military Map of the United States and officers are assigned to carry it forward in various parts of the country each year. A dual purpose is served by the assignment since the officers are given practical training in map making which would be invaluable to them in case of war.

The progress of fifteen years on the huge task is described by army officers as "insignificant" outside of its educational value. To obtain adequate maps for military operations covering even possible theaters of war in this country would mean the expenditure of enormous sums of money and no provision for such an achievement ever has been made. The work is being carried forward, however, as fully as is possible under the circumstances, and whenever officers are available they go out to gather data to be added to war department maps. It is possible more attention will be given to the work at a later date and the data thus far assembled will be invaluable as indicating where to concentrate efforts and what changes are to be expected in any section from year to year.

MENDING RATTAN FURNITURE

"We have several old rattan chairs in the attic that I very much want to utilize. Can you tell me how to fix them up Marie?" and Marjorie sank back on the couch perfectly sure that the French maid would not fail her in giving the desired information.

"Old rattan chairs may be much improved unless they are broken," began Marie, "and even then they may be mended by scrubbing and rinsing, and after they are perfectly dry, dressing them with oil, as described on both the wrong and right sides, working well into the crevices. If new rattan furniture is thus oiled at first and cleaned and oiled once a year thereafter, it will last for years."

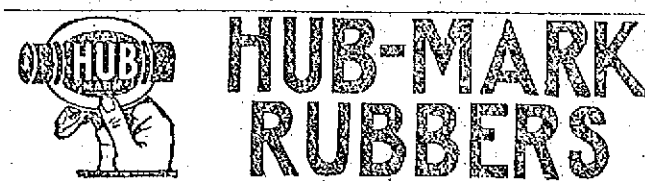

"If your market basket, clothes basket, or waste paper basket of willow shows a few loose ends, put it to soak for twenty minutes in lukewarm water. Rest it on the part that is to be repaired, then turn in enough water, will shrink the cane to its original to soak this part. The important size."

thing is to get the willow ends soft and pliable.

"When this is accomplished, the strings can be readily bent back into place and if you push them in firmly they will stay in place when dry, as they will be sure to snap off. If you use liquid glue for mending, cover the mended joint with shellac varnish after the glue has dried."

"During damp, muggy weather glue is apt to loosen and allow the mended article to come apart. Shellac varnish is impervious to moisture and so prevents the glue from being attacked. It is also of a neutral color and does not show."

"When the cane seats of chairs have become stretched, take a teaspoonful of washing soda and dissolve it in a quart of boiling water. Dip a cloth in this solution and wipe the underside of the seats, leaving the chairs turned upside down to dry. This treatment will shrink the cane to its original size."

NOTABLE IN THE WAR

Celebrated Places Now Prominent in the European War—Cyprus, Calais, Vistula

The National Geographic society has prepared the following facts concerning places that are figuring prominently in the news of the military operations in the European war.

Cyprus—An island in the Mediterranean, which has figured largely in the history of Europe. Mt. Olympus occupies its southern portion. Famed in antiquity for its forests, today, except for the pine woods on the summit of this historic mountain, it is largely bare and treeless. From Egypt came monarchs to find timber for their fleets and from Athens and Rome men to work its rich copper mines. The Apostle Paul visited Cyprus in his first great missionary journey, and Mark went there later with Barnabas. At the division of the Roman empire Cyprus went to the Byzantine empire. In the 12th century England took the island and sold it to the Knights Templars, who in turn sold it to the king of Jerusalem. In 1570 the Turks sent 60,000 men against Cyprus; Nicosia, its capital, was taken after a 45-day siege, and 20,000 people were put to the sword. In 1878 England and Turkey entered into an agreement whereby Turkey retained sovereignty over the island, while England took charge of its administration. Cyprus is 145 miles long, from 40 to 50 miles wide, and is about 3,600 square miles in area, with a fertile plain separating northern and southern mountain ranges. The island produces copper, gold, silver, asbestos, gypsum, red Jasper, cotton, wheat, barley, tobacco, silk and fruits. Wine is its best known product. The water supply is meagre but the climate is healthy.

Calais—An important port on the north coast of France, and only 22 miles across the Strait from Dover, England. Dover in turn is only 65 miles from London. Calais is 55 miles northwest of Lille. The population of the city is about 65,000. Formerly

Calais was a celebrated fortress. It is now defended by four forts, none of which is of modern construction. It also has a citadel, built 350 years ago, and a few modern batteries. The old town stands on an island, hemmed in by the canal and the harbor basin, which divide it from the extensive manufacturing quarter of St. Pierre. Transcontinental passenger traffic with England, carried on by the South-eastern and Chatham and the Northern of France railways. The average number of passengers carried annually was upwards of 300,000 before the present war.

Vistula river—One of the chief rivers of Europe, rising in Austria, flowing through Russian Poland, by way of Warsaw, and crossing West Prussia from south to north, and having its mouth in the Gulf of Danzig. At Thorn, where it crosses the Russian-German frontier, there are heavy fortifications, as there are at many other points from there to the gulf.

Bromberg—A city in northeastern Germany, in the Province of Posen, seven miles west of the Vistula river and the west Prussian boundary. It is located on the Bromberg canal, which connects the Brabe and the Netze rivers and thus establishes communication between the Vistula, the Oder and the Elbe. The population of Bromberg is about 60,000. Its industries are principally iron works, machine shops, paper factories and flour mills.

Termonde—A Belgian city, also known as Dendermonde, 15 miles southwest of Antwerp, on the Dender river near its junction with the Scheldt. The town is known in history because of the drastic action of its inhabitants in 1667 in repelling Louis XIV. As he approached the town the citizens opened the dikes and flooded the country and Louis was compelled to beat a hasty retreat.

Termonde is one of the five fortified places in Belgium. Its fortifications are old, consisting of two forts and a walled city.

Memel—The northernmost town in the German empire, with the exception of the village of Nimmersatt, on a small sound connecting the Kurisches Haff with the Baltic sea and 75 miles by air-line east of north of Koeningberg. The town is but nine miles from the Russian border. The town was the most popular weapon of the ancient enemies of the town—the Lithuanians and Poles burning it repeatedly during the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries. Its last fire, which has necessitated a rebuilding of the greater portion of the town, occurred in 1811. A citadel and other fortifications protect Memel on the side next to the sea. It has a large trade in timber, grain and fish; manufactures iron ware, beer, spirits, soap, chemicals and other wares, and builds ships. It has a population of about 23,000.

Piotrkow—The capital of a government of the same name in Russian Poland, 50 miles southwest of Warsaw by rail, 57 miles from the Prussian border and six miles west of the River Pilica. In the 16th and 16th centuries the diets of the kingdom of Poland used to meet here and it was here that many of the Polish kings were elected. Piotrkow is one of the oldest towns in Poland. Its military church was formerly a castle built by Casimir the Great in the 14th century.

Kars—A strongly fortified town of about 22,000 inhabitants in Russian Armenia.

Armenia, 40 miles from the Turkish border and 115 miles southwest of Tiflis, on the Arpaçchai river. Located in a fertile and well-cultivated plain, it was formerly a flourishing town, but the Russian-Turkish wars of 1828, 1855 and 1877 had a heavy hand on it, destroying its trade and robbing it of its wealthiest and most industrious inhabitants. It was ceded to Russia in 1878. The citadel of Kara is built of unburnt stone.

ENGLISH SUBMARINE E-9 APPROACHES IN DARING EXPLOITS OF GERMAN U-9

Lieutenant Commander Max K. Horton has won recognition in England for his exploits with his submarine E-9. In daring, if not in actual damage accomplished, this British submarine has nearly equaled the German submarine U-9, which sank several English warships in the North sea. Commander Horton on Sept. 13 sank the German cruiser Hela under the guns of Helgoland. Within a month later he sank the German destroyer S-126 at the mouth of the Ems. She was sent to the bottom in three minutes. The accompanying illustration shows Commander Horton and a sketch of his latest exploit drawn from a rough sketch made by a sailor on his submarine. This drawing shows the periscope of the submarine through which the crew under the water could witness the destruction of the destroyer.

OPP. TALBOT CLOTHING CO.

(Sometimes called Mechlin) had 60,000 inhabitants and was an important art and manufacturing center. St. Rombold cathedral, one of the most interesting medieval church buildings in Europe, dating back to the 15th century, contained an altar piece which was one of Van Dyke's masterpieces. St. John's church and the Church of Our Lady contained paintings of Rubens. The historic Palace of Justice was once the home of Margaret of Austria.

Malines, which lay in the course of the German army as it moved from Brussels to Antwerp, has, like most ancient cities, narrow streets. The main traveled street, along which nearly all traffic moves in passing northward toward Antwerp, is scarcely 30 feet wide from curb to curb, and has many turns in it, which made the progress of an enemy exceedingly difficult.

Stone and brick business houses and residences three or four stories high, built in a continuous line, stood along this street. Many of these were battered down completely by the German artillery, and the debris filled the street so completely that only enough has been cleared away in places to permit the passage of a single automobile.

Soldiers Use Habitable Houses. Where fire did not spread to the wrecked buildings the ruined stocks of merchants and the broken furniture of their living apartments in the upper stories may still be seen. Such food supplies as were useful for the army were taken by the German officers, and soldiers are billeted in the houses which are still fit for habitation.

Malines is intersected by several arms of the river Dyle, and is practically surrounded by a canal and a wide boulevard. Visitors entering the city from the south are challenged by German soldiers standing guard at the canal bridge, and are again stopped as they enter the great medieval stone arch forming the entrance to the main portion of the old city. The historic cathedral stands in the very center of the town, in a sort of triangle. Its tower, at least 300 feet high, evidently was a target for the German artillery, whose aim was not sharp enough to bring down the massive Gothic pile of stone. Corners of the tower were chipped by shells, but the foundations and walls suffered no serious damage.

However, the main portion of the church was less fortunate. It stands in such a way that it presented its entire south side as a target for the approaching army. All the windows were shattered, the south wall was hopelessly shattered, so battered, in fact, that it was feared the entire main portion of the building must be torn down. All the furnishings of the cathedral were buried in the crushed tile, stone and mortar from the damaged roof and walls.

Artillery Wrecked Factories. Factories along the river and the canal shared the same fate as residences, business houses and churches. The great railway shops were ruined. Hat factories, tapestry factories, woolen mills and starch factories, which furnished employment to thousands were wrecked by artillery fire.

Trenches in the sandy beet fields which flank the highways leading into Malines and thousands of rifle pits show how stubbornly the Belgians resisted the Germans. Many of the trenches are so long they resemble drainage ditches. They are from three to five feet deep and about three feet wide. In many places they are covered with planks and timbers, upon which brush and earth were piled to afford protection against shells.

The rows of beautiful elms which lined the highway were torn and shattered by the rain of bullets and shell. Where the trees were obstacles to artillery fire they were cut down and used as shelter by the soldiers. Hedges were mowed down by the German guns wherever they afforded a screen for the Belgians. The small fields, none of which contains more than 10 acres, where the crops were not burrowed out by the entrenching army, were so trampled over by the rival forces that little remains of the potatoes, beets and cabbage which would have sustained Belgium this winter.

Pastures suffered as badly as the cultivated lands, and the beautiful Holstein cows, which afforded Belgium's milk and cheese supply, have nearly all been driven away by the German army. A few horses unfit for work remain in the fields, and the faithful dogs, which are harnessed beneath the high two-wheeled carts of the peasants, are about the only domestic animals left.

It is no uncommon sight to see a family of refugees on the Malines road with their bedding, a few household utensils and children too young to walk, loaded on one of these carts, pushed by a tired mother, assisted by the dog, tooting patiently at the axle.

A GREAT SPY SYSTEM

INNOCENT-LOOKING SKETCHES OF COWS ARE FULL OF SIGNIFICANCE—SYSTEM DISCLOSED

One of the surprising features of the war is the elaborate and extensive spy system that has been disclosed, particularly on the part of the Germans. Some of the clever tricks practiced by these parties is told in the special war issue of the Scientific American of Nov. 7, in a genuine letter from the firing line, written by an aide-de-camp of the

French army, who tells the following incidents:

It has just been discovered that the spies who kept the army of the famous Gen. von Kluck informed were using a very old way of proceeding, very romantic indeed, that of the gipsies, the vagabonds and the tramps, who, as a means of corresponding with each other, draw varied figures on the walls of the farms and houses along the road.

One thinks he is looking at the artless drawings of a child, while these awkward lines have a precise significance, and the smallest detail is full of meaning. Moreover, the German spies have lately copied a burglar's trick, and this is how:

On the walls are seen some simple drawings, which do not attract attention, and before which no one would stop. The design, for instance, represents a cow, the face is artlessly drawn however, easily discernible. Sometimes the cows are of small dimensions, or medium, or very big. Some are looking one way, some another. Certain of them have the head raised toward the sky.

These cows were drawn by the scouts. A small cow meant that the road was poorly guarded; a bigger one that there were French troops in the neighborhood; and a still bigger cow that a fort or some important work of defense was to be found nearby.

To render the information more precise, the orientation of the cow's head gave indications as to the dangerous spots to be avoided, or to be watched. As for the cows looking toward the sky, their meaning was that before advancing any farther it was necessary to explore the surrounding country.

FOUND IN THE BALLOT BOX. "What do you mean?" demanded the woman watcher at the polls. "What's wrong?" "I hear you have been throwing out the ballot of women." "We have not. We did throw out a recipe for sponge cake, a package of powder papers and a couple of love letters," Judge.

TWELVE MEN'S LIVES HANG IN THE BALANCE

While Count Continues in Arizona on Initiative Measure to Abolish Penalty

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Twelve men's lives hang in the balance while the count continues on the initiative measure at the recent election, abolishing the death penalty. Twelve of the 14 counties give a majority of 719 against the abolition of the death penalty, the vote being 11,009 for and 15,319 against.

Execution of 11 of the convicted men is set for Dec. 19, Governor Hunt having reprieved them until after the election returns determined the people's will. One other man is under sentence of death but the date has not yet been fixed. Two more have been sentenced but one has been granted a new trial and the other's appeal is pending.

In case the measure is defeated, as the vote seems to indicate, Governor

Hunt probably will reprieve all the men until after Christmas and then scatter the dates for their execution.

SO PER CENT OF EMPLOYEES MUST BE AMERICAN CITIZENS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Arizona's initiative measure providing that 50 per cent of the employees shall be American citizens in any business employing more than five persons was carried at the recent election, it was announced today.

Opponents of the measure announced that it will be attacked in the courts. The law will particularly affect railroad construction work, mining and similar lines where much common labor is employed.

CAMERON IS SENTENCED

ARRESTED FOR NON-SUPPORT AND BIGAMY—WIFE NO. 1 HAD WIFE NO. 2 ARRESTED

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The marital tangle of former United States Deputy Marshal Donald Cameron, charged with non-support and bigamy, reached a dramatic climax in the Roxbury district court yesterday when wife No. 1 had wife No. 2 arrested in the court room.

The two Mrs. Camerons, however, showed perfect unanimity in one respect: they both refused to speak to their unhappy husband.

Cameron was sentenced by Judge Abner to serve a year in the house of correction for neglecting Mrs. Cameron, No. 1 and her seven children, who live at 13 Highland avenue, Roxbury. His attorney, A. R. V. Hill, thereupon asked that the bigamy charge against him be dismissed, and the court agreed.

Immediately Special Officer Frank V. Sullivan of the Roxbury Crossing station, who had originally caught Cameron under the bed of wife No. 2, otherwise known as Melba Beauty, in Lawrence a few days ago, arrested Cameron on two warrants sworn out by the first Mrs. Cameron in Lawrence, charging him with bigamy and another offense, and also arrested the second Mrs. Cameron on a Lawrence warrant on a statutory charge.

Cameron calmly admitted his marriage to the Beauty woman, whose name was first linked with his when she was his star witness in the successful prosecution of an important "white slave" case some time ago. He said he had not supported his origi-

French Official Report

SAYS GERMAN ATTACKS HAVE CEASED—ALLIES MAKE PROGRESS AT SEVERAL POINTS

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The French official communication, issued this afternoon, says that yesterday there were hardly any infantry attacks on the part of the enemy and that their artillery activities also were largely reduced.

The text of the communication follows: "The day of Nov. 19 was marked by the almost total absence of infantry attacks on the part of the enemy; at the same time their artillery fire was much less violent than on the afternoon of Nov. 19."

"To the north the weather has been very bad and snow has fallen. All the region of the Yser canal to the east of Dixmude is invaded by the waters. In front of Ranscapelle we have withdrawn from the water two 185 millimeter guns abandoned by the Germans."

"There has been a very fairly intense artillery fire to the south of Ypres."

"On the center there has been no important action to report. On our right wing the Germans have reconquered the destroyed sector of Chauvencourt. Further to the east we have made some progress."

THE NERVES AND THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to recall a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood. You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

R. J. BURDETTE DEAD

NOTED HUMORIST, AUTHOR AND PREACHER DIED AT HIS HOME IN PASADENA, CAL.

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Dr. Robert J. Burdette, preacher, author and humorist, died at his home here yesterday afternoon.

He had been ill for the greater part of two years, and for the last week has been in a state of coma. He was 70 years old.

Robert J. Burdette began cultivating good humor obscurely in Peoria, Ill., 49 years ago when he spent part of his days at a desk on the Peoria Transcript "trying to think," as he himself once related, "of pleasant things to tell the folks when I went home at night."

His audience of "folks" then was Currier Garrett, the Peoria girl he had married a short time before, while she lay supposedly on her death bed, but who lived, and, though an invalid for life, became immortalized by her husband as "Her Little Serene Happiness."

It was she who encouraged him to now his humor in wider fields. At her bedside Burdette became prolific with fun-making contributions to the Burlington, Ia., Hawkeye, and through these he became famous the country over as "The Burlington Hawkeye Man."

The little invalid wife encouraged him, too, to try the lecture field.

"She kept me at it," said Burdette, "and in due time I had a lecture on my hands—'The Rise and Fall of the Moustache.'" Burdette insisted on trying to lecture first in Keokuk—"for Keokuk hated Burlington"—and if he succeeded there he would know that it was good. Even Keokuk applauded. The whole United States later did the same. He became a sort of itinerant preacher.

At 60, ten years later, Mr. Burdette was called to the permanent pastorate of the Temple Baptist church of Los Angeles, California.

Although Burdette's original home was in Greensboro, Pa., where he was born in 1841—the latter part of his life was spent in California. At Sun-ny Crest, Pasadena, he had a spacious house with broad verandas. His first wife had died after 15 years of encouragement to him, during which she had traveled all over the country with him. In 1899 he married Mrs. Clara B. Baker of Pasadena.

A fugitive instance of Burdette's colloquial humor was a letter home to his flock in Los Angeles during his first trip to Europe. He dated the letter from "some distance out in the damp," and said, in part:

"The scenery along this route, although somewhat monotonous, is splendidly irrigated. But it seems too early for the growing crops. Nothing has come up yet, except on shipboard, and that has gone overboard. The route is not nearly so populous as the Santa Fe trail over the desert. We have just two kinds of days—rain days, when we see a ship and the days when we see a ship and the days when we see a ship."

The veteran humorist found fun in everything. While he was forced to abandon it in the pulpit largely because of the reputation he had made for fun-making, he agreed with Henry Ward Beecher that a joke in the pulpit was not at all out of place. It was, as Beecher said, "When you are fighting the devil, shoot him with anything."

Burdette died with the conviction that there was not only just as much fun in the world today as ever, but "a great deal more—because," as he said, "there are more people in it, and people are the funniest things on this side of the grave."

$71,000 WAS EXTORTED

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SWINDLED CROWN LAND LUMBER MEN, SAYS ROYAL COMMISSION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 20.—The royal commission which investigated charges that $71,000 was extorted by government officials from the holders of crown land lumber licenses found that $71,000 had been extorted from the lumbermen by extortion, according to the report of the commission made public last night.

"Having in view the testimony given by the different contributors," says the report, "the only conclusion that seems possible to us is that the money was actually extorted."

The charges, which were made in the New Brunswick legislature by L. A. Fugate, specifically named J. K. Fleming, Premier of the Province, as responsible for the alleged extortion. The Premier was also accused of the diversion of money in connection with the construction of the St. John Valley railway.

The report says the commission does not find evidence "to prove that Fleming personally directed the extortion." It finds that Mr. Fleming named the treasurer of the so-called "extortion fund," E. R. Teed of Woodstock, that he gave the fund was being raised and that from time to time money was coming into Mr. Teed's hands. The report says it was shown that the money was extorted by W. H. Berry, superintendent of sealers, and that Fleming "acquiesced in the collection of such money at a time and from a source gravely improper."

The Rapids and Beltrites squeezed out victories in the Lamson league, while Centralville and Highland Methodists dropped games to the Immanuel Baptists and First Baptists in the Baraca league. Fast Pace Cuts Down Number of Teams From 18 to 12

CHARLIE SHEPPARD of Lowell went to Lawrence last evening accompanied by his manager, Frank Murphy, and a number of Lowell fans and fought a ten round draw with Tommy McFarland of Boston at the Unity Cycle club. Sheppard weighed in at 125½ pounds and McFarland tipped the beam at 110, but in spite of this fact the local white wind had a shade on his heavier opponent and should have been awarded the decision. Sheppard put up a great exhibition and his work was well appreciated. In the eighth round as had McFarland in bad shape and Charlie tried hard to slip over a counter. In the ninth and tenth rounds the Lowell boy landed at will and when the bout was called a draw Sheppard and his admirers were greatly disappointed. Two weeks from last night Sheppard will tackle Jack Mansfield at the Lawrence club and a large number of local sports plan to take in the slug at will and the local white wind had a shade on his heavier opponent and should have been awarded the decision. INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Tom Higgins says that the Pattee Klub came through with flying colors.

The employees of the Tremont & Suffolk blanket room still continue to enjoy steady work.

Joseph Stowell of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. is being congratulated by his many friends on his approaching marriage.

The Mathew Temperance Institute will conduct the fourth of a series of ladies' nights tonight at the society headquarters in Central street.

It is said that if some of the mills would substitute their antiquated machinery with the latest in this line, business might pan out a little better.

Edward Murphy, James Corbett, Willie Miland and Joseph Hecy, employees of the Bay State mills, have decided to keep their camp at Silver Lake open throughout the winter months.

Bill Barry of the Hartford-Biselow Carpet Co. wins the distinction of being the best crib player at the Y. M. C. I. rooms, defeating Mike Moran of the Massachusetts mills.

Charles Farrell's duties as secretary of the Manufacturers Bowling League must have impaired his bowling eye. We don't see his name at the top of the list.

Clarence Spaulding of the Field Lumber Co. gives promise of developing into quite an alley artist. Clarence is rolling well above the nineties.

The friends of Jimmie Histon, the speedy little halfback of the local high school team, who during the summer was employed at the U. S. Bunting Co., should feel exceptionally proud of him. This boy has been one of the mainstays of the local eleven all through the season, and his work was making instrumental in defeating Nashua high Wednesday afternoon. Watch him next year.

Machinists Union Held Smoker

The Machinists union held a largely attended meeting last evening in the union headquarters in Middle street, followed by a "smoker," which proved quite enjoyable.

Phelps presided at the business session and called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Quite a grist of routine business was disposed of and seven new members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. Cigars and refreshments were then passed, and a carefully arranged musical program was carried out.

Messrs. Bedouir and Lescault played several duets on the piano and were given a grand reception. The remaining musical numbers were contributed by the members of the organization, and interesting remarks were made by the officers. The evening's festivities closed with the members listening to the secretary's report, which showed the union to be in a flourishing condition both financially and numerically.

Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the inclement weather, the meeting and entertainment scheduled by the Boot & Shoe Workers union for last night was called off. The meeting was to have been held in Harlowton hall, and a goodly number of members of the union put in appearance, but Organizer Daniel E. Whalen, who has by hard work built up a strong organization in this city, did not deem it advisable to hold the meeting without the full complement of members present. By calling off the meeting, Mr. Whalen suffered quite a loss in money, as he had widely advertised the affair. The talent who were to contribute to the entertainment were also in attendance, but acquiesced to the wishes of Mr. Whalen, and offered their services for the next meeting, which promises to be a rouser. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

A. G. Pollard E. M. B. A.

The A. G. Pollard Employees Mutual Benefit association meeting which was to have been held in the shoe department after work last evening was postponed owing to bad weather. The meeting was called to take action on the dancing party which is an annual event conducted by the association.

Another meeting will be called at an early date, and it is to be hoped that the members will forego their hunger for a few brief minutes and show by their attendance that they are willing to take an active part in making the affair an unprecedented success.

J. L. Chalifoux Bowling Tournament.

The clerks of the J. L. Chalifoux store will assemble at one of the local alleys tonight and witness the second games on the store bowling tournament. Most of the teams have been undergoing secret practice and exceptional scores are being recorded.

Bill Souther, captain of the gent's furnishing team, who has been the league's most consistent bowler to date, will have to look to his laurels. It is said, as quite a few of the members of other teams are looking for his scalp. Whether they get it remains to be seen. Mr. Souther, as usual, has charge of the arrangements. During the evening refreshments will be served to the tired bowlers and spectators alike, and the evening spent promises to be very enjoyable.

Domestic and Imported.

Attention has been called to the fact that there is a vast deal of mis-information relative to the value of domestic and imported fabrics prevailing throughout the country. This matter has been discussed at greater or less length in previous issues of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, and comparisons of fabrics have been made at various times, conclusively proving that the products of our domestic mills are frequently of greater intrinsic worth than those manufactured abroad. In years past it is quite probable that there was a legitimate reason for this belief, as the industry was in a state of development and could not be expected to have attained the same degree of skill as in countries where woolen manufacturing has been carried on for many generations.

In more recent years, however, the domestic manufacturer has become more expert in fabric construction, as well as in the manipulation of raw materials, and at the present time is capable of producing fabrics equal to those made in any manufacturing country in the world. The responsibility for the continuance of the fallacy that imported goods are superior to those manufactured in our own country may be laid at the doorstep of the retailer almost entirely. It is customary to feature imported goods and to demand for them prices far higher than could be obtained for similar goods of domestic manufacture, though our own goods are of greater intrinsic worth.

In past years our tariff laws have been such that it was impossible to profitably import medium and low grade fabrics, and as a result the imported fabrics shown were of distinctly high type. For this reason the majority of the consuming public has become imbued with the idea that nothing but high grade fabrics were manufactured by foreign mills.

This is a very much mistaken idea, the foreign manufacturer being particularly efficient in the production of woollens containing a minimum of wool. A proof of this contention may be found in the fact that England and the continent are the best markets in the world for rags and by-products suitable for manufacturing into woollen goods. At the present time, when importations of woollens are very much lessened because of the conditions abroad, it would seem that a concerted effort to do away with this false impression as to relative values might be productive of excellent results.

It must be evident to every one who examines the offerings of our tailoring establishments and department stores that vast quantities of merchandise represented as the products of foreign looms are really of domestic origin, or that the figures furnished by the government as to the value of imports are of but little worth. Statistics showing that really imported fabrics are marketed in rather limited quantities to a restricted trade, while if we are to believe the statements of the retailer, a considerable part of his stock consists of goods manufactured abroad. The most recent statistics available show that this entire quantity of woollen and worsted fabrics imported are somewhat less than 2 per cent of the total quantity manufactured in this country. If this is true, and there is every reason to believe that the government figures relating to these matters are accurate, there must be an enormous yardage of domestic-made goods marketed as imported.

Probably the majority of those conversant with the merchandising of fine woollens and worsteds are familiar with the fact that greater profits can be obtained by labeling domestic products as imported, than the other practices are very prevalent. We are personally cognizant of the fact that a leading New England mill has manufactured thousands of pieces of men's wear fabrics having special listings, special tags and special methods of packaging, which have been sold to the ultimate consumer as foreign goods, while at the same time the mill was producing a superior fabric which reached the ultimate consumer at a much lower price, due to the fact that it was marketed as the product of an American mill.

BIG STIR IN WALTHAM

CITIZENS OBJECT TO ERECTION OF LARGEST INSANE HOSPITAL IN THE STATE IN THEIR CITY

WALTHAM, Nov. 20.—New developments arose yesterday in regard to the insane asylum which may be erected on Trapelo road, this city. Col. Geo. H. Doty, former assistant United States treasurer at Boston and former chairman of the republican state committee, and John R. Rankin, a prominent intensive farmer, both owning large real estate near the proposed hospital, announced that unless the project is called off they will remove their residences and dispose of their property in the city. Waltham would lose about $7000 annually by such a move, as both are heavy taxpayers.

The whole site of the hospital did not become known here until yesterday. The institution will be the largest of its kind in the state, and will be used for all of the insane people of the Metropolitan district. This, together with Massachusetts School for Feeble Minded, which adjoins property on which the new hospital will be erected, gives Waltham more than its share of insane people, the citizens of Waltham believe.

The land on which the Sanitary commission has an option and on which it will report to the governor's council next week comprises 118 acres of the Phineas Lawrence estate on Trapelo road and the farm of Dominio Broderick adjoining it. On the other side of the road it will also take a large tract of land adjoining the school for feeble-minded.

The fact that the inmates will grow vegetables on the latter piece of land in summer will necessitate their crossing Trapelo road several times daily. As this is a thoroughfare between Boston and Worcester there is much agitation over the matter.

Mrs. Robert H. Pierson, wife of the captain of the medical corps of the United States army, has just returned to New York city after spending two years at an army post 800 miles up the Yukon river in Alaska.

NEW ARMY OF A MILLION

HOUSE OF COMMONS FORMALLY PASSED VOTE FOR SUPPLEMENTARY ARMY ESTIMATES

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The house of commons today formally passed the vote for the supplementary army estimate, which provides for an additional army of one million men.

This is the additional million men mentioned by Premier Asquith in the house of commons last Monday. It is quite apart from the territorial and additional to the 1,160,000 men now said to be under arms.

Referring to the supplementary estimate, Harold J. Tennant, under secretary of state for war, said the official view was that this further million men ought to be sufficient, so far as the government was able to see at present, to crown British arms with success.

HOSTILITIES IN MEXICO

OREGON'S TROOPS EXTRAISING FOR ORIZABA — DECLARATION THAT WAR HAD BROKEN OUT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—American Consul Sullivan, in a despatch filed in Mexico City at 5 o'clock last night, reported that General Oregón's troops were extraising for Orizaba and moving the offices of the government with them.

Foreign Minister Fabella telegraphed the Caranza agency here today a formal declaration that hostilities with Villa had broken out and telling of the appointment of military commanders for the various states and districts.

Turbulent conditions prevail throughout Mexico City, reported the consul. Acting Secretary of State Lansing conferred today with acting Secretary Breckinridge of the war department and Brig. Gen. Scott, chief of staff, over details of the evacuation of Vera Cruz. It was decided that the customs collected during the period of occupation supposed to aggregate more than $1,000,000 would be brought away by Major General Funston to be held in this country for delivery to the government which is finally recognized.

"MASSACRE AT TAMINES"

BELGIAN COMMISSION OF INQUIRY REPORTS AN ALLEGED GERMAN VIOLATION OF LAWS

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Belgian commission of inquiry into alleged German violation of the laws and customs of war has issued another lengthy report which is published by the British official bureau.

It covers what is described as the "Massacre at Taminies," the "Sack of Blant," and the "Outrages in the provinces of Belgium Luxembourg."

The report says that over 650 persons were shot by the Germans in the village of Taminies. Referring to the alleged massacre, the report describes how a group of between 100 and 200 men were collected in front of the village church. As shooting them down with rifles proved too slow German officers ordered up a machine gun and those not killed by the bullets from this weapon were finished with bayonet thrusts.

The United States navy collector Jason, which is bringing the gifts, is expected at Falmouth in a few days. The Belgian minister has requested the American relief committee to take charge of the presents destined for Belgium.

FRENCH ZOUAVES SHOOTING FROM FARM HOUSE

This picture shows French zouaves firing at the German line from a farm house near Arras, France. In many parts of the long 250 miles battle front the fighting is of this character, the soldiers using houses as protection and literally battling their way from building to building. There is hardly a home near the front but what is bullet riddled or partly ruined from artillery fire.

IMPORTANT COTTON PRINCIPLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A new principle was laid down by the Interstate Commerce commission today when it held in the case of numerous cotton merchants against the Atlantic coast line that the compression of export cotton at the port of trans-shipment is not a service rendered by the owner of the property transported which is connected with such transportation by the rail carriers and that the carriers must cease from making allowance for such compression.

BERLIN OFFICIAL REPORT

GERMANS HAVE REPULSED FRENCH ATTACKS IN VERDUN RUSSIANS RETREATING

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(Via wireless) The German troops have repulsed a French attack in Verdun, France, and in the east the Russian retreat in northwestern Poland continues, according to an official communication issued today by the German general army headquarters.

The text of the official statement reads:

"In West Flanders and northern France no appreciable change in the situation has taken place. Heavy rains and snows, which first soaked and then partly froze the ground, have made our movements very difficult. A French attack at Comblat to the southeast of Verdun was repulsed.

"The situation on the East Prussian frontier remains unchanged. East of the plain of the Masurian lakes, the Russian captured an unoccupied fort in which were some old obsolete cannon. The retreat of the enemy through Lino and Neawahl continues. Our attack has made progress to the south of Plock.

"No decision yet has been reached in the fighting around Lodz and to the west of Czenatochow.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the dwelling at 10 Fifth street which was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. The insurance was in the name of L. R. J. Varnum.

The committee on municipal program which has been at work for a year drafting a new model charter and home rule constitutional amendments presented a partial report in the form of sections dealing with the council, the city management, the civil service and efficiency board. A partial draft of a constitutional amendment was likewise presented.

COUNT TOLSTOI

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press)—The dispute respecting the disposition of the most important manuscripts of Count Tolstoy, the novelist, has at length been decided by the court of final instance in favor of the widowed countess. The manuscripts of the earlier works, upon which the writer's true fame is based, were given in Tolstoy's lifetime to his wife, who deposited them with other relics in the Moscow Historical Museum.

The unfortunate wording of Tolstoy's will led the daughter to attempt to secure these gifts in Countess Tolstoy as a part of the novelist's estate, while the Countess, also fearing to lose them, endeavored to recover them from the Historical Museum, which, pending a settlement of the dispute, refused to hand them over to either party. It has now been decided that they may be returned to the widowed Countess as her property.

MANY OFFICERS KILLED

OFFICIAL ORDER TO ARMY LEADERS TO COVER STRIPES ON BATTLEFIELDS

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press)—The official order against exposure to the enemy's fire, resulting from the alarming proportion of mortality among the officers, has caused a great deal of discussion and some resistance.

"Is it you who bring me reinforcements?" asked the colonel of a regiment.

"Very good, but you are an officer?"

"Yes, Colonel."

"But where are the stripes?"

"They are turned under, Colonel, conformably to the minister's instructions."

"You are afraid, then?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then you accept the circular?"

No stripes, in this colonel's estimation, were equivalent to immunity from danger or showing the white feather. To expose his men or perhaps, as the result of his infectious bravery, the officers about him kept their stripes. This regiment has lost two-thirds of its officers.

WINTER OATS IN THE SOUTH

Every southern farmer should grow enough oats to feed his work stock during at least a portion of the year. In addition to furnishing feed grain at less cost than it can be purchased, fall-sown oats prevent the washing of the soil, by which much fertility is frequently lost. There is still time to sow winter oats in the Gulf States, though this work should be done at once if good results are to be obtained. According to specialists of the department, oats sown in the Southern States during October or the first half of November may be expected to produce at least twice the yield of grain obtained from spring seeding.

Winter grain may be sown on land which produced a crop of cotton, corn or sorghum the past summer. If this land has not already been plowed, it will be better to make the surface soil fine and loose with the disk or drag before sowing. Better results are obtained from sowing with the drill than from broadcast seeding, though if a drill is not available sowing the seed broadcast on well-prepared land usually results in a good stand. If the preceding crop was well fertilized, 100 to 200 pounds of acid phosphate will be all that the oats require this fall, though a little nitrate of soda will help the fall growth, especially if the soil is not already well supplied with nitrogen from the growing of cowpeas or some other legume. A top dressing of 50 to 100 pounds of nitrate of soda applied when growth starts in the spring will gradually increase the yield.

The variety of winter oats most commonly grown in the south is Red Rustproof, Appier, Lawson, Hundred Bushel, Bancroft, and Cook are selections or strains of Red Rustproof which are said to be particularly valuable in some localities. The Fulcrum is a promising new variety which matures a week or ten days earlier than the Red Rustproof, and usually produces as much or more grain. As the kernels of all these varieties are large, from 2½ to 3½ bushels should be sown to the acre. The smaller quantity is sufficient if the seed is drilled early on well-prepared land, while three bushels or more are needed when the seed is sown broadcast late in the season. The Winter Turf or Virginia Gray is a very hardy variety, which is valuable for pasture or hay production, but which does not yield as much grain in the

The region of St. Mihiel and the battle line along the heights of the Meuse are shown in this map. The French, according to the official statement from Paris, have taken possession of houses in the village of Chauvencourt, which had served as barracks for the St. Mihiel garrison. Chauvencourt is the only point of support still held by the Germans on the left bank of the Meuse. On the right bank of the Meuse the French command the road from Apremont to Vionville, and this leaves to the Germans only one way from St. Mihiel to the east, the road from St. Mihiel northeast to Vionville and thence to Metz.

Southern states as the Red Rustproof. On account of the small size of the kernels, only 1½ bushels of seed of this variety are required.

There is a pronounced feeling that Mrs. Springer has been drowned in the pond, due to the fact that footprints on the shore point toward the water where the ice was found broken, and no footprints going in the other direction have been found.

If the woman was drowned in the pond it must have been after 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, because previous to that time the police had been there and no footprints were seen.

GEN. VILLA ADVANCING ON CAPITAL OF MEXICO

Pressing Southward at Head of Army Eager to Fight—Villa Expected to Reach Mexico City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Pressing battle was pressed in the streets. Unhappily at the head of an army official reports stated that the Brazilian minister at Mexico City, Senor Cardoso de Oliveira had asked what guarantees Obregon could offer foreigners inasmuch as the bulk of the army was to leave for the north. Obregon was said to have informed the minister that cavalry detachments and other forces would remain to fight at Zapata. Obregon declined to discuss the offer of the Brazilian minister to mediate between the contending forces. It appeared as the representative of the United States but added that he might consider it if the minister came in his capacity as Brazilian envoy. The military chief said he had to have based his stand on "the just action of Washington occupying Vera Cruz affronting the honor of the Mexican nation." Officials today had given no indication of a change in their plans to re-occupy American rule in Vera Cruz Monday. Arrangements had been made to bring Mexican prisoners to the United States on a government ship and plans completed to effect the evacuation within 48 hours after the word was given.

RIDE ON DEER'S BACK SWINDLED HIS PARTNER

SPRINGFIELD HUNTER HAD EXPERIENCE THAT SAVED BIG BUCK

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 20.—David J. Downey of this city telephoned to friends here yesterday that he had had a wild ride on the back of a big buck while hunting deer.

In company with Otto Reim, also of this city, Downey had stopped for lunch in a small clearing near West Warren. Reim picked up his gun and walked into the brush, saying that he heard a deer. Suddenly a shot rang out and within a minute a large buck came charging through the clearing, plunging to the ground in front of Downey. Believing it dead, he leaped on its back, shouting to Reim to hurry and cut the animal's throat. The buck, however, was far from dead, and leaped to its feet again, bearing Downey.

The animal then dashed into the woods and ran for some distance before Downey was thrown off. Reim, who saw the occurrence, did not dare to shoot for fear of hitting his companion. The buck escaped.

PADDED INVENTORIES TO DECEIVE INVESTORS, SAYS PRIVATE SECRETARY

GENESEO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Frank E. Vogel, the dead partner of Henry Siegel, was a victim of the latter's duplicity, according to the testimony of Oscar A. Pratt, Siegel's former confidential agent in the continuation of the trial of the former banker-nephew on a grand larceny charge here yesterday.

Pratt appeared to be an unwilling witness and was under severe nervous strain while on the witness stand.

Siegel, the witness declared, was at all times in close touch with the business conditions of the various branches of the Siegel Stores Corporation. Inventories were padded by the defendant to the extent of $300,000 to deceive prospective investors, he said, and Frank E. Vogel was himself deceived by them.

50-MILE GALE SWEEPED THE NEW ENGLAND COAST

High Tides Caused Considerable Damage and Tied up Traffic in Many Points—Snow in West of State—Colder Today

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A 50-mile gale swept the New England coast last night as a climax to yesterday's varied weather conditions which included snow storms in the western parts of Massachusetts grading down to rain for Boston and vicinity.

High tides, together with the unusual features, attending the storm, caused considerable damage, and tied up traffic at many points.

In many places real winter was experienced. Snow more than three inches deep mantled Fitchburg and points west of Marlboro.

The weather man has promised that this afternoon will bring clear and colder weather, followed by a fair and moderately snappy Saturday that will bring joy to the countless thousands that are planning on seeing the climax of the football season in the great gridiron battles which will be staged in the Yale bowl and Fenway park.

All along the coast line south of Maine, the higher temperatures brought driving rain on the howling wind which came out of the northeast at a maximum rate of 50 miles an hour.

Early in the day storm signals were called out from Hatteras to Boston, and as the storm swept up the Atlantic seaboard from Hatteras this warning was extended to Eastport, Me., where a regular blizzard was raging last night.

At Plymouth a terrific 50-mile northeast gale piled all sorts of small boats up along the shore and drove in the highest tide that port has known in five years.

The lighting system in Duxbury was put out of commission by the wind and steel, trees were blown down, working havoc with the telephone wires. Fishing boats that labored into port brought half-drowned crews that were nearly dead with exhaustion.

Five miles out of the city red rockets could be seen blazing in the vicinity of the Manomet life-saving station, but all telephone connection had been destroyed by the storm, and it was impossible to find out whether there had been a disaster there.

All along the beach at Winthrop, Revere and Lynn the high wind drove in a tremendous tide and breakers that crashed over the sea wall, across the boulevards and in several places washed out the roads seriously.

The weather man says that the western winds, which he expects to follow the passing of this storm, will doubtless bring a brief warm spell Sunday. Unless the west wind comes to the rescue Boston is liable to see the last end of this storm turn into snow.

ESCAPED DESTRUCTION

CHATHAM, Nov. 20.—The Chatham lifesaving station which was seriously threatened by last night's unusually high tide and storm escaped destruction although the waves tore off the shingles on one side as high as the windows. The lifesavers, who were prepared to abandon the station, managed to maintain their posts throughout the night with great difficulty. At daylight the rain had ceased and no vessels were in sight off the coast.

BLIZZARD IN PORTLAND

Wind Piles the Snow Up and Cars Are Operated With Much Difficulty in Some Branches

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 20.—The first snowstorm of the season began about 5 o'clock last night after a light rain and at midnight the rain had become almost a blizzard. The electric lines are still running, but with considerable difficulty on some of the branches. There has been a very heavy fall of snow and the wind is drifting badly. Many telephones are out of commission.

FISHING SCHOONERS

Port Turn From Their Anchorage During Gale and Driven Ashore at Provincetown

PROVINCETOWN, Nov. 20.—Four fishing schooners, the Matthew Grier, the Nelson, the Rose and the Rebecca were torn from their anchorage during the gale early today and driven ashore on the west side of the harbor. The Rebecca had her stern smashed, but the other three were not damaged and it is expected that they will be floated at high water this afternoon.

The gale last night on the end of the cape was the hardest since last spring and other fishermen had difficulty in holding on to their ground tackle.

TEN INCHES OF SNOW

At Gloverville, N. Y.—Farmers in Outlying Districts "Came to Town" on Sleas

GLOVERVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Farmers in the outlying districts came to town today on sleas through ten inches of snow. The storm which had apparently ceased early in the morning began again at 8 o'clock.

CAUGHT IN STORM

On Second Attempt Captain and Crew of Five Men Succeeded in Reaching Shore

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., Nov. 20.—On their second attempt, Captain George E. Hardy of Deer Isle and crew of four men of the three-masted schooner Fannie and Fay, which during last night's blizzard was anchored between two dangerous shoals, a mile off Kennebunkport, succeeded in reaching shore today, with the aid of a motorboat from here.

After a night in which every man aboard thought would be his last, the five men put off in their yawl, which was half filled with water while being launched. They were unable to make headway in the heavy seas and against the tide and, finding they were being carried to sea, returned to the schooner.

Later they started out again and when a short distance from the schooner were taken in tow by Harry Chapman, who went to their assistance with a motorboat, and were safely towed to port.

COLDEST IN 40 YEARS

Present Cold Wave and Storm Forced Temperatures Down to New Record Marks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The cold wave with some snow which has swept rapidly down from the northwest and spread over the South Atlantic states from Virginia to Florida has forced temperatures to the lowest recorded in November in 40 years. Weather bureau officials predicted killing frost and freezing temperatures would extend as far south on the coast as Palm Beach.

The cold also extends northwest from Florida through the Ohio valley and over the plains states. The wave has moved southeasterly and will be dissipated in a few days.

A storm originating off the Carolina coast Wednesday morning has extended to New England and caused gales and heavy snow in the interior of New England and northern New York. Snow is predicted to continue in New England and along the Great Lakes tonight.

Cold wave warnings have been issued for Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia and central Florida.

Russians Outnumbered Germans at Tannenberg but Kaiser's Troops Won Notable Victory

BERLIN, Nov. 20. (via London).—"The Russians have numbers on their side, but numbers alone are not the decisive factors. In the present stage of the war less than ever before we are not afraid of Russian numerical superiority. At Tannenberg, the Russians outnumbered us three to one, yet the result was a notable German victory."

These are the views of General Von Hindenberg, now facing the great Russian war machine as expressed in conversation with the "Berlin" correspondent of the Neue Presse of Vienna.

"The Russians," continued General Von Hindenberg, "are good soldiers and observe discipline but discipline of another sort than that of the Austro-

German, which is based on thinking and the execution of command, while the Russian discipline is a mere blind, dull obedience.

"The Russians have learned much since the Japanese war, particularly in the science of entrenching; but when the ground is frozen they will no longer be able to dig themselves in. Then they will have a bad time of it. That is one of the advantages the winter campaign will bring us."

"It is a sad but good thing that war and sentimentality do not go together. The merciless conduct of war is in the end the most merciful because war is soonest ended thereby. The war with Russia is a chess question of whose nerves will snap first. The Austrians and Germany have stronger nerves—and they have them—then they will be victorious."

HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

CARDINAL O'CONNELL PLANS TO UTILIZE FORMER ST. ELIZABETH'S HOSPITAL BUILDING

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A new archdiocesan work is soon to be started by Cardinal O'Connell. It is his intention to provide quarters for aged women who wish to spend their remaining days in a congenial and religious atmosphere.

For this purpose, the buildings formerly used as the St. Elizabeth's hospital, situated on West Brookline street, near the corner of Washington street, are being fitted up in a home-like, comfortable manner.

The cardinal has appointed the Rt. Rev. Monsignor M. J. Spillane, D. D., rector of the cathedral, the superintendent of the new work. At the present time aged women who have absolutely nothing, who are penniless and destitute, are already provided for by the Little Sisters of the Poor on Dudley street, Roxbury, another home in Somerville and several other charitable institutions in the diocese.

But there is another class—women who have saved a little for their old age, who want a home with a certain amount of freedom and independence, and who want to pay a small amount—women who do not want to become objects of charity. Many women of this class have no place to spend the last of their days, yet they cannot afford to live in expensive places. For such women and for this reason a minimum amount will be charged.

It is the intention of the cardinal to open this new work very soon. The quarters will be in charge of the Sisters of St. Joseph, whose headquarters are at Brighton. Applications for entrance should be made as soon as possible to Monsignor Spillane at the cathedral rectory, as the space is limited and there has already been some demand.

JUDGE'S ACT QUESTIONED

Judge Morton Sent Note to Jury in Reply to An Inquiry in Suit for $780

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The right of a judge to communicate with a jury during his deliberations, without bringing it into open court and without the knowledge of counsel, is raised in a suit of James E. Lewis against Grace B. Lewis, which was argued yesterday before the full bench of the supreme court yesterday. The suit was for $780, for cash alleged to have been advanced to the defendant's husband, who was a partner of the plaintiff.

Judge Morton of the superior court received a note from the jury while he was in the lobby, requesting further instructions and the sent back a written reply without causing the jury to come into court or procuring the consent of the parties to the trial. The supreme court is asked to set aside the verdict for $801.

PARKER GIRL'S DEATH

EVERETT, Nov. 20.—What was the motive that impelled 15-year-old Hilma Parker to commit suicide? That was the question more widely discussed here last night than any other. The mystery which has surrounded the case is as deep as ever, although the fate of the girl was learned yesterday morning when her body was discovered in the old Coleman pits, near her home, where it had been since Saturday night.

"I know of nothing under God's heaven that would cause my girl to commit suicide," said the father, Byron M. Parker, last night. "She had a happy home, and when she left Saturday after supper she was as jovial as could be. If I could only bring Hilma back to life I would gladly give my life for hers."

It was a distinct shock to all who knew the girl when it was reported that the medical examiner had declared that she had committed suicide.

GERMANS ATTEMPT TO PIERCE LINE OF ALLIES

Mrs. Littlefield Got Her Husband Through an Advertisement and Now Sends Order to Lowell

"It pays to advertise" so says Mrs. Littlefield, a section foreman for a railroad at Knife River, London crossing Minnesota, for the westerner advertised in a newspaper for a wife and he got one, and right here in Lowell and his bride was formerly Mrs. Emma Littlefield of W. Ho street, this city, who left Lowell last August for Minnesota, where recently she was married to Mr. Royce. Mrs. Royce is now happy inasmuch as she has her two sons, Frank and Charles, with her.

It seems that sometime in July Mrs. Littlefield, who was employed at the Whitcomb Manufacturing Co. in Rock street, saw an advertisement in a newspaper where a man away out in Minnesota wanted a Lowell bride. Mrs. Littlefield replied to the advertisement in a joking way and pretty soon numerous letters were exchanged. Finally the correspondence became serious and the "lovers" exchanged photographs and an engagement followed.

ALLIES REPULSE THREE VIGOROUS ATTACKS BY GERMAN INFANTRY

Taken by London to Indicate That German Chiefs Have Decided to Concentrate Energies Against Russia

The coming of winter having interrupted the fighting along the North sea coast, Germany is making an effort to pierce the line of the allies at another point. The French war office announced today that in the region of the Argonne forest, where severe engagements have been in progress for the last few days, three vigorous attacks had been made by German infantry. These assaults, it is said, were repulsed.

The importance of the outcome of this battle, foreign military critics explain, lies in the fact that if the Germans should succeed in pushing back the allies they would be able to join forces with their troops, which, farther to the east, have thrust a sharp wedge into the line. Such a junction of forces would result in the surrounding of the strong fortress of Verdun, which the German crown prince attacked in vain during the earlier days of the war.

The reply of the allies to this challenge was an attack on the Germans in the neighborhood of Verdun. An official German statement today said:

These signs are in evidence everywhere at the Hood farm and, as an extra precaution, the herd at the Hood farm, and swine as well, have been fenced in. Visitors are not allowed, not even members of the local board of health or their inspectors.

CHICKEN THIEF CAUGHT

Edward Miller Stole Load of Hens —Entered Barn, Killed and Plucked Them

Footprints on last night's snowfall led to the arrest this afternoon of a man who gave his name as Edward Miller and who will be arraigned in court tomorrow morning charged with the larceny of 11 hens from George E. Wright of Chelmsford Centre. According to the police of Chelmsford, Miller has been leading a peculiar life of late, and it is believed that a number of petty thefts have been cleared up by his arrest.

The history of George E. Wright, located in the south part of the town, was visited during the night and 11 of the best hens stolen. No disturbance was made in stealing the hens and the occupants of the Wright farm heard no noise. This morning when the theft was discovered, Constable Richardson was notified and the tracks in the snow were traced to a dilapidated barn located on an abandoned road near South Chelmsford. This building was visited about 1 o'clock and after lengthy search Miller was found hiding in the hay.

He was finally removed from his position and a search of the premises revealed a bag containing 11 hens and a quantity of heavy brown wrapping paper. The chickens had all been killed and partly plucked. The police believe that Miller is an expert at robbing chicken coops, as the killing and plucking of the animals seemed to be the work of a professional.

Little is known about the defendant and it is thought that he is giving an assumed name. For six weeks he worked on the farm of Fred Parks in Chelmsford Centre but has not been seen for two weeks. An attempt was made to arraign the man in court this afternoon but he appeared to be suffering from some illness and was unable to plead to the complaint which was preferred against him.

SUPERIOR COURT CASES

The civil session of the superior court broke down this morning, not because there were no more cases on the list, but for the fact that a number of cases which were scheduled to go on trial this week were settled out of court. The case of Raymond R. Chadbourne vs. The Teel Mfg. Co. et al., trustees, which went to trial yesterday was brought to a close this forenoon and given the jury.

Jury Waived Session
In the jury waived session, Justice Quinn presiding, a Boston law case captured the attention of the court yesterday afternoon and this forenoon. At the close of this case an action for conversion of property brought by Doherty Bros. of this city against Israel Greenberg, also of Lowell, went to trial. In this case it seems that Mr. Greenberg purchased the buildings formerly occupied by Cole & Nichols, founders in W. Ho street, while Doherty Bros. purchased the tools and equipment of the place and they also claim they purchased a certain building which the defendant demolished and removed. William D. Reagan for the plaintiffs and Bennett Silverblatt for the defendant.

GAVE A GAME SUPPER

BERRY SIMPSON IN ROLE OF HOST
AT WAYERLY HOTEL — PAR-TRIDGE AND PHEASANT GALORE

Berry M. Simpson of Fourth street, Centralville, gave a game supper to a party of friends at the Waverly hotel last night and those fortunate enough to be invited to a seat at the table declared it to be the greatest game supper served in Lowell since the days of John Derby. When Chief Phillips received the order for the game supper his face fairly beamed with pleasure, for he knew that he had in Massachusetts anything on Harry Phillips when it comes to preparing partridges, pheasants, rabbits or anything else in the game line, and last night he did himself proud. Mr. Simpson, whose prowess as a hunter no man would dare question, supplied the game, consisting as aforementioned, with a little venison on the side. Supper was served in the grill room and ten or a dozen men participated in the glorious feast. The partridge and pheasant with walnut dressing and all the other fixings was a treat fit for the nobility, and every man there was a prince. When the cigars were passed around one of the diners remarked that it would be difficult indeed to enjoy the Thanksgiving turkey after feasting on the plump partridge and plumper pheasant.

LEAPED OUT WINDOW

SLIGHTLY DEMENTED WOMAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT—FOUND IN HER YARD AT BRIGHTON

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Hearing groans as he was passing along North Beacon street, Brighton, at 2:30 this morning, Harry Nicholas of 35 North Beacon street went into the yard at 32 North Beacon street and found a semi-conscious woman lying on the ground in great pain.

Nicholas called the police and the woman was removed to the City hospital, where it was found she was suffering from severe injuries to her back and bruises of her left wrist.

She was Mrs. Mary Healey, 43, who resides at 32 North Beacon street with her family. She had been lying in the severe storm for some hours. Upon questioning her family it was learned that Mrs. Healey has been slightly demented. About midnight, when every one else in the house was soundly sleeping, she got up, opened a second-story window and jumped out, landing upon the hard ground, 15 feet below. Her condition is critical, and it is feared she may suffer pneumonia from the exposure.

OSBORNE ACCEPTS POST

PRISON REFORM ADVOCATE, WHO WAS ONE AFTER A "PRISONER," TO BE WARDEN OF SING SING

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Thomas Mott Osborne, chairman of the commission of prison reform, has accepted the post of warden of Sing Sing prison. The appointment was made last night by the Prison Association of New York, which made public Mr. Osborne's letter of acceptance to John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons. Mr. Osborne in the letter says his delay in giving a definite answer was caused only by doubt as to whether he could best serve the cause of prison reform by accepting an official position.

Mr. Osborne, who is 35 years old and a man of wealth, became chairman of the commission on prison reform in 1912 and in the fall of that year attracted national attention by undergoing a week's voluntary imprisonment in Auburn prison.

"COME DOWN TO EARTH"

Political Reform Organizations Must Also Remove Sign of the
"Highbrow," Says Report

BAITING, Nov. 20.—Political reform organizations must "come down to earth," they must remove the sign of the "highbrow" and substitute the "dollar mark" which alone apparently, is sufficiently potent to be effective," according to a report by the National Municipal League today by its committee on plan of political organization.

The committee has not completed its work, and the report is described as only an "interim expression." It was prepared by the chairman, A. Leo Well, president of the "Veterans League of Baiting."

"A plan of political organization which relies for its support upon that class who have reached the elevation where they look down upon selfishness and are moved solely by altruistic considerations, must fail. The number is too limited."

"It will not do for the so-called 'high brow' to invade against the complacency of the average citizen. This gets him nowhere. It will not do to assume that all voters are corruptly influenced when they support political factions. This presupposes the preponderance of corruption. The campaign for good government, as contrasted with the machine government, the selfish interests of the citizen are at stake. Too much stress is laid upon patriotism, civic pride and the like, and too little upon what the continuance of poor government or institution of good means to the purse

Also One of the Best Remedies for Head Colds or Bronchitis.

Be wise in time and use Hyomel at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, constant sneezing, drooping in the throat, or dull headaches. Do not let the disease become deep-seated for it will surely wreck your health, often causing the loss of hearing, and if not checked may result in one of the most dreaded diseases.

Hyomel is nature's true remedy for catarrh—it is the direct method—you breathe it so that the medication goes right to the sore and diseased tissues lining the air passages of the head and throat. Its antiseptic healing must begin at once.

It's no bother to use Hyomel. Simply put a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, that comes with every complete outfit, and breathe it. You will feel better after the first breath of Hyomel. It clears the head and throat like magic, while after a few days' use you will notice all your catarrhal symptoms are disappearing.

There is nothing easier, quicker or more satisfying for catarrh than Hyomel which can be had at any drug store. It is not merely a relief but a sure and lasting benefit—and must be economical.

WALSH HARD TO DEFEAT

McCall Likely to Run Again—Says
Walsh Has Made a Very Popular Governor

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The "Jollification" dinner of the Middlesex club, the old republican organization, at the Hotel Somerset last night teemed with exuberance at the addresses of Senators Lodge and Weeks, ex-Congressman McCall and others. The republican party apparently intends to renominate Mr. McCall for governor. Ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers presided at the banquet.

Senator Lodge held his auditors spell-bound as he recited the vicissitudes of the republican party in the recent state elections and prophesied that the democratic party was committing political suicide by its attitude, past and present. The Mexican policy was vigorously denounced.

Mr. McCall received an ovation. He declared that he was entirely satisfied with the result of the state election. "For" he said, "I received votes enough to elect any republican candidate for state office, but I was confronted by an individual through whom I could not make a hole, to use the vernacular of the day."

Referring to Senator Lodge's remarks, Mr. McCall said: "I have no claim on the party and I do not know what my desire will be next year, but my present tendencies are to keep going. I never believed I had the stomach of a quitter. I am inclined to believe, however, that it is not going to be an easy fight next year, despite the enormous republican gains this year."

Mr. Walsh has made a very popular governor; he has made few or grave mistakes and he is going to be a hard man to defeat, but, nevertheless, I believe the republican party is coming into its own."

He said that the three great problems that confront the party are taxation, transportation and administration, and declared that the democratic party is showing little capacity to deal with them.

"If our friends who deserted us two years ago will rejoin us, or allow us to rejoin them, we will again have a reunited republican party and if that is so, I believe our triumph is assured and the high tide of prosperity which the nation ever enjoyed under republican rule, will return."

At the close of the conference, Mrs. F. A. Platter served tea and the delegates were given the opportunity to meet Mrs. Barrett personally.

The Evening Meeting

The evening meeting was open to the public and was well attended despite the very unfavorable condition of the weather. Rev. Appleton Grannis presided and he expressed himself in favor of the appointment of policewomen; thought we needed more preventive work in Lowell is not so much to establish rescue homes, but to establish conditions that will obviate the necessity of such homes.

In her talk on policewomen, Mrs. Barrett said there are innumerable things done by policemen every day, that could be better done by women. For example: The conducting of women prisoners to jail and from the jail to the court should be done by women. A girl arrested on the street should be examined by a woman, and also, women arrested on warrants. Already, the bureau of immigration is employing women to examine girls and women who are to be deported. If that sort of thing is thought by the United States government to be necessary, why is it not necessary in our courts? Policewomen, she said, are not expected to make many arrests. Their work is preventive. They are put on the street for the specific purpose of preventing girls from being arrested. They are expected to talk with the girls, to warn them and send them home, and to follow them up in their homes, if necessary.

Women, she said, owe a duty to the community in which they live to do something toward the betterment of that community. Men are too busy; they cannot do more than they are doing. Women on the other hand, are not doing one-half as much as they should. It is the women of leisure who should take up these movements and push them through. "I do not believe in compulsory military service," she said, "but I do believe in compulsory civic service for women."

SERG. DAVID ROCHE DEAD

SERVED IN ARMIES OF TWO COUNTRIES—VOTED MEDAL BY CONGRESS FOR BRAVERY

WORCESTER, Nov. 20.—Serg. David Roche, one of the best and most honored veterans of the Civil and Indian wars, who gave 20 years of his life to fighting the battles of the United States, died suddenly from heart failure yesterday at his home at 721 Southbridge street.

During the 78 years of his life Serg. Roche had never been under the care of a physician except for injuries sustained in his service as a soldier. Serg. Roche was born in Kerry, Ire., and had just completed a term of five years in the British army when he read in an English paper of the outbreak of the Civil war in this country. He immediately set sail for the United States, landing at New York on June 8, 1861. On June 25 he enlisted for service under the Stars and Stripes as a member of the 2d United States Infantry Regiment. At the expiration of this enlistment he reenlisted the service in the field, and served with the 5th corps of the Army of the Potomac. He was wounded by a pistol shot fired by a Confederate officer in his second battle with the Army of the Potomac at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863, receiving an injury which entitled him to an honorable discharge. But he decided to stick and remained in the service through the war.

After the hostilities ceased between the north and the south, he remained in the regular army and went west as an Indian fighter. He saw service in Montana, Dakota and Texas, his last enlistment being in K company, 1st United States Infantry, at Fort Davis, Tex. While serving his term of enlistment, he was thrown from a horse and received injuries that won him an honorable discharge on July 2, 1881, the day that President James A. Garfield was shot.

Serg. Roche received his bronze medal of honor for an especially brave deed on the field of battle while fighting Indians at Wolf Mountain in Montana on Jan. 3, 1877. The medal was voted to him by congress and was placed in his breast in the presence of his regiment by Gen. William T. Sherman.

It was a few months after the Custer massacre and Gen. Nelson A. Miles had been ordered to lead a column into Montana. There were 14 companies in Gen. Miles' command and they quickly dispersed the Indians under Sitting Bull and went after Crazy Horse, another noted Sioux Indian. A detachment of the United States troops was surrounded by the Indians at Wolf Mountain and the others were hurrying to the relief, when Serg. Roche called the attention of Gen. Miles to the value of a knoll as a position for the soldiers, and he was ordered to occupy it with a squad of soldiers. They reached the knoll after considerable difficulty, and then their ammunition nearly became exhausted. Gen. Miles sent a bag of cartridges to them, but the messenger left it at the foot of the knoll.

Serg. Roche, recognizing the absolute need of more ammunition for his comrades, ran down the hill armed only with a screwdriver. He used this to open the box, which was too heavy for him to carry up the hill, and coolly filled his pockets with all the cartridges they would hold, he returned to his comrades with the powder and bullets that saved them from being wiped out, although he was the target of hundreds of bullets fired at him in his exposed position by the Indians. This brave act was reported to his superiors and congress voted him the medal of honor.

A new cast of the medal was sent to him from congress on June 19, 1905. At the close of his services in the regular army, Serg. Roche came to Worcester and procured work in the wire mills, where he was employed until placed on the pension list. For many years he had served as pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal church.

RUSSIAN SEA VICTORY

OFFICIAL REPORT FROM PETROGRAD TELLS OF NAVAL BATTLE IN BLACK SEA

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The following official statement was given yesterday by the Russian ministry of marine regarding the naval battle in the Black sea between the Turkish and Russian fleets:

"On Nov. 18 a division of the Black sea fleet, returning from its cruise to Sebastopol, near the coast of Anatolia, sighted 25 miles from the Bosphorus light, a Turkish detachment consisting of the Goeben and the Breslau. The Russian fleet immediately drew up in battle order, bringing the enemy to starboard, and opened fire at a distance of 40 cable lengths (about five miles). The first salvo of 12-inch guns from the flagship Admiral Evstafy struck the Goeben and caused an explosion amidships, setting her on fire. Following the Evstafy the other Russian ships opened fire, the Russian guns giving an excellent account of themselves."

"A series of explosions were seen in the hull of the Goeben, which opened fire slowly. The enemy seemed not to have expected to meet us. The Germans fired salvos of their heavy guns, directing them exclusively at the flagship. The encounter continued for 14 minutes, after which the Goeben withdrew and disappeared in the fog, taking advantage of her speed."

The Breslau took no part in the fight, holding herself on the horizon. The Evstafy suffered only insignificant damage. The Russian losses were a lieutenant, three ensigns and 29 sailors killed, a lieutenant and 19 sailors killed and five sailors slightly wounded."

FAREWELL RECEPTION TENDERED REV. MR. HAMMARLOF—PRESENTED FURSE

The people of the Swedish Lutheran church showed their regard for their departing pastor, Rev. Sven F. Hammarlof, in a very substantial manner last evening by presenting him a substantial purse of money. Mrs. Hammarlof was also remembered by the various ladies' organizations of the church, which presented her several beautiful and useful gifts.

The popular pastor will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday evening next, before departing for Jersey City, N. J., to take up the pastorate of a thriving church in that city. He was called as pastor to this city in September, 1909, and while here has made a host of friends by his devotion to duty and pleasing personality. He was born in Sweden and graduated from a seminary in New Jersey and from the Augustana Theological school, Rock Island, Ill. He was married only two weeks when he took up his duties in Lowell.

Last evening was the second evening of the fair under the auspices of the Swedish church.

SULLIVAN CASE

Grand Jury Ends Investigation at Houlton—More Arrests Expected

Houlton, Me., Nov. 20.—The Aroostook county grand jury, investigating the death of Mildred Sullivan, has completed its labors, and the report that a prominent local man is connected with the case has been much strengthened.

Contrary to the plans of the prosecuting officer, who expected to have several more witnesses go before the jury tomorrow, it was decided late yesterday that enough testimony had been given the grand jurors.

Whether Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, accused of the murder of Mildred Sullivan, will be indicted on this charge or manslaughter is known only to the grand jurors. Nothing will be given out until a partial report is made to the court when it opens. Just when this will be is uncertain. Some time next week seems to be the general opinion of those who are in a position to know.

The last witness to go before the grand jury was Kate Michael, the Wallagrass nurse, whose confession to the county authorities was responsible for finding the body of Mildred Sullivan.

She entered the jury room shortly after 3 this afternoon and it was nearly 5 before she came out. That more arrests will be made in the case seems probable.

"We will fight to the bitter end, no matter how strong public sentiment is against us," said Randolph W. Shaw, chief counsel for Dr. Dudley and Alice and Percy Pelletier, held as accessories.

The Cambridge girl, Ruth Devenney, was a witness yesterday.

"My God! I have killed her!" are the words said to have been uttered by Dr. Dudley on the night Mildred Sullivan was operated upon at his office, according to Kate Michael's confession to County Attorney Archibald.

POST OFFICE SQUARE

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

In my last, I mentioned the mayoralty and aldermanic tickets of a quarter of a century ago. In those days there was also a common council of 24 members, four from each of the six wards, the president of which was quite a power as he was a member of the school board ex-officio and had the appointment of the councilman committee, in days when the committee were also members of the school board. For instance, there was an annual battle for a place on the committee on streets, for the members of that committee practically placed all the men who worked on the street department. All work was laid out and all appropriations estimated by the committee, and the superintendent of the different departments, naturally kept in good favor with the members of their respective committees. The caucus contests for common council were always lively for in practically every ward they were decided in the caucuses. The caucuses of 25 years ago were as follows:

Democratic Nominations

Under the headline, "Completion of Our Ticket," the old Sun has the following:

"Thursday night the democrats of the city met in the ward rooms to nominate candidates for the common council and the school board. Everything passed off smoothly and the nominations were made in fairness to all candidates. In wards two and five there was a decided contest, and in the other wards the republican candidates for the school board but the majority of the voters insisted upon straight nominations and they were made straight.

The caucus in ward three exposed the fact that there were no ties on the democratic wards who will be sent once more to the common council. Editor Houston of the Times was nominated for the school board in ward four and for the council in ward two. He will decline the former nomination, as he is not a voter in ward four. In ward three it took all night to count the ballot for the common council, completed until 1:30 this morning. The counters were paid for their trouble out of purse made up by the candidates.

The nominations are as follows:

Ward 2. Common council: Alexander J. C. Houghton, John Parada, Thomas W. Hooley and William S. MacKenzie. Dr. Andrew J. Halpin for the school board.

Ward 3. Common council, Thomas J. Sparks, Patrick H. Brosnahan, Charles L. Marven, Robert G. Gallagher, George L. Houghton was re-nominated by acclamation for the school board. This was the largest caucus ever held in any ward in Lowell.

Ward 4. For council: George W. Lang, Philip Ginty, Thomas G. Little and Philip S. Carey. For school board, A. C. Houston.

Ward 6. For council, James Gaskin, Daniel D. Driscoll, George H. Brown, John the gambler, and Thomas J. Lyons. Dr. Hugh W. Hall was nominated for the school board by acclamation.

Republican Nominations

Concerning the republican nomination the old Sun had the following:

"Thursday evening the republicans held caucuses for the purpose of electing a city committee and nominating candidates for the common council and the school board. Everything passed off smoothly and business was transacted in short order.

The nominations for the common council and the school board were as follows:

Ward 1. For council, Samuel H. Clark, Homer B. Nay, Ames B. Philmore, Thomas Don. For school board, William D. Brown.

Ward 2. For council, Arthur H.

Cluer, Nowell Abare, W. C. Coburn, J. Stuart Murphy. For school board, Greenleaf C. Brock.

Ward 3. For council, Ambrose Hildole, Joseph H. Ashworth, Charles A. Rock, Charles D. Rolfe. For school board, John Monsun.

Ward 4. The present councilmanic delegation was re-nominated: B. F. Hale, Edwards Cheney, A. G. Walsh, Frank Gray. For school board, Ray, R. A. Greene.

Ward 5. For council, Orford R. Blood, Henry W. Ladd, (re-nominated), Louis P. Turcotte, Herbert M. Jacobs, Walter Coburn was re-nominated by acclamation for the school board, Edward F. Spalding. For school board, Clarence F. Burnham.

J. L. Chaffoux's Opening

If I were a stockholder in the J. L. Chaffoux company, which unfortunately I am not, I'd have the papers filled with "ads" today announcing a grand "silver jubilee" for its founder, for 25 years ago tomorrow the late J. L. Chaffoux opened his establishment in the Central building and presented to the public what was then considered one of the finest stores of its kind in New England. The old Sun in "writing up" the opening presented a 3-column cut of the new Central building which in those days was a most imposing edifice and had the following:

"Thursday evening (Nov. 21), J. L. Chaffoux scored another success as a store-keeper, and the whole city looked on and wondered at the enterprise of the man. Almost the whole floor space of the new Central block, 20,000 square feet in all, is now devoted to his business. Mr. Chaffoux needs no introduction to the public of Lowell. He has been here since 1888 and during his residence he has established himself as the head and brains of a gigantic business. He came here poor young man and today he is one of the business kings of northern Massachusetts. Business enterprise, honest dealing and a perfect knowledge of his business have made his success. He is also an important factor in the business life of Manchester, N. H., controlling as he does, in that city one of the largest clothing establishments.

Working as a clerk in a clothing store, he had added every cent he could until he had acquired a business capital of $7000. He opened in 1875 a modest establishment, a few doors west of the present Sun building. Here he laid the foundation for the enormous business which he now controls. Three times he has been obliged to move into larger quarters and his latest "move" is the subject of this sketch. For the past six years he has been located in the Shattuck building, occupying two floors and a basement. For a long time he has been cramped for store space. The completion of the great Central building, the most imposing business building in the city, furnished the desired space. Arrangements for a lease were made and Mr. Chaffoux has transferred his business to the Central block.

The Sun then described the new establishment in detail, together with the scene on opening day and also had the following:

"The following notice to employees has been a prominent feature in Mr. Chaffoux's establishment for years and every clerk is expected to know it by heart and to live up to its provisions:

"Let the golden rule govern all your transactions with customers and visitors to this store. Do unto others as you would have others do unto you. Do not recommend any article of merchandise that you cannot conscientiously say is honest merchandise and fully worth the price asked for it. If mistakes occur, always rectify them immediately and to the satisfaction of your customer, and always treat your customers as personal friends and never give cause for dissatisfaction with your goods or in any other way."

Mr. Chaffoux has since passed away, leaving behind him a business of far greater magnitude than that described by The Sun of a quarter of a century ago, and a son who has shown his ability to continue the fine reputation established by his respected father as a progressive and honest business man.

Town Politics Stirring—The Jobs Sought—Coming Social Events—Street Lighting—Boy Scouts

Town politics is the main subject for discussion among the men at the present time in the town of North Chelmsford, and although no one has come out and openly declared his intention of aspiring to the offices within the gift of the people of the town, quite a number are said to be around sounding the sentiment of the voters as to their respective candidacies. It is a well known fact that the present selectman, D. Frank Small, who has done much for the town during his administration, will not be a candidate again under any consideration. Mr. John Marinet, one of the most prominent citizens, and a merchant in the town has been approached by quite a number of voters and asked to be a candidate, but he remains non-committal, and all he has said to date in answer to the many queries is, "Gentlemen, I have troubles of my own."

Regular Officer for the Town

The general consensus of opinion of the townspeople seems to be that the town should supply a regular officer and do away with the present system of employing two special officers. This their claim would result in the suppression of the many breaks that have been committed during the past and present seasons. This question is quite sure to be agitated at the coming election, owing to the number of breaks committed in the town during the past few months. The men now doing duty as special officers have performed splendid work in some instances, but their authority is limited, and having other duties to perform, they cannot always be found when wanted. Mr. George Sheppard announces his candidacy for this position, and in a talk with the writer he stated that he was out to work hard for the position. Mr. Sheppard said that much good could be accomplished by a regular officer stationed in the town and that the appointment of one would fill a long felt want.

Assessor's Job

At the coming election the voters will also be called upon to elect an assessor. Mr. James Dunn is the present incumbent, and during his stay in office he has filled the position in an admirable manner. He has been mainly instrumental in giving to the people of the town a reduction in the tax rate, which at the present time is only $15 per thousand. It is not known whether Mr. Dunnigan will allow his name to go on the ballot as a candidate for re-election. Several names are mentioned, but as yet no official announcement has been made by any of them.

Annexation to Lowell

Talk of annexing North Chelmsford to the city of Lowell has been brought up and many people of the town, realizing the benefits to be derived in increased fire protection, police protection, new schools and other equally splendid improvements, look with decided favor on the idea. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the sentiment on this question seems to be well divided. On the other hand—those favoring annexation say that in case of fire, a gang of men would not have to rush from their work, run for a horse, drive the horse to the bottom of a hill, hitch up to an antiquated horse wagon and proceed to a fire, with the chances 99 to 100 that the house will be burned before their arrival. The town has been particularly fortunate in the past in not having any serious fires, but such a catastrophe is liable to break out at any moment. They also state that with proper police protection, such would be afforded with annexation, the town would be rid of the seasonal breaks that have been perpetrated in the past few years.

St. John's Character Party

Next Wednesday evening, which, least you forget is Thanksgiving eve, the parishioners of St. John's parish, attired in their best, will assemble in the town hall and participate in the second annual character party and have dance, and indications point to it being a highly successful and enjoyable affair. The affair is in charge of Rev. E. C. Mitchell, who has a faithful corps of young ladies and young men of the parish as assistants, and each and everyone of them is striving to make the party the leading event in the social season of the town. A delicious entertainment will precede the dancing and this in itself gives promise of being a long looked for treat. Dainty awards will be presented the first three ladies and gentlemen wearing the most attractive costumes, after which general dancing will be indulged in until after midnight.

Street Lighting

North Chelmsford has come to the front in the past few years in the matter of street lighting and today the streets of the town are exceptionally well lighted. This is a fitting tribute to the men who have directed the public affairs of the town for the past few years. At night North Chelmsford presents a beautiful picture with its street lights conveniently situated at given points; it can safely be stated that there isn't a dark spot in the residential center. There are still some of the old fashioned lamps in use, but modern lights will in a short time be substituted for these.

Attempted Burglary

Another burglary was attempted last Friday evening, when some unknown man tried to gain entrance into the drug store situated directly opposite Special Officer Marinet's store. The man was frightened away by the entrance of the constable's place of business, and although Mr. Marinet and others proceeded on his trail, no trace could be found of him. Mr. Marinet informed the writer today that the reason for breaks is just about to start, and that this year he will wage an active campaign against the thieves. Last year entrance was gained into his store about six occasions and as a result he lost about $100 in money, not to speak of the cigars and tobacco stolen.

Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts are preparing for an active winter, and rehearsals for their coming annual show will be held within a short time. Under the direction of Mr. James Kibber, this group of boys has developed into the largest troop in the state, and shows signs of continuing in the lead. A week or so ago the Boy Scouts did valiant work in suppressing a fire that raged in one of the wooded sections of the town, and although no mention has thus far been made of the fact they are to be highly complimented on their quick response to the call, and their knowledge of fire fighting.

WAR MARRIAGES

5793 Marriages in Berlin, Germany in One Month

(The Associated Press)
BERLIN, Nov. 20.—"War marriages" will materially increase the number of marriages for Berlin this year. When the war broke out many officers and in some cases privates of the reserve and landwehr decided to marry on the eve of their departure for the front, with the result that August, 1914, shows a total of marriages for Berlin of 5793 as against 1399 for the same month of last year. In the mobilization week, August 2-5, 3941 marriage contracts were made, of which the largest number was due to the outbreak of the war. The first seven months of 1914 showed 11,629 marriages as against 11,620 in 1913. It is believed here that the number of marriages in Berlin due to the war is not far below 4500. Some of them had been planned for the autumn and winter seasons, and it is expected that for this reason the average for these months will fall below normal. This has already been demonstrated by the records for September, in which month 1570 marriages took place as against 1832 in September, 1913. For 1914, up to and including September, the number of marriages is 15,136 as against 14,751 for the same period of 1913. The outbreak of the war has also materially influenced for the better the legitimization of children born out of wedlock. In nearly all cases this was done by the father of the child marrying its mother. While in August, 1913, only 168 children were legitimized, their number in August, 1914, was 1048, of which number all but five were given a proper status before the law by marriage. In the first seven months of 1914 only 1400 children were legitimized as against 1432 for the same period in 1913.

HURRY PANAMA CANAL WORK

(The Associated Press)
PANAMA, Nov. 20.—A hurry-up order has been issued by Governor Goethals for the completion of the canal. The time limit set by congress is July, 1915, and Colonel Goethals is determined that the last of the finishing touches in every department from dredging to landscape gardening shall be completed ahead rather than behind time. Colonel Goethals himself is setting a pace, and may be seen often at work in the administration building at Balboa late at night.

Men and machines now on the isthmus are said to be working harder than at any time since the great work was started ten years ago. Every morning Colonel Goethals appears at some part of the work where he has not been for several days previously, to hurry things along. There is the case of the steam shovels delving into the side of Sosa Hill for the rock that goes to form the east breakwater in front of Colon harbor. On each one is a huge placard, which shows the number of cars loaded as the work progresses. For every job a mark has been set, to be surpassed if possible. On Sosa Hill the man who has charge of loading the cars that take the rock 50 miles across the isthmus to the new breakwater is working against the man in charge of transporting those same cars those 50 miles, while the man who unloads them out at the end of the 2-mile track is racing things so that he will be first, just a little ahead of the other two. At present there are 200 to 250 cars of rock sent him every working day.

Out in Culebra Cut where a large slide recently choked the channel for a few days and canal traffic came to a standstill with a large number of ships seeking passage through dredged canals only during the eight daylight hours when the canal is used for navigation purposes. The other 16 hours are devoted to the fastest dredging the canal has ever seen. The men work in two shifts and as they eat and sleep on the dredges no time is wasted. Their work in handling the canal to traffic within five days won for them high commendation from Colonel Goethals.

FOR SPOT CASH

I Buy 800 Yards of Sherriffs Worsted

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF THIS SALE

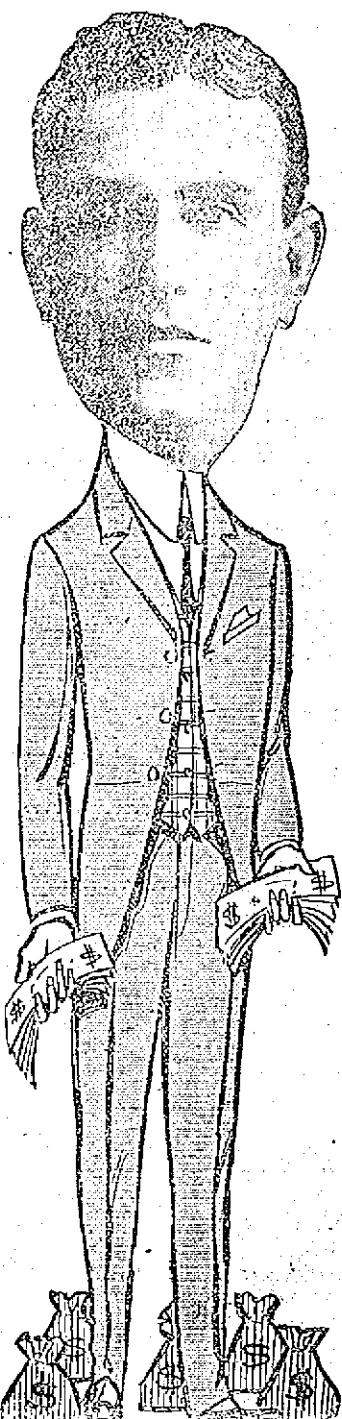

In last Friday's issue of The Sun I advertised the purchase from a Boston commission house of several hundred yards of Sherriffs Worsted of Fitchburg, Mass., the finest worsteds made in New England. I advertised them made to order any style for $15. I thought this announcement of Sherriffs cloths at that price would create a sensation. Whether the approaching holiday made people feel poor, or general business conditions was the depressing cause, I only know that the greatest trade ever offered in Lowell for many and many a day only brought ordinary business. I offered them last Friday for $15 to order,

I offer the balance to close, today and Saturday, Suit or Overcoat, made to order, any style, for $12.50

The cloth woven by the Sherriff mill of Fitchburg is sold monthly to the high priced tailors—I mean the $25 and $35 tailors, and I state positively that the quality and style of these woollens would warrant such prices. The goods range from $2.50 to $3.50 per yard, and are all worsted fabrics of elegant quality. As a matter of fact, when I bought these goods, I already had an enormous stock in my store. I was tempted by the high class merchandise. My cash offer was accepted, and so added to my already overheavy stock. Another tailor would dispose of these goods slowly and get perhaps regular prices for them. This is not my business policy, however. I bought them ridiculously cheap and I will sell them on the same basis for quick disposal.

I have about five hundred yards of this stock left. Today and Saturday every yard must be sold and my price will be for

Cider Mills Can Make Clear Table Sirup From Perishable Apple Juice—Process Described

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Following extensive experiments begun last spring, the head of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the department of agriculture has applied for a public service patent covering the making of a new form of table sirup from apple juice. This patent will make the discovery, which the specialists believe will be of great value to all apple growers as a means of utilizing their culls and excess apples, common property of any cider mill in the United States which wishes to manufacture and sell apple cider sirup.

The new sirup, one gallon of which is made from seven gallons of ordinary cider, is a clear ruby or amber colored sirup of about the consistency of cane sirup and maple sirup. Properly sterilized and put in sealed glass or bottles, it will keep indefinitely, and when opened, will keep under household conditions as well as other sirups. It has a distinct fruity aroma and special flavor of its own which is described as being practically the same as the taste of the sirup substance which exudes from a baked apple.

The sirup can be used like maple or other sirups for griddle cakes, cereals, household cooking, and as flavoring in desserts. The government cooking experts are at present experimenting with it in cooking and expect shortly to issue recipes for use of the new sirup in old ways and for taking advantage of its special flavor in novel dishes.

The department chemists have already produced over ten gallons of this sirup in their laboratories, using summer and other forms of apples. The success of the experiment has greatly interested some of the apple growers, and during November a large cider mill in the Hood River valley, Oregon, will in co-operation with the government chemists, endeavor to produce 1000 gallons on a commercial scale and give the new product a thorough market test by making it accessible through retailers in a limited field. The interests of apple growers in the product arises from the fact that the new apple cider sirup promises to give them a commercial outlet for vast quantities of windfall and other apples for which otherwise could find no market either in perishable raw cider or in vinegar. Cider production, it seems, comes largely at one season of the year during which the market is more or less flooded with this perishable product. The bulk and perishability of the raw cider, moreover, the cider makers state, often make it unprofitable for them to ship the raw cider of one district long distances to a non-apple-growing region. The market for cider, therefore, has been largely restricted in many cases to localities near the area of production. The new sirup, the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually throughout the year.

With the cider mill able to make a palatable, long-keeping table sirup out of its apple juice, growers, it is believed, will be able to use all excess juice for bottled or canned apple sirup. The new sirup, the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually throughout the year.

The process for making the sirup calls for the addition to a cider mill of a filter press and open kettles or some other concentrating apparatus. The process is described as follows: The raw cider is treated with pure milk of lime until nearly, but not quite, all of the natural malic acids are neutralized. The cider is then heated to boiling and filtered through a filter press, an essential feature of the process. The resultant liquid is then evaporated either in continuous evaporators or open kettles, just as ordinary cane or sorghum sirup is treated. It then is cooled and allowed to stand for a short time, which causes the lime and acids to form small crystals of calcium malate. This sirup is then re-filtered through the filter press, which removes the crystals of calcium malate and leaves a sirup with practically the same basic composition as ordinary cane sirup. Its flavor, however, and appearance are distinctly different.

Calcium malate, the by-product, is a substance used in medicine and at present selling for $2 per pound. It is believed that if calcium malate can be produced in this way cheaply and in large quantities, it can be made commercially useful in new ways, possibly in the manufacture of baking powder.

The cost of making this sirup on a commercial scale will be determined during the test.

"HOWDY, PAP," TO MOOSE
Here follows the Chicago Herald's account of the entertainment of the Moose in that city on the day preceding the opening of the supreme convention at Mooseheart:
Chicago shouted "Howdy, Pap," to 2000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose who paraded the Loop district. The Moose came in herds from all parts of the country on their way to the national convention at Milwaukee. They tarried long enough to shout their fraternal greeting and to place the antlers of Moosehood on the heads of 2000 candidates, the largest class the order has initiated. For more than an hour the companies of red and white uniformed men paraded to the music of a dozen bands. It was one of the largest fraternal parades in several years. Behind them marched the "white flannel" infantry under the leadership of Hartley L. Replogle, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the two days' celebration here and the convention in Milwaukee. Many gorgeously decorated floats appeared in the parade. The largest bore three stuffed moose, which appeared lifelike as they swayed with the motion of the automobile. Reno, Nev., Los Angeles, Cal., and Sharon, Pa., were represented by several decorated autos, filled with enthusiastic motorists. Many of Chicago's best known citizens were in the herd of 2000 candidates initiated in the evening at the Auditorium theatre. The majority of them, however, did not personally experience the sensations of "riding the moose." There were three "model" candidates, who were instructed in the ritual work by the crack Englewood degree team. They were Lieut. Gov. O'Hara, Medill McCormick and Judge Henry C. Bellier.

After the initiation Gov. Dunne and the supreme officers of the order spoke and were hailed with cheers and the familiar, "Howdy, Pap." James J. Davis, father of the lodge, explained to a few curious "outsiders" that the greeting phrase is not a mere catch line, but that "Pap" is the word form from the first three letters of purity, aid and progress. These are the watch words of the order.

Thanksgiving Offering

From The Chalifoux Corner Store

25 years ago tomorrow the Chalifoux store made its third move to larger quarters at the corner of Central and Middle streets, occupying three stores in one, comprising 20,000 feet of floor space. At that time that was considered a wonderful store and had made rapid progress in the 14 years prior to 1899. It can plainly be seen today that the Chalifoux store did not stop at that move but has been steadily growing with the times and still has that reputation it had 25 years ago. "THE GRANDEST STORE IN THIS SECTION." Obtained and held by serving the public with the best values possible to obtain.

A cabaret entertainment was given at the First Universalist church last night under the auspices of Mrs. Dalzello Dunlap Brown. Foot of all description was served a la carte to the many visitors and during the repast the following entertainment program was carried out, much to the satisfaction of those present:

Mrs. Belle Harrington Hall, reader; Mrs. Harry Saxon, singer; Mrs. Winifred Plagge Symonds, Mrs. F. L. Roberts, Harry Needham and Mr. Booth, Miss Bertha Wisner, vocal soloists; Raymond Martin, violin soloist; Mrs. Helen Hamilton Taylor and Miss Grace

Martin, accompanists; Mrs. Kimball in monologue.
The supper committee included Mrs. Everett Moore, Mrs. Wilbur Stearns, Mrs. Harry R. Sprague, assisted by Mrs. William Hinkley, Mrs. Harry C. Chapp, Mrs. William Dickerman, Mrs. E. Dunbar, and others.
CHILDREN OF MARY SOCIETY
The Children of Mary sodality of St. Joseph's parish conducted a successful whist party at St. Joseph's college hall last night. Despite the inclement weather the attendance was large and the proceeds which were very substantial will go toward the St. Jean Baptiste church fund.

The affair was presided over by Rev. Charles Denzot, O. M. L., and the winners at what were presented handsome prizes. An entertainment program was given and those who contributed were as follows:
Misses Antonette and Bruneline Alexandre, Georgina Desrochers, Antoinette Blain, Renee Mathot, George Labrache, Mozart Champagne, Rev. Armand Baron, O. M. L.
The party was conducted by an efficient committee headed by Miss Christina Lamoureux, president of the sodality.

Meeting at Washington to Interest European Immigration in Southern States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, issued a call today for state and local officials, representatives of the press, commercial and civic organizations, railroad officials, bankers, and real estate and business men of the south, to meet in Washington Saturday, Dec. 12 to consider and devise methods of interesting and locating agricultural immigrants in the southern states. The call is issued by the Southern Commercial Congress, with the approval of Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, at the instance of leading business men throughout the south to discuss the

SIT ERECT FOR BEAUTY

So many business girls acquire the habit of slouching in their chairs while they run the typewriter. Sit erect, girls, as slouching spoils the lines of your grace and makes you old before your time. In the restaurants, in the theatres and in the street cars we see women slouched in their seats with their heads poked forward and their chests thrown in. No person can breathe properly in this attitude. Slouching leaves in its wake, crooked spines, shapeless figures, flat bony chests, weak lungs, double chins and lazy bones. Does it pay? If you are tired you will find that it is a great deal more restful to sit erect and lean on the back of your chair than to slouch forward with your chin on your hands. Always sit well back in your chairs, whether you are plugging at the typewriter or playing at the piano. If the stool is too high have it lowered. If your desk is too low place your typewriter on some books, but do spare yourself from all slouching.

Best Laxative For Children

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood. The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 451 Washington St. Monticello, Ill.

advisability of undertaking efforts for placing the agriculturally inclined immigrants now out of employment in our industrial communities on southern farms, and to plan methods of caring for the horde of foreigners that will probably come to this country at the close of the European conflict.

Secretary Wilson will deliver the opening address at the conference. The Southern Commercial Congress will have the co-operation of the department of labor in this work, and Mr. T. V. Powderly, chief of the division of information of the bureau of immigration, has been designated to actively assist in arranging for the meeting.

The conference is called, it is stated, to determine a southern immigration policy, and to work out a practical plan by which the south can take advantage of existing opportunities. There are thousands of immigrant families in our industrial communities, either out of work or on short time, that have been working and saving for years in order to be able to return to Europe and purchase agricultural homes who are now prevented from leaving this country. Many of these people no longer desire to return abroad in view of the economic burden which the war has placed on the countries of Europe, and large groups can be placed on southern farms if the proper efforts are made to secure them.

Large numbers of European immigrants, many of whom will be practically destitute, will come to the United States at the close of hostilities in Europe and must be cared for. The advisability of attempting to utilize this class of people on the farm lands of the south will also be considered. Preparations are being made to have representatives of the foreign press in this country and officials of the more important of the immigrant societies to attend the conference. In addition to Secretary Wilson, other high officials of the federal government will also be in attendance.

MEMORIAL TO HERO

EASTHAM, Nov. 20.—A monument in Evergreen cemetery, erected by shipmates and Cape Cod friends to the memory of Walter L. Watson, a seaman on the battleship Arkansas, who was killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz last April, will be unveiled Saturday, Nov. 28, by Gov. Walsh. The exercises will begin at 1 p. m. in the town hall, where Seaman Watson's funeral services were held last May. Gov. Walsh will make an address.

The monument is 7 feet 2 inches high and two of its faces bear inscriptions. One reads: "In Memory of Walter Louis Watson, born April 14, 1892, killed April 22, 1914, in the battle of Vera Cruz, Mex., while a member of the battalion from the United States battleship Arkansas. His Duty Done—His Honor Won."

The other inscription reads: "Erected by His Shipmates and Cape Cod Friends." The inscription is surrounded by a picture of the Arkansas lightly carved in the stone.

The success of the movement to secure funds for the memorial is largely due to the efforts of J. Bradley Steele, one of Eastham's foremost citizens, who, with William B. Higgins and Mrs. Sarah Clark, were chosen a committee to endeavor to erect a monument to the memory of the gallant young sailor.

WARNED ABOUT IMPOSTERS

Federal Department Cautions Stockmen and Farmers Against Men Coming With Cures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Warnings to cattle men to beware of men posing as federal agents in the fight against foot and mouth disease went out today from the department of agriculture. Reports to the department say such persons are appearing in infected states with so-called cures.

Officials say there is no specific cure for the disease and that the only way to prevent its spread is to keep well herds from contact with infected ones. The warning cautions farmers to make sure that men claiming to represent the department are actually federal inspectors.

Stockmen are particularly warned not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of cures by injections or otherwise, as there is great danger such persons might disseminate the disease by carrying the germs on their clothing. Much of the spread of hog cholera was thus accounted for.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head jars with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food-ionic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble. 14-41 Scott & Bowne, Brooklyn, N. Y.

DISEASE OF SHEEP AND GOATS

The department of agriculture has undertaken the investigation of a serious disease which is affecting the Rocky mountain bighorn sheep and the mountain goats, and is reported as existing on the Lemhi national forest in Idaho.

The forest officers think that it is the same disease that caused the mountain sheep to die in great numbers during 1882-83. The nature of the disease is not known, though it results fatally and sheep affected with it seem to have rough and matted coats and are very much emaciated. Three bureaus of the department are engaged in the study—the biological survey, bureau of animal industry, and the forest service. A competent veterinarian has already gone to Idaho to start the work.

DARING AUTO DRIVERS

WHIZ ALONG FRINGE OF SHELL-TORN BATTLE FRONT ON MILITARY DUTY

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(The Associated Press.) The exploits of the daring automobile drivers who whiz along the fringe of the shell-torn battle front, and sometimes into it, on missions of military duty that have cost many a life, are as remarkable as the aerial dashes in this war.

Thousands of luxurious touring cars and limousines that once graced the boulevard of Paris are now employed in this service, and many of them are driven by their wealthy owners, who rank as privates, and are comrades with professional chauffeurs. They wear uniforms marked with an "A" on the arm. Little is heard of their individual deeds, which led the Figaro to say their service was "obscured." In reply the Figaro printed on its first page a letter from one of these daring drivers, a Paris lawyer, that speaks for itself. It follows:

"Obscured? The word is quickly said. There is too much 'observed.' And one has reason for being so who is forced to remain far from the front. Thus the automobile service is obscured. But the Figaro ought to say that in their obscurely the automobilists know how to do and that numerous indeed have been those who are ready have fallen.

"If, at the beginning of the war, one saw automobilists enjoying a ride in the woods or with their cars stationed before fashionable restaurants, that time has passed. That should be known.

"The automobile squad to which I belong is submitted to the most rigid military discipline. We have three roll calls a day. We do not sleep at home. We only quit the garage during hours of service.

"The other day, about nine in the morning, the quartermaster entered the garage. Everyone was at his post. The machines were all equipped, tanks filled, provisions in the hampers, cartridges ready—everything there to show that we don't just merely make a run around the lake."

"They want a car," cried the quartermaster, "who can go?" "Every man answered 'I'."

"One of our comrades, Jean R—, was chosen. A turn of the crank and the car was gone. Where? No one asked. One is too much accustomed to seeing these machines depart to put the question. They go, remain absent—many days, sometimes."

"And R— went this time, like others before him, and as still others will follow him, each day."

"In the evening the machine returned to the garage. All its windows were broken. Bullets had riddled its panels. Jean R— was not with it. His comrade, tears in his eyes, had brought the car back alone. Jean R— had been killed during the trip. His body was on the ground back there, somewhere in the north. They had not been able to bring it back. Some English soldiers had arrived in time to save the survivors of this mission on which the poor chauffeur had left so joyously in the morning."

"Some hours later, in the garage where each evening they call the roll, to the name of Jean R—, the quartermaster answered:

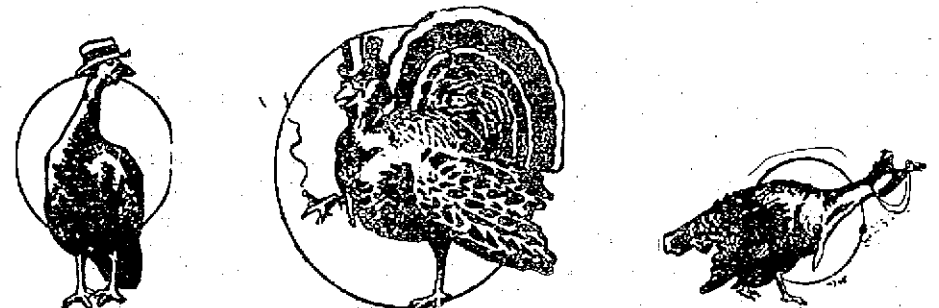

"Dead on the field of honor."

"The men, in two ranks, raised the hand to their caps."

"A day or two later, one could see, one morning, some soldiers marching with measured tread toward a church. All wore on the left arm that letter 'A' that is feared at. They were the comrades of the 'observed' one. They were going to have a mass celebration for him who had been killed by German bullets."

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. MT. PLEASANT BANQUET

ENJOYABLE AFFAIR AT RICHARDSON HOTEL LAST EVENING—PRIZES AWARDED

Nearly 75 golfers from the Mount Pleasant club gathered at the Richardson hotel last evening for the annual dinner of the club. The event was an informal meeting, no business being transacted except the awarding of the cups to the tournament winners.

The club championship cup was given to Boyd W. Putnam, and the consolation to A. H. Morton. George D. Lawson received the club cup, and open tournament first prize went to Warren R. Stone and second prize to C. T. Wing. George D. Lawson holds the distinction of being the only member to win two cups during the year, he also winning the president's cup.

The "Ringer Contest" cups for first, second and third places were awarded to H. N. Morton, E. P. Walsh and Thos. Southern, respectively. The presentation was followed by singing and speechmaking, with a song by Charles H. Howard. The success of the evening was due to the work of the following committee: Fred L. Knapp, Benton Mills, Thomas H. Robbins, Dr. H. E. Davis, George H. Hovey, William H. Hovey, William M. Sherwell, William H. Wilson and Jas. S. Hanson. The club officers are: President, William H. Wilson; vice president, Josiah Butler; secretary, Benton Mills; treasurer, William M. Sherwell; directors, Edward C. Childs, Benton Mills and Thomas G. Robbins.

LOCOMOTIVE RAN AWAY

THROTTLE FAILED TO RESPOND AND ENGINE DASHED INTO CLEVELAND AT HIGH SPEED

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 20.—An Erie railroad engine, traveling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour, ran wild into Cleveland early today, endangering the lives of scores of persons at grade crossings and resulting in serious injury to J. S. Hite, engineer of Youngstown, who jumped to avoid what he considered sure death. The fireman succeeded in stopping the engine at 55th street near the heart of the city.

When ten miles out of Cleveland, the throttle of the engine failed to respond to the engineer and as the engine lurched forward the coupling was broken from the tender which was followed by a long freight train.

MILLIONAIRE CURED IN HUB

J. McCormick, Jr., Had Consulted a Number of Noted Specialists in Regard to Foot Trouble

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—After having consulted some of the most eminent specialists in the world in regard to a foot trouble, J. McCormick, Jr., the young millionaire real estate operator of Chicago, said yesterday that a Boston specialist had apparently found a cure for his trouble.

For some time young McCormick has been treated by Dr. E. H. Bradford of 220 Beacon street, dean of Harvard Medical school. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCormick have been guests at the Copley-Plaza for some time, that they might be near their son while he was receiving the treatment that has apparently been so effective. Last night young McCormick was the guest of Mrs. Susan Parker at Hamilton, where he went on the train without apparent difficulty, although still using crutches.

that this attack had been repulsed.

In Belgium the diminution of activity has become still more pronounced. There was almost a total absence of infantry attack northwest and even the artillery, which has been unusually severe, has lessened its fire.

The Germans, on their left wing have recaptured a section of the town of Chauvencourt, which they recently blew up with mines after the French had forced their way in. Either the censorship or the absence of decisive events was responsible for the fact that from the other fields of battle in Russian Poland, Turkey, Servia and Persia, there came only fragmentary information today. The German statement said that the Russians were continuing their retreat.

In Poland but that in Eastern Prussia they had captured an unoccupied fort.

Comparative calm in the west and re-awakened activity in the east are taken by London to indicate that the German military chiefs have decided to postpone the stage of the war toward dealing, if possible, a crushing blow to Russia.

Such fragmentary reports as were received today from the eastern zone of fighting showed that the German army was sending thousands of troops back through Russia and Poland, over the same battlefields across which the Russians a few weeks ago were advancing victoriously. Much has been made of the reversal in form of the opposing armies, although it has been reported on several occasions that the Germans were sending thousands of their finest troops from France and Belgium to the east. The Russian war chiefs state that their advance in East Prussia and Galicia continues in spite of their admitted retreat in the center.

German opinion admits of no doubt as to the outcome of the war, with Russia. General Von Hindenburg is quoted as saying that Germany and Austria will win, although outnumbered because they have stronger nerves and because their soldiers do not wear thinking, while Russian discipline is a "mere blind and dull obedience."

Besides the possible withdrawal of German troops for use against Russia, there is another reason for the lull in the fighting in the west. Cold, wet weather has numbed and exhausted the soldiers so that great physical effort is almost out of the question.

The weather in Belgium is compared with a bleak windy December day on the New England coast. The storm confines and the waters of the North sea flow through the locks at Newport which the allies opened to flood the lowlands and hold back the German advance.

Notwithstanding the extent of the flooded area, the invaders hope to renew their advance. Large numbers of engineers are being sent to the front to provide a scientific method of crossing the inundated country.

The outcome of yesterday's naval battle in the Black sea is still unknown. No fresh information was received to reconcile the conflicting claims of Russia and Turkey, each of whom asserted that a hostile battleship had been damaged seriously in the engagement.

GERMANY'S ADVANCE IN THE WATER-VISTULA COUNTRY WATCHED WITH INTEREST

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Both in London and Berlin the present stage of the campaign in Russian Poland is regarded as highly important and Germany's advance in the Waria-Vistula country is being watched with interest.

Army headquarters in Petrograd announces that two great battles have developed along the eastern front, one on the line between Crenstochowa and Cracow. Apparently extending along the railroad between these two points, the second in the Waria-Vistula region, but Russian observers do not appear to attach much significance to the outcome in this latter region.

A general survey of the reports received from all quarters confirms the impression that the German advance on the Vistula has met at least with a temporary check, while the Russian invasion of East Prussia has suffered a like fate near Angerburg, where the German defense, consisting chiefly of vertical lines of wire entanglements are reported to be very strong.

Berlin declares that a concursive attack is being made on the Russian center, the German armies coming from the west and northwest, while Austria is sending a force north from the Cracow region. Petrograd, however, states that the offensive in western Galicia is still under way and that Cracow is believed to be invested on three sides, leaving only one line of rail communication open.

In West Prussia, owing to weather conditions operations apparently are at almost a standstill. Artillery duels and boat forays are the only features of the military situation there. The advent of damp and bitter cold weather, with the disease and privations incident to its coming promise to make both the eastern and the western fronts scenes of great suffering. Parallels for what may be witnessed this coming winter are being sought in Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

New taxation for Great Britain, which under ordinary conditions would have taken a generation of the most bitter political controversy to pass, was today accepted with scarcely a murmur. The exact figures of the war loan subscriptions are not yet known and they probably will not be made public until Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George addresses the house of commons on the subject.

Later reports from Turkey indicate that the Turkish army are making a better showing than at the opening of the Balkan war. This is believed to be due to the fact that the men are largely offered by Germans who are able to make better use of the recognized fighting ability of the Turkish soldier than are his own commanders.

In Constantinople there have been several outbreaks against foreigners but none of a serious nature.

ANNEXATION IN DRACUT

Prominent Residents Think the Whole Town Should be Annexed
—News of the Town

"Dracut is bound to be annexed to Lowell sooner or later," said a prominent resident of the Centre village in conversation with a reporter of The Sun yesterday, "and why not make the annexation movement a general one all over the town?" he continued. This man who is prominent in social, political and church circles argued the question of annexation in a very intelligent way and he believed there would be but little opposition to the project if it were made general.

One of the chief arguments of the Centre man for annexing the entire town is that all parts of Dracut connect with the city of Lowell and that it would be an easy matter to supply the town with proper sewerage by simply extending Lowell's trunk lines. He said sooner or later Dracut will have to face the sewerage problem, and he feels that the town cannot supply adequate service in this particular line. He also touched on the police and fire protection as well as the water service.

In speaking about water, the man who was interviewed said the Centre village and Collinsville have good service and excellent water, but the residents of the other districts have to go without it on account of the distance between the various sections of the town, while if the entire town were annexed to the city, all that would be necessary for the districts already supplied with water would be to connect the city mains to that of the town, and in the other sections extend the city mains.

Dracut is a long narrow territory, with a population of about 4000 people. It is connected with Lowell by Mammoth road, Lakeview avenue, Bridge street and Merrimack avenue, which are all noted to be the finest places of road work in this vicinity. A distance of two miles is about the limit from the centre of any one district to the centre of Lowell, and inasmuch as Lowell is bound to expand, Dracut is the most desirable district for annexation on account of its close proximity to the city.

The Kenwood district was also the topic of discussion and the annexation man, as we may call him, feels assured that in the event of that district being annexed there would not be the slightest opposition from other localities. That section of the town is a district by itself and most of its residents are employed in the city and have city manners and they are all looking for certain protection which the town cannot afford to give them. "I feel sure," he said, "if a mass meeting is held 25 per cent of the residents will favor annexation. We have good schools in Dracut, but we prepare the children for the Lowell high school and have to pay the city a certain amount yearly for the advanced education of our children. We also have a library in the town, but inasmuch as only $500 is expended each year for its maintenance and the purchase of new books, our equipment is very small, while if the town were annexed we would have access to the beautiful and well equipped library of Lowell."

Voting Booths

An interesting meeting of representatives of the democratic and republican town committees was held Tuesday night at the town office in the Centre village, the purpose of the gathering being to discuss the possibility of dividing the town into precincts. The meeting was held at the request of the selectmen, who were also present, and as a result of the meeting it is possible a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

A year ago last March at a town meeting the residents of the town voted to instruct the selectmen to divide the town into districts and report at the next town meeting which was held last March. The selectmen did their work and reported and that was the end of it. A short time ago the matter was taken up again by the town committees and a delegation from the democratic town committee called on the selectmen and again talked over the matter of town precincts. After listening to their arguments the selectmen signified their intention of meeting representatives of both committees and last evening all met at the town office. Present at the meeting were Selectmen Percy Smith and Victor Cluff; John W. Brennan, James J. McManmon, William Tyrell, J. Fogarty, Thomas Carroll and John J. Klerman, representing the democratic town committee, and Harry Fox, H. E. Kings, Henry Fox, and a republican town committee and Town Counsel Warren Fox. It was decided to establish a precinct at Collinsville, at the Navy Yard and the Centre village. It was also decided to transact the town business on one day and have the election on another, and of course this matter will have to be voted upon by the citizens and accordingly a special town meeting will be held in the near future.

Entertainment

The Christian Endeavor society of the Centre village will conduct an entertainment in aid of its coming fair. The affair will be held on Friday evening, December 4 and the program which will consist of moving pictures, a one-act pantomime and vocal and instrumental selections will be under the direction of Augustus Dunster. It is expected that some of the Lowell M. C. A. boys will assist at the entertainment.

Reception to Pastor

Rev. Mr. Dupertuis, who on next Sunday will assume the pastoral of the Third church will be tendered a reception at the church on Monday evening. It is expected that all parishioners will be on hand to welcome their new pastor, and among the other clergymen who have been invited are Rev. Ernest Hartlett, Rev. John Fawcett, Rev. F. G. Alger of the Pawtucket Congregational church and Rev. Mr. Ramette, pastor of the French Baptist church in West Sixth street.

Bad Collision

Mrs. Joseph Ouellette of Pleasant street is being confined to her home suffering from injuries she received in a collision which took place Monday, when an electric car struck the carriage in which she was riding. The accident took place near the car barn in Lakeview avenue. Mrs. Ouellette was seated in the carriage, which was stopped near the car tracks. An electric car came along and crashed into the rear of the carriage, throwing its occupants to the ground. Mrs. Ouellette was badly shaken up and received a few bruises. The carriage was damaged to some extent. The horse ran away but was brought to a stop before any serious damage was caused.

Another Accident

The many friends of James Cunningham of Parker avenue will be grieved to learn that he is confined to his home suffering from serious injuries he received in an accident which occurred Wednesday under the School street bridge in Lowell. Mr. Cunningham whose duties consist of going to the freight yard where he gets the car for street riding, was riding on top of his wagon and when he reached a spot under the School street bridge, the horses took fright at a passing train and Mr. Cunningham's head came in contact with one of the bolts on the long girders. The blow threw the man to the ground, where he was picked up by employees of the Lowell Gas light company, and removed to the plant of the company. Mr. Cunningham was later able to return to his home, where he is now confined, suffering from a deep gash in the forehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Fox of Marsh Hill are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

WESTON MAN ASKS RETURN OF MONEY AND RINGS—JUDGE RESERVES DECISION

WALTHAM, Nov. 20.—Harry J. Downs of Weston was the plaintiff against Miss Agnes T. Murphy in the civil session of the local court before Judge Luce yesterday in a suit to recover money and rings he alleges he gave Miss Murphy for safekeeping when keeping company with her. Down's wife was in court.

He said he became acquainted with Miss Murphy in 1902 in Cambridge and from that time until 1910 had kept company with her. As he was unable to save money himself, he gave it to her to keep for him, he said. He gave her in all about $100. "In 1910," he told the court, "Miss Murphy's love grew cold, and every time I called on her I felt the cold shoulder." From that time until 1912 they were just friends.

He testified that in 1903 he gave her a ring for a birthday present, but it was not an engagement ring, as he had never been engaged to her. He said she had given him presents also, among them a bathrobe and a suitcase.

The matter was brought to court, he said, because last September when he asked her to return the money she refused.

Miss Murphy, who runs a restaurant at 5 Cushing street, testified that she gave Downs $70 in 1910, and that it was all the money he had given her. She said he proposed to her in 1907.

Downs testified that he married a Boston widow, Mrs. Maria Sault, in 1911 after Miss Murphy's love grew cold. Judge Luce reserved his decision.

INVENTION TO SAVE WOUNDED

Swiss Surgeons Present Large Quantities of Coagulen to Both Armies—Stops Bleeding, It Is Said

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—A preparation which, it is said, will stop almost instantly the flow of blood from a wound has been invented by Professor Theodore Korchner of Berne, who was awarded the Nobel prize for surgery in 1912, and his assistant, Dr. A. Fenech.

The new preparation is called coagulen. It is in the form of a powder and is dissolved in water before being applied to a wound.

The discoverers of coagulen have made a gift of their invention to the armies in the field and have sent large quantities of the powder to the surgical headquarters of both the German and French armies.

The discovery is regarded by medical men here as likely to save the lives of thousands of soldiers, since it can be applied by untrained hands, so that the wounded man himself or his comrade might use the solution.

ACCUSED OF TREASON

Sayer, a Canadian, Admits Aiding Austrians to Join Regiments, It Is Said—Death the Penalty

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Nov. 20.—Robert Sayer of this city is held in custody here on a charge of high treason. He is said to have admitted in court yesterday that he aided six Austrians to cross the St. Mary's river from the United States into Canada to join their home regiments in the European war. The crime is punishable by death. The hearing has been postponed eight days while local officials wait for instructions from the military authorities at Ottawa.

WEATHER AND THE WAR

STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM, THE WAR HAS CAUSED A LACK OF WEATHER BULLETINS

Even the dullest-witted persons have been impressed by the wonderful weather we have been having in this part of the world this fall. It has persisted in remaining fine in spite of various pessimistic predictions by the official weather experts. The great majority of the succeeding days of the past six weeks have been of the exceptional sort that in most seasons are regarded as "weather breakers," and yet they have been very little in the way of adverse conditions. All of which must have inspired considerable reflection on the laws of cause and effect as they apply to climatic phenomena. How far may this superb autumn weather be attributed to the war in Europe? The curious fact, whether of significance or not, is that heavy rains have been prevalent in the battle zones since the early days of the war. Thus is revived the old controversy over the relation of weather and battles.

The theory that the discharge of powder in vast quantities is almost invariably followed by storms and heavy downpours of rain is an old one, although scientists have vigorously maintained that it is not worthy of scientific credence. And efforts to produce precipitation by the use of big explosives have usually failed, making a laughing stock of the well-meaning "rain makers."

Nevertheless, there has been much battling in Europe during the past two months, and there has been an exceptional amount of rain. Coincidentally there has been almost no rain at all in this part of the world, and with the absence of precipitation we have had a balmy autumn that exceeds all the records. Are these facts related? At least, it would be interesting to have the controversy revived by those who are capable of discussing the question intelligently.

In any event, it cannot be denied that the war has had its effect on the weather in this country. There has been a commercial effect, if not a climatic, for the weather bureau, like the stock exchange, has felt obliged to curtail its business. Announcement has been made of the suspension of weekly forecasts, and the limitation of prophecies to periods of 35 or 45 hours.

And the reason given for this is the lack of meteorological data from abroad upon which the longer forecasts are based. The war has paralyzed foreign quotations on the weather as well as those on stocks and bonds. For some time to come,

our weather, like various commonplace commodities, will have to be "made in America."

But this should be a source of gratification rather than of additional worry. Owing to various circumstances the war has greatly increased the total amount of misinformation in the world, but here at least is one particular in which the misinformation seems likely to be reduced. The less "information" it has, and the more limited the period of its prophecies, the smaller will be the percentage of mistakes made by the weather bureau.—Providence Journal.

SECRET BRIDE SINCE MARCH

New York Girl of 17 Married to Supposed Foster Father, More Than Three Times Older

among her friends in Flatbush, has been a secret bride since last March, and that Severin A. Breeding, supposed to be her foster father, and more than three times her age, is her husband, was announced last evening by the girl herself at the Breeding home, 1712 Ditmars avenue.

The girl entered the Breeding home when she was 4 years old. When she was a baby she was adopted by the former Mrs. Breeding's mother, who found her at South Framingham, Mass., and took a great fancy to her. The foster mother became an invalid, however, and Dolly went to the home of the Breeding.

Breeding and his former wife were married Feb. 10, 1900. In March, 1912, Mrs. Breeding filed suit for divorce, alleging that she had found love notes written to her husband by other women in his pockets. These notes were put in evidence. The new Mrs. Breeding said last night she had never been legally adopted by Breeding.

Estimate in the Foot and Mouth Disease Campaign — Payment for Losses Delayed

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The cost to the state for the slaughter of cattle infected with the foot and mouth disease will reach at least $25,000, according to Lieut. Gov. Barry, who as chairman of the committee on finance and accounts of the executive council, says the council cannot approve the bills and that payment for animals slaughtered must be put up to the next legislature.

He had a conference yesterday with Commissioner Fred F. Walker, to whom he suggested that out of an extraordinary expense fund of $100,000, with which the executive council started the year, there remains only about $30,000 for the extra expenses of a number of state institutions.

It was suggested by Lieut. Gov. Barry to Commissioner Walker that there is a constantly increasing number of complaints coming to the executive council from poultry raisers, Hebrew rabbis and dealers in poultry as to quarantine regulations ordered by the council on recommendation of Commissioner Walker.

Mr. Barry suggested that the council should not be expected to decide every case, and that the commissioner should be able to tell what permits might safely be granted without endangering the cattle of the state.

Commissioner Walker is understood to have assured the lieutenant governor that where it could be shown that no danger of infection was possible permits would be granted.

The state cattle bureau officials advised Oliver J. Cohn of Braintree that it will be necessary to kill $7 head of cattle on his farm on account of prevalence of hoof and mouth disease. The prevalence of the disease among the cattle was called to the attention of the board by Mr. Cohn.

The officials of the state board are so busy that the killing of the cattle cannot be done until next week. The premises will be fumigated by the state board after the cattle are killed.

FIFTH STREET CHURCH

VARIED PROGRAM PRESENTED BY THE YOUNG PEOPLE LAST EVENING

The banquet hall and vestries of the Fifth Street Baptist church were the scene of a most enjoyable occasion last evening when the church members gathered to see and hear the talented artists from Binghamville, Lowell, who occasionally enjoyed the antics of a delegation from this center of rural delight, but never before did Binghamville send so many of its best citizens. All who were present were unanimous in declaring that all Binghamville needs is a good press agent to make Paris look to its laurels.

The earlier part of the evening was devoted to a most enjoyable supper under the direction of Mrs. Ben Ingham and Mrs. Robert Hollingsworth. The Wickasauke and Wampanoag Campfire Girls were the waitresses. After supper the large crowd in attendance gathered in the vestry to welcome their Binghamville friends who arrived punctually at 8. They opened the evening entertainment by marching through the rooms headed by the famous Binghamville band. Robert Hollingsworth was the leader, assisted by Bert Howard pianist, and Ben Ingham, Willard Ryan, Frank Taylor, Albert Williams, Albert Shaw as players. The marching of the entire company and the artistic posing of Willard Ryan were highly entertaining. The famous Olympic sports had

WOODEN SEWERS

Doomed in Hub—Menace to Public, Says Mayor Curley

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The old wooden sewers are doomed in the down town section of Boston, and according to a contract approved by Mayor Curley last night, Timothy J. O'Connell, being the lowest bidder, Beach street will be the first to have an up-to-date sewer system instead of the old wooden one that has been in service probably since Boston was incorporated in 1822.

There are three other sections, each of which will be replaced in the course of the winter. It is estimated that the work will cost about $200,000.

The wooden sewers, the mayor said, have always been a menace to public health because of the backing up from time to time, and to safety, because of frequent bursting, with the accompanying altering through the ground to the imminent danger of undermining nearby building foundations.

The mayor approved the work of treating the following streets with bituminous macadam: Woodworth street, formerly Wood street, Dorchester, from Walnut street to Copley's highway, at a cost of $1400; Walley street, East Boston, from Gladstone to Waltham street, at a cost of $2000; Northwold street, Dorchester, from Columbus road to Beaver street, at a cost of $3000; Lowell street, East Boston, from Newbury road to Island street, at a cost of $5000; Lothrop street, Brighton, from Market to Portsmouth street, at a cost of $3400; Lorenzo street, from Walnut street to Woodsworth street, at a cost of $1900, and Doris street, West Roxbury, from Orchard street to Holbrook street, at a cost of $4500.

The following appointments of meter readers were approved by the mayor last night, the salary of each to be $550 a year: Bernard H. Norton, Chas. P. Barley, Henry C. Murphy, Stephen J. Mills, William J. Sheehan, Michael J. McNamara and Frank A. Roche.

The appointments of Bartholomew Carr and Jeremiah Sullivan, as assistant firemen on Deer Island at $700 a year, were also approved by the mayor.

A tunnel to East Boston for the use of teaming and pedestrian traffic was urged by Mayor Curley yesterday in a communication to the Boston transit commission.

The mayor further requested that the commission estimate the cost of establishing a system of elevators from the base of this tunnel to the street surface, for both teaming and pedestrian use, a scheme which, in his opinion, would eliminate the necessity for long grade approaches to the tunnel.

He informed the commission that if the estimated cost of constructing such a tunnel would not exceed $3,000,000 he believed the city could finance it on the money saved by the abolition of the ferry service.

The subject, "The Martyred Three; and the Influence of Their Death on the Present Home Rule Movement." The entertainment will consist of Irish songs by some of the best known singers of the city, James E. Donnelly will sing "God Save Ireland," and the audience is asked to rise and sing it with him.

Fire broke out in the partitions back of a stove in a tenement block at 10 Fifth street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and necessitated an alarm from No. 51, corner of Fifth and Bridge streets. When the firemen arrived the blaze threatened to work to the upper part of the house, but it was promptly checked with small dippers. The building is owned by E. J. Varian.

FEDERAL RELIEF FOR SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Plain charity, rather than aid to self-support, is the purpose to which the relief fund of $200,000 for sufferers from the Salem fire must be devoted, according to a ruling promulgated yesterday by Controller of the Treasury Downey.

The fund, says this ruling, may not be applied even indirectly to the rehabilitation of the city, but must be used solely and exclusively for providing food, clothing and shelter for those who may be destitute.

The money, added Mr. Downey, becomes available at once and the fund will be administered by officers of the war department under the supervision of Secretary Garrison.

This ruling was evoked by a suggestion that the fund might be used for paying sufferers for work in rehabilitating the city, such as the excavation of sewers, the rebuilding of public structures and along similar lines.

That such was not the purpose was the opinion of the judge advocate general of the war department, who was questioned by Secretary Garrison after several talks with Representative Gardner, the sponsor of the resolution. In this view the controller concurred.

NOT UNEXPECTED IN SALEM
Sec. Tivnan Says Fire Sufferers Will Feel Pinch Because of the Action of Controller

SALEM, Nov. 20.—Decision by Gen. E. Downey, controller of the treasury, that no portion of the $200,000 appropriated by congress for relief of sufferers by fire in this city June 25 can be used to assist in rehabilitation work, is regretted by a large number here.

Such a verdict had long been anticipated, especially since the visit of Brig. Gen. Carroll A. Devol, who investigated the situation at the request of Secretary of War Garrison.

After Gen. Devol had submitted his findings a delegation of the fire relief committee went to Washington to define the needs of the fire sufferers.

Members of the relief committee, including Chairman John F. Moors, questioned the propriety of sending a delegation to Washington, yet the majority thought otherwise.

John H. Tivnan, secretary of the committee, vigorously condemned the decision of Controller Downey, and says among other things: "Owing to action by congress in appropriating $200,000 for relief of Salem sufferers, the fire relief committee regarded the money as additional to donations made by the public."

"Owing to the action of congress, information was sent throughout the country on account of the seeming benevolence of congress, subscriptions by the public should cease on a definite date. Had it been known that the federal government was not to furnish the $200,000, the people of the country would not have been advised to cease subscriptions when they did."

"Of course Salem can get along without the $200,000 federal appropriation, yet a great many fire sufferers will feel the pinch of poverty and the burden of taxation much more because of refusal to carry out the intent of congress in an act voluntarily proposed by President Wilson and advocated by Gov. Walsh. Congressman Gardner and Philan and other big-hearted statesmen."

In conclusion Mr. Tivnan says: "Tight-lipped officials might easily have found as great an obstacle in the way of the $200,000 appropriated by Massachusetts, as appeared to stand in the way of the federal appropriation, but Gov. Walsh and Atty. Gen. Boynton found a way to overcome the legal hitch. Not a single dissenter was heard, simply because this commonwealth lived up to her record—giving freely, heartily and sympathetically."

TURKEY SILENT SHOES FOR ALLIES

No Word at Washington Regarding Firing on Americans $2,000,000 Order Received by Manchester, N. H., Firm

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson conferred last night with Secretary Daniels of the navy department and Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department on the situation produced by the firing by the Turkish land forces on the launch of the American cruiser Tennessee at Smyrna, Asia Minor.

The president summoned the two secretaries to learn if there had been any word from Turkey shedding light on the reasons for the firing, but found that neither the cables nor the wireless had yielded a syllable of information. The European war has virtually paralyzed cable communication to Asia Minor, and such messages as are received come by roundabout routes, subject to five days' delay.

If there is continued delay it is probable that the American government will ask the British admiralty for the courtesy of its wireless in the Mediterranean to reach the American ships.

The president and his cabinet are assuming that the shots fired at the American launch were merely a friendly warning giving the customary notice that the port was mined and closed. Even if the shots were fired with hostile intent, the Washington government believes that the Ottoman government would render apology promptly for unauthorized acts of subordinate officials.

In no quarter here is the incident or its consequences regarded as serious for the United States has no quarrel with Turkey. The American government is caring for Turkish subjects and interests in France and Great Britain and there has been no indication of friendliness in the relations between Washington and Constantinople.

In the absence of definite information, however, the president is anxious to have the incident cleared up and is awaiting with much interest the arrival of messages explaining in detail just what occurred.

When last night's conference ended both Secretary Daniels and Mr. Lansing said no further inquiries had been directed to the American cruisers or the American ambassador at Constantinople. A detailed review of previous messages covering the general situation in Turkey and Asia Minor.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 20.—Through its New York selling agent, the W. H. McElwain company of this city, manufacturers of shoes, yesterday received an order for $2,000,000 worth of shoes for the armies of the allied nations. The contract calls for delivery not later than Jan. 15.

The local factories of the McElwain company are capable of turning out 40,000 pairs of shoes a day, and arrangements are now under way to run the plant to its capacity and to even put on extra crews of men.

FINE MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT
LAST NIGHT

The members of St. Patrick's sanctuary choir lived up to their reputations as first class soloists and entertainers last night, when they held their annual minstrel show and dance in Associate hall. Despite the inclement weather, the boys from the area had their usual large following of friends and the affair ended from being most enjoyable socially, was also highly successful financially.

The minstrel show opened up with a snap and vim characteristic of the leading professional troops, and everything went off without the slightest hitch. There were the order of things and were frequently demanded by the generous audience.

Edward J. Flannery was the interlocutor and filled his position most admirably, and his work contributed in no small way to the smoothness in which the program was carried out. The end men who kept their audience in a state of laughter by their witty remarks and comic songs were: James King, Cornelius M. Cloheey, Daniel A. Powers, Eugene Dean, John E. Stapleton and James L. Neilligan. The solos by Master Peter Kane, Master William Chandler and Thomas Delmore were executed in finished style and encores were demanded in every instance. Miners' orchestra furnished the music for the entertainment, and also for the dancing which followed immediately after and continued until midnight. The program was as follows:

ROADS TO RAISE FARES

CHICAGO-BOSTON ROUTE IN-CREASED FROM $22.00 TO $23.10

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Material increases in passenger fares, virtually throughout the country, except in southeastern territory, will be caused by advances announced by railroads in trunk-line territory between New York city and Pittsburgh and its Central Passenger association territory, between Pittsburgh and Chicago and St. Louis. Virtually, the basis for re-adjustment is 2½ cents a mile, the present basis generally being 24 cents.

Within Central Passenger Association territory the new fares will become effective on Dec. 1 and on trunk-line territory and between the two territories they will become effective on Dec. 15.

From Chicago the fare to Boston is raised from $22.00 to $23.10, and from St. Louis to Boston from $21.50 to $22.35.

The proposed advances were made by the railroads after the Interstate Commerce commission had suggested increased passenger fares as one method by which the revenues of the carriers might be increased. The commission is receiving some protests against the proposed increases, but at this time it is regarded as likely that the tariffs filed by the roads will not be suspended.

Tumulty.

GREAT SUCCESS

AT ARMORY

Battalion Night Attracted Very Large Gathering

Fine Entertainment in Military Evolutions and Other Features

The second in a series of battalion nights was conducted at the local armory in Westford street last evening and it is safe to say that its success was gratifying to those in charge. The large drill shed was taxed to its capacity and in order to accommodate the visitors it was necessary to introduce a large number of additional chairs and settees and despite the efforts of the men in charge to find seating room for all, many were forced to stand all evening. It is figured that over 1500 men, women and children were in attendance and all spent a most enjoyable evening. The affair had been organized by Major Colby T. Kittredge, who was ably assisted in all arrangements by the officers of the various companies.

The program consisted of military evolutions by Companies C, G and K of the Sixth regiment of this city; Company L of Boston of the same regiment and Company M of the Ninth regiment of this city. Tabor's famous Sixth Regiment band was in attendance and supplied excellent music. Short addresses were delivered by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of this city and Capt. William Duaneau of Lynn, chaplain of the Sixth regiment, and both speakers highly commended the local militiamen for their efficient work and the success achieved with their military nights.

Among the other visitors were Major J. H. McShane of the First battalion, Capt. Edward Connelly, Company A, Concord; Capt. Michael Dee, Lieutenants George L. Prescott and Thomas Mansfield, Sergt. Whipple Parker, Company L, Concord; Capt. Thorndike Howe, Battery C, Lawrence; and Capt. H. J. Fatten, ordnance officer, Eighth regiment, and about 40 members of Company L, Concord.

Early in the evening the members of each company gathered at the armory and enjoyed supper in their respective quarters. Then followed the battalion parade and specialties staged by each of the individual companies and members. The militia men in the battalion parade were headed by Tabor's Sixth

The numbers on the program were carried out in the following order: Company M, Ninth regiment, Lieut. Daniel M. Christian in command, bayonet drill; Company G, Lieut. Schupler R. Waller presiding at the piano; burlesque boxing match, Sergts. Arthur Moran and James Gleason of Company G; Company C, signal despatching for ammunition; Company K, tent pitching. The final number on the program was a fine demonstration of the initiation of new men at camp.

At the close of the program the visitors were given an opportunity to inspect the building from basement to roof, and luncheon was served to the visiting militiamen.

THE JUVENILE LAW

It seems to be the unanimous opinion of press and public that in some of its phases our juvenile law is not working well, and that some definite agitation for its amendment is timely. The subject is treated editorially in the leading papers of the state with great frequency, and while all do not agree on the form of the proposed change, all seem agreed that the present law is not achieving its ends. Needless to say, the news columns of our Massachusetts papers confirm the editorial views, for we have frequent examples of all manner of juvenile crime, much of which is plotted with great cunning and executed with professional daring.

The Lynn News dwelt on this subject in detail a day or two ago, calling special attention to the movement agitated by the local Molly Varnum chapter D. A. R. and to the comments of The Sun. To quote from the News:

There are few parts of our state in which people are not more or less stirred up over the practical working of the juvenile law. And if the Molly Varnum Chapter, D. A. R., of Lowell, which has been looking into the matter, decides to take action looking towards the reform of the law, the ladies will find a response in every part of the Commonwealth.

Probably most men who have thought on the subject will agree that boys of 16 and under should not be hounded with older criminals; they will agree also that boyish pranks should not be treated in the same fashion as the crimes of older men. But they will also assert that boys who are old enough to know what they are doing should not be dealt with in ways which lead them to despise the law and to feel it safe to affront the community.

The News then goes on to contrast the juvenile offences of the present with those of the past, reflecting particularly on the fact that the boys of today are a great deal more brazen in their offences than the boys of an older generation. This undesirable change, attributed in great part to the ineffectiveness of the juvenile law, is summed up as follows:

As things are boys can stand on street corners and use vile and impertinent language both among themselves and to passers-by; they can rob fruit trees under the eyes of the owners; they can indulge in many forms of malicious mischief; and then defy the people against whom they have done the wrong. They seem to feel that nobody can do anything to them, that the utmost they have to fear is perhaps a mild scolding, or a fine laid on their parents.

There was a time when if a man caught a youth robbing him of his fruit he would and could thrash him. Now he must keep his hands off and resort to the gentle processes of a law which may or may not work. The boy is protected at the expense of the rest of the community. Even his crime is called by the gentle name of delinquency rather than by the term which rightfully belongs to it.

Neither the Lynn News nor The Sun would advocate a change in the law which would permit the owner of fruit trees or the householder to attend personally to the punishment of a boy caught robbing his orchard or damaging his property, but it is not a good thing that boys should realize their practical immunity from punishment. The strongest argument for an amendment of the juvenile law is in the boast of the boys, when, referring to the police, they say: "They can't do anything to us." At the local meeting of the energetic branch of the D. A. R. many persons present, including the superintendent of police, testified that juvenile wrongdoers frequently make such a boast.

It must also be remembered that no law, no matter how adequate or how far-reaching, and no amount of police activity will make up for parental supervision and attention. Remembering this, the closing paragraph of the News editorial has an obvious moral:

There is nothing in the world many such boys need so much as a good, sound whipping. But the policeman who does not handle one of them with the utmost tenderness is likely to get into trouble. It is a pretty state of things where the elders have, in practice, whatever the theory may be, to surrender "to the younger."

Says the Lowell Sun: "Boys have always been mischievous, but one time they feared God, their parents, and the cop; if our juvenile law keeps up the parents, the cop, and the entire public will have reason to fear the boy." The Sun isn't alone in thinking that.

Any law which does not work well needs changing. Isn't the juvenile law, capable of some improvement?

There has been enough of aimless discussion of this subject in all its phases, and the local movement towards definite reform is deserving of support. A bill that would remove some of the technicalities that render the juvenile law ineffective, if not pernicious, would be in order at the coming session of the general court.

TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

That those who agitate political changes from selfish motives are not easily discouraged is proved by the rejuvenated activity of some Boston reformers to foist the two-platoon firemen's system on some large city of the Commonwealth—professedly as a disinterested experiment. There is no legitimate agitation for such a change even among the firemen of the state, and any appearance of activity in that direction should be checked by the weight of public opinion. Here and there the conditions surrounding the life of the fireman are not what they should be, but the enormously costly two-platoon system would benefit neither the fireman nor the public. The idea is purely a political one as unpopular as it is uncalled for.

Apart from the absolutely prohibitive cost of a fire department made up of two shifts, the two-platoon system would tend to a lack of efficiency and discipline. It would impair the service and would interfere eventually with the best interests of those it is meant to serve. In the very few cities where it has been tried it has proved an unqualified failure, and it has been almost universally abandoned. It is never sanctioned by any interest advocating really scientific municipal government. When agitated in Lowell a year or so ago, the public expressed ready disapproval, but there are indications that we may see a rebirth of the agitation in the near future.

It is not natural that some measure of dissatisfaction should obtain among the members of the local fire department, owing to the refusal of privileges to them which were granted to a more favored branch of the public service. In an era of boasted equality of rights to all, they have suffered from what looks suspiciously like discrimination. They should not act rashly, nevertheless, or sanction any movement that would afterwards react unfavorably on their city and on themselves. So far as all practical purposes are concerned, it is to be hoped that Lowell has heard the last of the two-platoon firemen's system.

TALK OF PEACE

One of the most significant statements regarding probable peace between the powers at war is that published by President Wilson to the effect that the next move towards mediation must be made by the belligerents. This country has made its position clear and while it stands not only ready but anxious to do everything possible to banish the war cloud from the earth, its dignity as a nation forbids its making unheeded plans that would eventually reduce its effectiveness as a peace agent. Germany, France, England, Austria and Russia know well through their rulers and government officials that they may rely on this country to advance the first indication of peace, and more is not necessary or advisable. If there is no official talk of peace in Europe, it is because none of the powers want it, and when none of the powers favor it, our protestations and pleadings would sound puerile. President Wilson has shown his horror of war and his love of peace, but he has also shown a high sense of personal and official propriety.

A cry persistent rumor has it that Mr. Van Dyke, our minister to Holland, is coming to President Wilson with an offer of co-operation from the Queen of The Netherlands, in the interests of peace. A recent cynical of Pope Benedict XV. pleaded to the same end. Unfortunately, two of the great powers, at least, declare their determination to fight to the death, and while this is so, it is vain to hope for a cessation of hostilities. Those who hope for peace receive little encouragement from the rulers. When the first patriotic fervor of the warring nations is cooled off by the weight of the calamities, possibly the people will ask that the war shall end. Judging from the spirit shown by the leading powers, any hope for peace in the immediate future seems to be premature.

UNDER CONTROL

The Chicago stockyards have reported that owing to the prompt and efficient system of disinfection adopted, they are ready to resume business on a normal basis. It will be remembered that, for the first time during their existence they were closed some days ago as a precaution against the foot and mouth disease. Reports from the various states also indicate that the disease has been checked and that the ultimate loss will not be as great as was anticipated. This is all the more gratifying owing to the oft-mentioned charge that the pest got a strong footing owing to the carelessness of some state officials. The cattle scourge, for a time, threatened to wipe out the profits arising from good crops, and its abatement will be noted with relief in the agricultural sections. Because of the experience gained so dearly it is doubtful if the disease will again get such a hold in this country.

How many looked at the falling snow yesterday without at some time connecting it with the battlefields of the old world? For some days past we have read that snow and rain had fallen in the eastern and western theatres of war and that fighting was somewhat impeded thereby. As the snow fell yesterday in a soft white sheet, one could imagine its merciful blinding of the red patches in Flanders. "Few, few shall part where many meet. The snow shall be their winding sheet."

There is a decided comfort for decent citizens in the fact that all the undesirable political methods used before the primaries were in the interest of men who were passed over by the electorate. The little revelations that are coming to light prove more and more that the people chose wisely.

The body of Lord Roberts now rests in St. Paul's beside that of the Duke of Wellington. Even the most loyal German may hope that their rest will never be disturbed by a Zeppelin bomb. They have earned their sleep.

Violent fighting goes on within a two-hour motor ride of the gates of Paris. Still, it's a long, long way to Paris. If you doubt it, ask the Kaiser.

If the voters at the city election will only show as good judgment as they did at the primaries Lowell will have reason to rejoice at the result.

Where are the leaves of yesterday? Look up, Lowell.

Always be as pleasant as you looked when you had your picture taken.

There was a time when early to bed made a man wise. But nowadays the man who hits the hay too early doesn't get wise to much.

The man whose head is so swelled that he knows he leaves little to be desired is in the same class as a burglar or a porch climber.

Funny how a fellow will chase about 978 flies away from the cheese on the free lunch counter and enjoy what he eats. But when he goes home if he finds a house fly on the dining room table, he begins to indignantly about fifth corners and typhoid and won't eat anything.

ADAM A FOREIGNER

A teacher was delivering among the members of her class to find out how much they really knew. She had sterling success in the case of one little shaver. Study was relaxed for a few minutes and she propounded among other questions this one:

"Who was the first man?"

The hand of the little shaver arose frantically ahead of all the others and he singled him out for the answer:

"George Washington," he declared breathlessly. "First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen." Interrupted the teacher. "The first man—don't you remember?"

"—was Adam."

"Aw well, I wasn't thinking about

foreigners," was the comment that came back.

KEEP OFF THE FARMS

During these fall days, should inclination lead you to visit the country, beware of the farms, and especially of the pastures, for there is one chance in a million, or thereabouts, that you may be the cause of spreading the hoof and mouth disease, and state authorities do not want you to take even their own health, as well as the health of the live stock of the vicinity, of course do not want to take the chance, either. So be very careful, while the scare is on. You wonder why the warning? Well, wonder no more, for it is not our warning wholly. Throughout the state the public is being warned to keep away from farms and to especially keep out of barns and pastures. That may appear to be going the limit in precaution, but the state authorities may consider that it involves upon them to go the limit in this respect to avoid going the full distance in carelessness in letting the disease get a foothold.

SKATING FOR THANKSGIVING

"Still think there will be skating Thanksgiving?" I asked my friend, the weather wise man, yesterday, when the snow and the chill in the air reminded me that he had previously made such a prophecy. Well, I haven't given up hope yet," was his reply. "You see it is growing colder and the official prognosticator says that it is going to be colder, so there you are. If it keeps down below the freezing point for a week, the smaller ponds will be skating, an inch or two of ice, I don't know as it will be safe for horse trotting on the river at that time, but I'm going to stick to my prophecy that there will be ice on the

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and your hair more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustreous, glossy, silky and soft, and look as if a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

punds on Thanksgiving day. Now you wait and see. And of course we shall have to wait in order to see. I notice, right in this connection, that Foster's prognostication is to the effect that we are now in for a few days of unseasonably cold weather, to be alleviated the latter part of the month by a warm wave that is to send the thermometer above the normal.

SULLY IN NEW YORK

A well known Lowell man recently in New York city dropped into the Royal theatre where a high class vaudeville bill is always on tap. One of the numbers on the bill was the playlet entitled "Butterbolls and Buns" by D. D. Barry, Astorson, and Walter E. Colby, and when the curtain went up on the sketch, who did he behold cast in a prominent part but Lowell's old-time favorite, Daniel Sullivan, better known here as "Our Sully" than as everybody's friend with the Huntington DeDeyn and Isabelle Fletcher stock companies at the Academy of Music. Sully said was looking as youthful and as handsome as of yore and was as clever with his comedy role as when he made them roar at the Academy. In the scene where Sully Barry, the daughter of the famous Billy Barry of the "Rising Generation," and three other clever actors. After the show the Lowell man had a pleasant chat with "Sully" during which the latter asked to be remembered to his old friends in this city. The sketch with which "Sully" is cast is after the style of "Potash and Krumpholtz" which has been running big in Boston, and we may yet see him, as we hope to on the local Keith circuit. "Sully" would certainly get a warm welcome should he appear again in this city.

HIGHLAND MARY

Ye banks, and braes, and streams around The castle of Montgomery, Green be your woods, and fair your flowers;

Your waters never drum! There simmer first unfaded her robes, And then the latest tarry; For were I took the last farewell 'O my sweet Highland Mary—'

How sweetly bloom'd the gay green hawthorn, As underneath their fragrant shade I clasp'd her to my bosom! The golden hours, on angel wings, Few ever me and death parted; For dear to me, as light and life, Was my sweet Highland Mary.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

WHO STARTED IT? It stands to reason that somebody started this fearful war that is a reproach to twentieth century civilization. But inasmuch as each of the belligerent powers has taken pains to prove, to its own satisfaction at all events, an alibi, the identity of the guilty one bids fair to be enveloped in as much mystery as that of the man who struck Billy Patterson—Fall River Globe.

A FINE CRUSADE

Health and long life to the National Health Guard! Here is a crusade in which everybody can enlist without violating any of the principles of neutrality. A war on the conditions that tend to reduce vitality and shorten life is civilization's war against the powers of ignorance and disease. The world that no grander militarism in fitting that a movement along this line should be inaugurated in the United States, the only one of the great powers of the world that is not in the habit of warring for the other form of militarism.—Springfield Union.

MINES

Here and there some ship runs across a submarine mine and goes to smash. When it is a merchant vessel, we arise in protest.

But with these fearful instruments of destruction is practised by each of the several maritime nations involved in the European war. This is a matter in which neutral nations have a most important concern.

In time of war, the waters within a specified distance from the coast are held to be territory of the belligerent power. These, it would appear, may properly be protected in any way desirable. But it is altogether another matter to extend notorious protection beyond this limit.—Boston Post.

PRESIDENT WILSON

The president of the United States for a variety of reasons is not touring the country sightseeing or making speeches. Relieved for a season from the solution of pressing domestic problems owing to adjournment of congress, he nevertheless remains vigilant and at the helm, so acute is the international situation and so important is it that the republic's foreign policy should be defined with the greatest wisdom of world conditions. "The time has come for great things. A little wisdom, a little courage and a little self-reliance," says the president, "is all that is needed to save the world. I myself has said, 'fundamentally affect the coming history of the world. He plans to be on hand when opportunity beckons'—Christian Science Monitor.

SKY IS CLEARING

The financial sky is clearing and an era of prosperity is at hand. The seasons have been during the financial depression should not be regarded when the money market is easier. The people have been shown their way to financial salvation. Careful investment in economy wherever possible and small savings, no matter how small they may be, will eventually bring prosperity in greater or less degree to all who conduct their business along these lines.—Hartford Post.

GET UP AND GET BUSY

The manufacturer who has been fabricating in Connecticut antique snuffboxes to be sold at Pompeii would better turn his attention to the making of can openers to be sold in Montana or cheap cutlery to take the place of the imported knives that the Germans no longer have time to forge. If we merely sit down and wait for the storm to blow over we shall find ourselves very cold and very wet and very hungry before the international hurricane blows itself out—and find in the end that we have been snuffing for nothing little.—New London Day.

KILL MORE THAN WARS

It is popularly supposed that the ravages of war are the most fatal of the mishaps that can happen to the human race, but cold figures show that the deaths resulting from the war are insignificant when compared with the results of earthquakes and tidal waves, and that these, as terrible as they may appear, so to speak, cause but a mere ripple over the mighty population of the world. This is shown by the following figures taken from an article in the special war issue of the Scientific American:

Terrible as are the ravages of war, they are far surpassed by some other disasters which from time to time overwhelm the human race. The Franco-Prussian war killed about 1,300,000 in seven months. The death toll of the Russo-Japanese war reached about 200,000. A single earthquake (1737 in India) has been estimated to have caused 300,000 deaths. The fatalities of the Messina earthquake in 1903 cannot have been far short of 100,000. A tidal wave in 1896 drowned 27,000 persons in Japan, causing a greater loss of life than the whole war with China in 1894. The earthquake in Japan in 1703 is said to have killed 200,000 people. The Lisbon earthquake in 1755 destroyed 50,000 human lives, while 10,000 were lost in the same year in earthquakes in Persia.

Terrible as such disasters are, they pass over the multitudes of the human population of our globe as the merest ripples on a mighty sea. The total population of the earth is somewhere about 1,800,000,000. Annually there are added to it 14,000,000 souls. Every year at least 50,000,000 are born, and 60,000,000 or 70,000,000 die. This means a daily birth rate of about 220,000, a death rate of 180,000. The daily increase in population is 40,000. In comparison with this irrefragably swelling tide, what are the greatest battles, wars or earthquakes, but almost microscopic ripples? If we imagine that the power were given to some despot to order a wholesale slaughter, and that gullions were kept busy, heaving one man every minute, night and day, this would add only three-quarters of 1 per cent to the existing death rate.

WATER SUPPLY

Is of Vital Importance to an Army—Only Running Water is Used

Suitable drinking water is of vital importance to an army, and this is only one of a multitude of problems that must be studied carefully by those who conduct a successful campaign. In the special war issue of the Scientific American there is a comprehensive article on modern military camps which gives the following description of the provisions made in regard to water:

The water of a camp is a matter of great importance. Only running water is used. In the German army the upstream water is used for drinking purposes, and the downstream water for watering horses and for bathing. Suitable signs notify the men which water is safe to drink and which may be used only for bathing. In shallow or narrow streams, basins are dug or small dams built so as to form a reservoir of ample dimensions. Stepping stones are provided to keep the water clean, as well as board protection to prevent the banks from crumbling. Basins are dug for watering horses; troughs are provided only in case of necessity, and are then propped on posts and filled by means of pumps. Pipes may be driven if water lies at a reasonable depth, in other words not more than 20 feet. Depending upon their size, these pipes will deliver from four to twenty-two gallons of water per minute. If water lies very near the surface a hole is dug and a casing (the bottom of which has been knocked out) is placed in the hole to form a basin. If the water lies at a greater depth, the basin may be formed of box sections, driven in one on top of the other.

COOLNESS SAVES HIM

DARRELL WILKINS ESCAPES DEATH BY FEW FEET IN AUTO ON WEST JEFFERSON CROSSING

MEDFORD, Nov. 20.—The coolness of Darrell Wilkins, aged 20, son of Frank D. Wilkins of Mystic Valley Parkway, saved him from death about 5:20 yesterday when the automobile he was driving skidded at the high street crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad in West Medford, stopping half over the tracks while an express train from Boston was approaching only 25 feet away.

Wilkins came down Fifth street from the boulevard to meet his father at West Medford Square. He was driving the auto through the darkness in the face of a stiff wind and rain which obscured the view of the lights on the crossing gates, which were down. When he did see them he set the brakes so hard that streams of fire shot out from the rear wheels. The road, however, was slippery, and the car shot under the gates into the north gates on the other side, then skidded completely around and half way on to the outbound track directly in the path of the rapidly moving express.

Disregarding the cries of bystanders and the cousing tender, to jump, young Wilkins threw on the self-starter of his stalled car and cleared the outbound track by a few feet just as the train shot by.

The glass front of the auto was smashed to bits when it hit the north gate. The cap on the radiator, taken off the car, was lying on the ground in the chest, but he was not seriously injured. His right hand was cut by broken glass. The gate was smashed.

EUROPEAN WAR ZONES

PREPARATION OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—To the wonderfully complete maps of the European war zones, prepared by the war offices of the belligerents, American army officers owe the detailed study they are able to make of the troop movements in Belgium and France and to some extent, upon the Austrian, Russian, and German-Russian frontiers. When despatches give the names of villages around which fighting is in progress, it is possible to turn to these maps and see at a glance the character of the country, its roads and byways with details of their construction and even to note the nature of the soil on slopes where the men will have to "dig in" to withstand the storm of rifle, machine-gun and field-piece fire.

There are yet no such maps of this country. The European maps, the product of years of toil in preparation for war and those used by General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, General French, the English leader, and the German chiefs of staff, undoubtedly are far more complete than any other foreign governments have been able to obtain, showing the regions now torn by war.

With such maps at his disposal, a commander can go far in the rear of his long battle-line and yet know from moment to moment the exact nature of obstacles in any portion of the front he is facing. He could direct the places of his troops to within a few yards of any small detail or battery of guns and could order forward his heavy artillery along a certain road with entire confidence that the road would carry the huge weight. There is no trail or bypath, ditch or stone fence that is not shown.

For nearly fifteen years the United States army has been struggling in a modest way to supplement its maps of this country so they would offer, to a very modest degree at least, the aid to military operations which European commanders have at hand. The work is known as the Progress of Military Maps of the United States and officers are assigned to carry it forward in various parts of the country each year. A dual purpose is served by the assignment since the officers are given practical training in map making which would be invaluable to them in case of war.

The progress of fifteen years on the huge task is described by army officers as "unsatisfactory," outside of its educational value. To obtain adequate maps for military operations covering every possible theatre of war in this country would mean the expenditure of enormous sums of money and no provision for such an achievement ever has been made. The work is being carried forward, however, as fully as is possible under the circumstances, and whenever officers are available they go out to gather data to be added to war department maps. It is possible much attention will be given to the work at a later date and the data thus far assembled will be invaluable as indicating where to concentrate efforts and what changes are to be expected in any section from year to year.

MENDING RATTAN FURNITURE

"We have several old rattan chairs in the attic that I very much want to utilize. Can you tell me how to fix them up Marie?" and Marjorie sank back on the couch perfectly sure that the French maid would not fail her in giving the desired information.

"Old rattan chairs may be much improved unless they are broken," began Marie, "and even then they may be mended by scrubbing and rinsing, and after they are perfectly dry, dressing them with oil, as described on both the wrong and right sides, working well into the crevices. If new rattan furniture is thus oiled at first and cleaned and oiled once a year thereafter, it will last for years."

"If your 'market basket, clothes basket, or waste paper basket of willow' shows a few loose ends, put it in this solution and wipe the underside of the seat for twenty minutes in lukewarm water. Rest it on the part that is to be repaired, then turn in enough water to soak this part. The important size."

thing is to get the willow ends soft and pliable.

"When this is accomplished, the strips can be readily bent back into shape and if you push them in firmly back on the couch perfectly sure that they will stay in place when dry, as they will be sure to snap off. If you use liquid glue for mending, cover the mended joint with shellac varnish after the glue has dried."

"During damp, muggy weather glue is apt to loosen and allow the mended articles to come apart. Shellac varnish, with all, as described on both the right and left sides, working well into the crevices. If new rattan furniture is thus oiled at first and cleaned and oiled once a year thereafter, it will last for years."

NOTABLE IN THE WAR

Celebrated Places Now Prominent in the European War—Cyprus, Calais, Vistula

The National Geographic society has prepared the following facts concerning places that are figuring prominently in the news of the military operations in the European war.

Cyprus—An island in the Mediterranean, which has figured largely in the history of Europe. Mt. Olympus occupies its southern portion. Famed in antiquity for its forests, today, except for the pine woods on the summits of its high mountains, it is largely bare and treeless. From 2200 came monarchs to find timber for their fleets and from Athens and Rome men to work its rich copper mines. The Apostle Paul visited Cyprus in his first great missionary journey, and Mark went there later with Barnabas. At the division of the Roman empire, Cyprus went to the Byzantine emperors. In the 12th century England took the island and sold it to the Knight Templars, who in turn sold it to the king of Jerusalem. In 1570 the Turks sent 60,000 men against Cyprus. Nicotia, its capital, was taken after a 45-day siege, and 20,000 people were put to the sword. In 1878 England and Turkey entered into an agreement whereby Turkey retained sovereignty over the island, while England took charge of its administration. Cyprus has 15,000 square miles, from 40 to 50 miles wide, and is about 3600 square miles in area, with a fertile plain separating northern and southern mountain ranges. The island produces copper, gold, silver, asbestos, gypsum, red leather, cotton, wheat, barley, tobacco, silk and fruits. Wine is its best known product. The water supply is meagre but the climate is healthy.

Calais—An important port on the north coast of France, and only 22 miles across the Strait from Dover, England. Dover, in turn, is only 19 miles from London. Calais is 55 miles northwest of Lille. The population of the city is about 65,000. Formerly

Calais was a celebrated fortress. It is now defended by four forts, none of which is of modern construction. It also has a citadel, built 350 years ago, and a few modern batteries. The old town stands on an island, hemmed in by the canal and the harbor basin, which divide it from the extensive manufacturing quarter of St. Pierre. The city is the principal port for the transcontinental passenger traffic with England, carried on by the South-Eastern and Chatham and the Northern of France railways, and an average number of passengers carried annually was upwards of 300,000 before the present war.

Vistula river—One of the chief rivers of Europe, rising in Austria, flowing through a Russian Poland, by way of Warsaw, and crossing West Prussia from south to north, and having its mouth in the Gulf of Danzig. At Thorn, where it crosses the Russian-German frontier, there are heavy fortifications, as there are at many other points from there to the gulf.

Bromberg—A city in northeastern Germany, in the Province of Posen, seven miles west of the Vistula river and the west Prussian boundary. It is located on the Bromberg canal, which connects the Brda and the Netze rivers and thus establishes communication between the Vistula, the Oder and the Elbe. The population of Bromberg is about 60,000. Its industries are principally iron works, machine shops, paper factories and flour mills.

Termonde—A Belgian city, also known as Dendermonde, 15 miles southwest of Antwerp, on the Dender river near its juncture with the Scheldt. The town is known in history because of the drastic action of its inhabitants in 1567 in repelling Louis XIV. As he approached the town the citizens opened the dikes and flooded the country and Louis was compelled to beat a hasty retreat.

Termonde is one of the five fortified places in Belgium. Its fortifications are old, consisting of two forts and a walled city.

Memel—The northernmost town in the German empire, with the exception of the village of Nimmegart, on a small sound connecting the Kurisches Haff with the Baltic sea and 75 miles by air-line east of north of Königsberg. The town is but nine miles from the Russian border. The town was the most popular weapon of the ancient enemies of the town—the Lithuanians and Poles, burning it repeatedly during the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries. Its last fire, which has necessitated a rebuilding of the greater portion of the town, occurred in 1853. A citadel and other fortifications protect Memel on the side next to the sea. It has a large trade in timber, grain and fish, manufactures iron ware, beer, spirits, soap, chemicals and amber wares, and builds ships. It has a population of about 23,000.

Piotrkow—The capital of a government of the same name in Russian Poland, 50 miles southwest of Warsaw by rail, 57 miles from the Prussian border and six miles west of the River Pilica. In the 15th and 16th centuries the diets of the kingdom of Poland used to meet here and it was here that many of the Polish kings were elected. Piotrkow is one of the oldest towns in Poland. Its military church was formerly a castle built by Coligny the Great in the 14th century.

Kars—A strongly fortified town of about 22,000 inhabitants in Russian Armenia.

Armenia: 40 miles from the Turkish border and 115 miles southwest of Tiflis, on the Arpaçhats river. Located in a fertile and well-cultivated plain, it was formerly a flourishing town, but the Russian-Turkish wars of 1823, 1855 and 1877 laid a heavy hand on it, destroying its trade and robbing it of its wealthiest and most industrious inhabitants. It was ceded to Russia in 1878. The citadel of Kars is built of unheated stone.

Khorasan—A north central province of Persia, forming part of the great Iranian plateau, and separated by mountains from the Russian Transcaspian province. Barren sand-wastes alternate with many fertile valleys throughout the province. The capital is Meshed and the next important city is Nushapur. Carpets manufactured there are among the finest of Persia. Wheat, rice, tobacco, cotton and hemp about 22,000 inhabitants in Russian Armenia.

ENGLISH SUBMARINE E-9 APPROACHES IN DARING EXPLOITS OF GERMAN U-9

SKETCH OF E-9 TORPEDOING GERMAN DESTROYER
Lt. Com. MAX K. HORTON

Lieutenant Commander Max K. Horton has won recognition in England for his exploits with his submarine E-9. In daring, if not in actual damage accomplished, this British submarine has nearly equaled the German submarine U-9, which sank several English warships in the North sea. Commander Horton on Sept. 13 sank the German cruiser Hela under the guns of Heligoland. Within a month later he sank the German destroyer S-126 at the mouth of the Ems. She was sent to the bottom in three minutes. The accompanying illustration shows Commander Horton and a sketch of his latest exploit drawn from a rough sketch made by a sailor on his submarine. This drawing shows the periscope of the submarine through which the crew under the water could witness the destruction of the destroyer.

R. H. LONG FACTORY SHOE STORE 143 CENTRAL STREET OPP. TALBOT CLOTHING CO.

(Sometimes called Mechlin) had 60,000 inhabitants and was an important art and manufacturing center. St. Rembold cathedral, one of the most interesting medieval church buildings in Europe, dating back to the 15th century, contained an altar piece which was one of Van Dyke's masterpieces. St. John's church and the Church of Our Lady contained paintings of Rubens. The historic Palace of Justice was once the home of Margaret of Austria.

Malines, which lay in the course of the German army as it moved from Brussels to Antwerp, has, like most ancient cities, narrow streets. The main traveled street, along which nearly all traffic moves in passing northward toward Antwerp, is scarcely 30 feet wide from curb to curb, and has many turns in it, which made the progress of an enemy exceedingly difficult.

Stone and brick business houses and residences three or four stories high, built in a continuous line, stood along this street. Many of these were battered down completely by the German artillery, and the debris filled the street so completely that only enough has been cleared away in places to permit the passage of a single automobile.

Soldiers Use Habitable Houses
Where fire did not spread to the wrecked buildings, the ruined stocks of merchants and the broken furniture of their living apartments in the upper stories may still be seen. Such food supplies as were useful for the army were taken by the German officers, and soldiers are billeted in the houses which are still fit for habitation.

Malines is intersected by several arms of the river Dyle, and is practically surrounded by a canal and a wide boulevard. Visitors entering the city from the south are challenged by German soldiers standing guard at the canal bridge, and are again stopped as they enter the great medieval square which forms the entrance to the main portion of the old city.

The historic cathedral stands in the very center of the town, in a sort of triangle. Its tower, at least 300 feet high, evidently was a target for the German artillery, whose aim was not sharp enough to bring down the massive Gothic pile of stone. Corners of the tower were chipped by shells, but the foundations and walls suffered no serious damage.

However, the main portion of the church was less fortunate. It stands in such a way that it presented its entire south side as a target for the approaching army. All the windows were shattered, the south wall was hopelessly shattered, so battered, in fact, that it was feared the entire main portion of the building must be torn down. All the furnishings of the cathedral were buried in the crushed tile, stone and mortar from the damaged roof and walls.

Factories along the river and the canal shared the same fate as residences, business houses and churches. The great railway shops were ruined. Hat factories, tapestry factories, woolen mills and starch factories, which furnished employment to thousands were wrecked by artillery fire.

Trenches in the sandy heet fields which flank the highways leading into Malines and thousands of rifle pits show how stubbornly the Belgians resisted the Germans. Many of the trenches are so long they resemble drainage ditches. They are from three to five feet deep and about three feet wide. In many places they are covered with planks and timbers, upon which brush and earth were piled to afford protection against shells.

The towns of beautiful elms which lined the highway were torn and shattered by the rain of bullets and shell. Where the trees were obstacles to artillery fire they were cut down and used as shelter by the soldiers. Hedges were mowed down by the German guns wherever they afforded a screen for the Belgians. The small fields, none of which contains more than 10 acres, where the crops were not burned out by the entraining army, were so trampled over by the rival forces that little remains of the potatoes, beets and cabbage which would have sustained Belgium this winter.

Pastures suffered as badly as the cultivated lands, and the beautiful Holstein cows, which afforded Belgium's milk and cheese supply, have nearly all been driven away by the German army. A few horses unfit for work remain in the fields, and the faithful dogs, which are harnessed beneath the high two-wheeled carts of the peasants, are about the only domestic animals left.

It is no uncommon sight to see a family of refugees on the Malines road with their bedding, a few household utensils and children too young to walk, loaded on one of these carts, pushed by a tired mother, assisted by the dog tugging patiently at the axle.

French army, who tells the following incidents:

It has just been discovered that the spies who kept the army of the famous Gen. von Kluck informed were using a very old way of proceeding, very romantic indeed, that of the gipsies, the vagabonds and the tramps, who, as a means of corresponding with each other, draw varied figures on the walls of the farms and houses along the road.

One thinks he is looking at the articles drawings of a child, while these awkward lines have a precise significance, and the smallest detail is full of meaning. Moreover, the German spies have lately copied a burglar's trick, and this is how:

On the walls are seen some simple drawings, which do not attract attention, and before which no one would stop. The design, for instance, represents a cow, the face is artlessly drawn however, easily discernible. Sometimes the cows are of small dimensions, or medium, or very big. Some are looking one way, some another. Certain of them have the head raised toward the sky.

These cows were drawn by the scouts. A small cow meant that the road was poorly guarded; a bigger one that there were French troops in the neighborhood; and a still bigger cow that a fort or some important work of defense was to be found nearby.

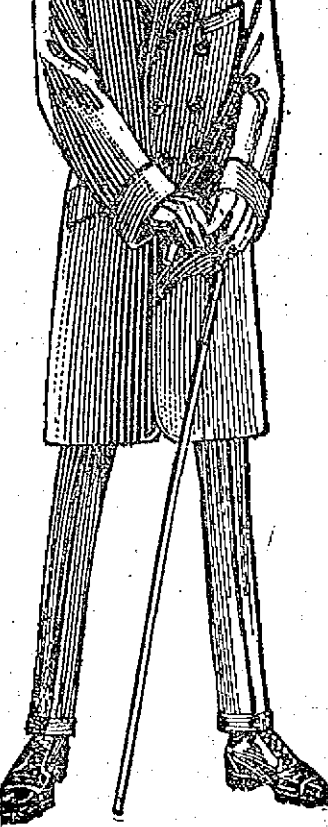

To render the information more precise, the orientation of the cow's head gave indications as to the dangerous spots to be avoided, or to be watched. As for the cows looking toward the sky, their meaning was that before advancing any farther it was necessary to explore the surrounding country.

FOUND IN THE BALLOT BOX
"What do you mean?" demanded the woman watcher at the polls.
"What's wrong?"
"I hear you have been throwing out the ballots of women."

"We have not. We did throw out a recipe for sponge cake, a package of powder, papers and a couple of ivory letters," Judge.

A GREAT SPY SYSTEM

INNOCENT LOOKING SKETCHES OF COWS ARE FULL OF SIGNIFICANCE—SYSTEM DISCLOSED

One of the surprising features of the war is the elaborate and extensive spy system that has been disclosed, particularly on the part of the Germans. Some of the clever tricks practiced by these parties is told in the special war issue of the Scientific American of Nov. 7, in a genuine letter from the front line, written by an aldo-de-camp of the

TWELVE MEN'S LIVES HANG IN THE BALANCE

While Count Continues in Arizona on Initiative Measure to Abolish Penalty

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Twelve men's lives hang in the balance while the count continues on the initiative measure at the recent election, abolishing the death penalty. Twelve of the 14 counties give a majority of 710 against the abolition of the death penalty, the vote being 14,200 for and 15,319 against.

Execution of 11 of the convicted men is set for Dec. 15, Governor Hunt having reprieved them until after the election returns determine the people's will. One other man is under sentence of death but the date has not yet been fixed. Two more have been sentenced but one has been granted a new trial and the other's appeal is pending.

In case the measure is defeated, as the vote seems to indicate, Governor Hunt probably will reprieve all the men until after Christmas and then scatter the dates for their execution.

80 PER CENT OF EMPLOYEES MUST BE AMERICAN CITIZENS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Arizona's initiative measure providing that 80 per cent of the employees shall be American citizens in any business employing more than five persons was carried at the recent election, it was announced today.

Opponents of the measure announced that it will be attacked in the courts. The law will particularly affect railroad construction work, mining and similar lines where much common labor is employed.

THE NERVES AND THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.

You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your nearest druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

R. J. BURDETTE DEAD

NOTED HUMORIST, AUTHOR AND PREACHER DIED AT HIS HOME IN PASADENA, CAL.

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Dr. Robert J. Burdette, preacher, author and humorist, died at his home here yesterday afternoon.

He had been ill for the greater part of two years, and for the last week has been in a state of coma. He was 70 years old.

Robert J. Burdette began cultivating good humor obscurely in Peoria, Ill., 40 years ago when he spent part of his days at a desk on the Peoria Transcript "trying to think," as he himself once related, "of pleasant things to tell the folks when I went home at night."

His audience of "folks" then was Charlie Garrett, the Peoria girl he had married a short time before, while she lay supposedly on her death bed, but who lived, and, though an invalid for life, became immortalized by his "and as 'Till Little Serene Happiness'" which was the one who encouraged him to write his humor in wider fields.

At her bedside Burdette became prolific with fun-making contributions to the Burlington, Ia., Hawkeye, and through these he became famous the country over as "The Burlington Hawkeye Man."

The little invalid wife encouraged him, too, to try the lecture field.

"I kept me at it," said Burdette, "and in due time we had a lecture on our hands—'The Rise and Fall of the Monarchs.'" Burdette insisted on trying to lecture first in Keokuk—"for Keokuk hated Burlington!" and if he succeeded there he would know that it was good. Even Keokuk applauded. The whole United States later did the same. He became a sort of itinerant preacher.

At 65, ten years later, Mr. Burdette was called to the permanent pastorate of the Temple Baptist church of Los Angeles, California.

Although Burdette's original home was in Greensboro, Pa., where he was born in 1844—the latter part of his life was spent in California. At Sun Valley, Calif., Pasadena, he had a spacious house with broad verandas. His first wife had died after 15 years of encouragement to him, during which she had traveled all over the country with him. In 1879 he married Mrs. Clara D. Palmer of Pasadena.

A fugitive instance of Burdette's rollicking humor was a letter home to his flock in Los Angeles during his first trip to Europe. He dated the letter from "some distance out in the dump," and said in part:

"The scenery along this route, although somewhat monotonous, is splendidly irrigated. But it seems too early for the growing crops. Nothing has come up yet, except on shipboard, and that has gone overboard. The route is not nearly so populous as the Santa Fe trail over the desert. We have just two kinds of wayside days we see a ship and the days we don't."

The veteran humorist found fun in everything. While he was forced to abandon it in the pulpit largely because of the reputation he had made for fun-making, he agreed with Henry Ward Beecher that a joke in the pulpit was not at all out of place. It was, as Beecher said, "When you are fighting the devil, shoot him with anything."

Burdette died with the conviction that there was not only just as much fun in the world today as ever, but "a great deal more—because," as he said, "there are more people in it, and people are the funniest things on this side of the grave."

LOWELL BOY BOXED A DRAW

WITH TOMMY McFARLAND AT LAWRENCE

Charlie Sheppard of Lowell went to Lawrence last evening accompanied by his manager, Frank Murphy, and a number of Lowell fans and fought a ten round draw with Tommy McFarland of Boston at the Unity Cycle club. Sheppard weighed in at 125½ pounds and McFarland tipped the beam at 140, but in spite of this fact the local wildwind had a shade on his heavier opponent and should have been awarded the decision. Sheppard put up a great exhibition and his work was well appreciated. In the eighth round he and McFarland in bad shape and Charlie tried hard to slip over a counter. In the ninth and tenth rounds the Lowell boxer landed at will and when the bout was called a draw Sheppard and his admirers were greatly disappointed. Two weeks from last night Sheppard will tackle Jack Mansfield at the Lawrence club and a large number of local sports plan to take in the show.

At 8 o'clock this morning 2051 miles and five laps, three miles and nine laps more than the record, had been registered by the eight leading teams composed of Clark and Root, Lawson and Drobach, Cameron and Kallier, Lawrence and Marj, Moran and McNamara, Gould and Grenda, Fogler and Hill, and Egg and Verri. Walthour and Halstead were a lap behind. Thomas and Hanley had made 2051 miles, two laps; Mitten and Anderson had 2051 miles to their credit and Pierrey and Hansen had gone 2050 miles, 4 laps.

The record for the 10th hour had been set by Ryan and Hill last year.

CAMERON IS SENTENCED

ARRESTED FOR NON-SUPPORT AND BIGAMY—WIFE NO. 2 HAD WIFE NO. 2 ARRESTED

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The marital mix-up of former United States Deputy Marshal Donald Cameron, charged with non-support and bigamy, reached a dramatic climax in the Roxbury district court yesterday when wife No. 1 had wife No. 2 arrested in the court room.

The two Mrs. Camerons, however, showed perfect unanimity in one respect: they both refused to speak to their unhappy husband.

Cameron was sentenced by Judge Ahern to serve a year in the house of correction for neglecting Mrs. Cameron on No. 1 and her seven children, who live at 13 Highland avenue, Roxbury. His attorney, A. R. V. Hill, thereupon asked that the bigamy charge against him be dismissed, and the court agreed.

Immediately Special Officer Frank V. Sullivan of the Roxbury Crossing station, who had originally caught Cameron under the bed of wife No. 2, otherwise known as Melina Beaudry, in Lawrence a few days ago, arrested Cameron on two warrants sworn out by the first Mrs. Cameron in Lawrence, charging him with bigamy and another offense, and also arrested the second Mrs. Cameron on a Lawrence warrant on a statutory charge.

Cameron calmly admitted his marriage to the Beaudry woman, whose name was first linked with his when she was his star witness in the successful prosecution of an important "white slave" case some time ago. He said he had not supported his original family because he was out of work.

With her husband under sentence, the first Mrs. Cameron will, according to law, get 50 cents for every day that he is confined.

SAYS GERMAN ATTACKS HAVE CEASED—ALLIES MAKE PROGRESS AT SEVERAL POINTS

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The French official communication, issued this afternoon says that yesterday there were hardly any infantry attacks on the part of the enemy and that their artillery activities also were largely reduced.

The text of the communication follows:

"The day of Nov. 19 was marked by the almost total absence of infantry attacks on the part of the enemy; at the same time their artillery fire was much less violent than on the afternoon of Nov. 18.

"To the north the weather has been very bad and snow has fallen. All the region of the Yser canal to the east of Dixmude is invaded by the waters. In front of Hammelewe we have withdrawn from the water two 165 centimetres abandoned by the Germans.

"There has been a very fairly intense artillery fire to the south of Ypres.

"On the center there has been no important action to report.

"On our right wing the Germans have recaptured the destroyed section of Chauvencourt. Further to the east we have made some progress."

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SWINDLED CROWN LAND LUMBER MEN, SAYS ROYAL COMMISSION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 20.—The royal commission, which investigated charges that $71,000 was extorted by government officials from the holders of crown land lumber licenses found that $71,000 had been extorted from the lumbermen was obtained by extortion, according to the report of the commission made public last night.

"Having in view the testimony given by the different contributors," says the report, "the only conclusion that seems possible to us is that the money was actually extorted."

The charges, which were made in the New Brunswick legislature by L. A. Plouffe, a member of the Province, as responsible for the alleged extortion. The premier was also accused of the diversion of money in connection with the construction of the St. John Valley railway.

The report says the commission does not find evidence "to prove that Fleming personally directed the extortion." It finds that Mr. Fleming named the treasurer of the so-called "extortion fund," E. R. Teed of Woodstock, that he lent the fund was being raised and that from that time money was coming into Mr. Teed's hands. The report says it was shown that the money was extorted by W. H. Berry, superintendent of sealers, and that Fleming "acquiesced in the collection of such money at a time and from a source highly improper."

ENJOYABLE WHIST PARTY

IN AID OF ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH AT RESIDENCE OF MRS. D. J. COONEY

Despite the inclement weather a large crowd of people of St. Margaret's parish gathered last evening at the home of Mrs. D. J. Cooney, 619 Westford street, to participate in a delightful whist party in aid of the church. The affair was in every sense a success, reflecting careful management and attention to detail. The whist playing was only incidental to the great spirit of the cordial enjoyment which was notable for the cordial enjoyment displayed. In the warmth and good cheer of the gathering the sleet and rain of the world outside were forgotten.

Whist, both auction and progressive, was enjoyed from 8.30 to 10.30. Fifty tables were given over to progressive whist. The winners of the prizes, which were donated by friends, were: First ladies' prize, auction bridge: Mrs. John H. Donnelly; second, Mrs. Peter F. Conaton. The ladies who won prizes for progressive whist were: Mrs. Charles P. McCarthy; Mrs. George Allard. The winners of the gentlemen's prizes were: First, Mr. Richard Mower and second, Mr. George P. Greene.

Following the whist a most enjoyable concert was given. There was a piano selection by Mrs. Louis X. O'Leary and songs by Miss Katherine V. Hennessy, Miss Anna Latham and others. The affair which was in charge of Mrs. John M. Murphy and Mrs. Dennis J. Cooney, reflected credit on all concerned.

LOOK FOR SIEGEL VERDICT

COUNSEL EXPECT DECISION WILL BE REACHED BY THANKSGIVING DAY

GENESE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Counsel for both sides in the case of the people against Henry Siegel, former banker and merchant now on trial here charged with grand larceny are hopeful that a verdict may be obtained by Thanksgiving day. The prosecution today had expected the closing of the case before night and counsel for Siegel expect the presentation of the case of the defense will require not more than two days. The defense purposes to call a number of prominent New York and Chicago men as character witnesses.

Continuation of the examination of Oscar A. Prall, Siegel's confidential secretary today was to be followed by calling to the stand, John S. Alexander, president of the National bank of commerce of New York. It was expected that Mr. Alexander's testimony would conclude the case for the prosecution. Although an unwilling witness, Prall's testimony yesterday was regarded as the most damaging to the defendant yet introduced by the people. He testified to a series of irregularities intended to deceive prospective investors, including padded inventories and false credit statements, which he swore Siegel signed with full knowledge of their falsity.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

A hard season in the shoe trade is predicted after the first of the year.

Tom Higgins says that the Pattee Club came through with flying colors.

The employees of the Tremont & Suffolk blanket room still continue to enjoy steady work.

Joseph Ashton of the Mule Spinners union is still a very active worker in the interests of organized labor.

Michael Corrigan of the Machinists union keeps the members in good spirits every evening with his witticisms.

Charles Curry of the New England Bunting Co. is but one of the few who wish the basketball season would start.

John Lorum, formerly employed at the J. W. Barry Shoe Co., thinks well of his new position with the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co.

John Cassidy of the American Hide & Leather Co. has the makings of a champion roller skater, and should stick to the sport.

Joseph Stowell of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. is being congratulated by his many friends on his approaching marriage.

The Matthew Temperance Institute will conduct the fourth of a series of ladies' nights tonight at the society headquarters in Central street.

It is said that if some of the mills would substitute their antiquated machinery with the latest in this line, business might pan out a little better.

Edward Murphy, James Corbett, Willie Noland and Joseph Hoey, employees of the Bay State mills, have decided to keep their camp at Silver Lake open throughout the winter months.

Bill Barry of the Hartford-Bigelow Carpet Co. wins the distinction of being the best crib player at the Y. M. C. I. rooms, defeating Mike Moran of the Massachusetts mills.

Charles Farrell's duties as secretary of the Manufacturers' Bowling league must have impaired his bowling eye. We don't see his name at the top of the list.

Clarence Spaulding of the Field Lumbering Shoe Co. gives promise of developing into quite an alley artist. Clarence is rolling well above the line.

Alton Blake of the A. G. Pollard Co. will in all probability be seen in basketball this coming season. Alton is a tall, rangy fellow and has played center on some fast teams.

Bennie Parsons of the U. S. Robbin & Shutte Co. will have to fish through the ice, now that winter is upon us, but this shouldn't worry him. He's done it before.

Many employees of the American Hide & Leather company will attend the lecture and concert in Associate hall next Sunday evening in celebration of the Manchester martyrs under the auspices of the Allen, Larkin and O'Brien club. The concert program promises to be a rouser.

The friends of Jimmie Liston, the speedy little halfback of the local high school team, who during the summer was employed at the U. S. Bunting Co., should feel exceptionally proud of him. This boy has been one of the mainstays of the local eleven all through the season, and his work was mainly instrumental in defeating Nashua high Wednesday afternoon. Watch him next year.

Machinists' Union Held Smoker

The Machinists' union held a largely attended meeting last evening in the union headquarters in Middle street, followed by a "smoker," which proved quite enjoyable. President Walter Phelps presided at the business session and called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Quite a list of routine business was disposed of and seven members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. Cigars and refreshments were then passed, and a carefully arranged musical program was carried out. Messrs. Bedouir and Lescault played several duets on the piano and were given a grand reception. The remaining musical numbers were contributed by the members of the organization, and interesting remarks were made by the officers. The evening's festivities closed with the members listening to the secretary's report, which showed the union to be in a flourishing condition both financially and numerically.

Meeting Postponed

Owing to the inclement weather, the meeting and entertainment scheduled by the Boot & Shoe Workers' union for last night was called off. The meeting has been held in Hartford hall, and a goodly number of members of the union put in appearance, but Organizer Daniel E. Whalen, who has by hard work built up a strong organization in this city, did not deem it advisable to hold the meeting without the full complement of members present. By calling off the meeting, Mr. Whalen suffered quite a loss in money, as he had widely advertised the affair. The talent who were to contribute to the entertainment were also in attendance, but acquiesced to the wishes of Mr. Whalen, and offered their services for the next meeting, which promises to be a rouser. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

A. G. Pollard E. M. H. A.

The A. G. Pollard Employees Mutual Benefit association meeting which was to have been held in the shoe department after work last evening was postponed owing to bad weather. The meeting was called to take action on the dancing party which is an annual event conducted by the association. Another meeting will be called at an early date, and it is to be hoped that the members will forego their hunger for a few brief minutes and show by their attendance that they are willing to take an active part in making the affair an unprecedented success.

J. L. Chaffoux Bowling Tournament

The clerks of the J. L. Chaffoux store will assemble at one of the local alleys tonight and witness the second games on the store bowling tournament. Most of the teams have been undergoing secret practice and exceptional scores are sure to be recorded. Bill Soucier, captain of the gent's furnishing team, who has been the league's most consistent bowler to date, will have to look to his laurels. It is said, as quite a few of the members of other teams are looking for his scalp. Whether they get it remains to be seen. Mr. Morton Walker, as usual, has charge of the arrangements. During the evening refreshments will be served to the tired bowlers and spectators alike, and the evening spent promises to be very enjoyable.

Domestic and Imported

Attention has been called to the fact that there is a vast deal of mis-information relative to the value of domestic and imported fabrics prevalent throughout the country. This matter has been discussed at greater or less length in previous issues of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, and comparisons of fabrics have been made at various times, conclusively proving that the products of our domestic mills are frequently of greater intrinsic worth than those manufactured abroad. In years past it is quite probable that there was a legitimate reason for this belief, as the industry was in a state of development and could not be expected to have attained the same degree of skill as in countries where woolen manufacturing has been carried on for many generations.

In more recent years, however, the domestic manufacturer has become more expert in fabric construction, as well as in the manipulation of raw materials, and at the present time is capable of producing fabrics equal to those made in any manufacturing country in the world. The responsibility for the continuance of the fallacy that imported goods are superior to those manufactured in our own country may be laid at the door of the retailer almost entirely. It is customary to feature imported goods and to demand for them prices far higher than could be obtained for similar goods of domestic manufacture, even though our own goods are of greater intrinsic worth.

In past years our tariff laws have been such that it was impossible to profitably import medium and low grade fabrics, and as a result the imported fabrics shown were of distinctly high type. For this reason the majority of the consuming public has become imbued with the idea that nothing but high grade fabrics were manufactured by foreign mills.

This is a very much mistaken idea, the foreign manufacturer being particularly efficient in the production of woollens containing a minimum of wool. A proof of this contention may be found in the fact that England and the continent are the best markets in the world for rags and by-products suitable for manufacturing into woollen goods. At the present time, when importations of woollens are very much lessened because of war conditions abroad, it would seem that a concerted effort to do away with this false impression as to relative values might be productive of excellent results.

It must be evident to every one who examines the offerings of our tailoring establishments and department stores that vast quantities of merchandise represented as the products of foreign looms are really of domestic origin, or that the figures furnished by the government as to the value of imports are of but little worth. Statistics show that really imported fabrics are marketed in rather limited quantities to a restricted trade, while if we are to believe the statements of the retailer, a considerable part of his stock consists of goods manufactured abroad. The most recent statistics available show that the entire quantity of woollen and worsted fabrics imported are somewhat less than 2 per cent. of the total quantity manufactured in this country. If this is true, and there is every reason to believe that the government figures relative to these matters are accurate, there must be an enormous yardage of domestic-made goods marketed as imported.

Probably the majority of those conversant with the merchandise of domestic woollens and worsteds are familiar with the fact that greater profits can be obtained by falsely labeling domestic products as imported, and that such practices are very prevalent. We are personally cognizant of the fact that a leading English mill has manufactured thousands of pieces of men's wear fabrics having special listings, special tickets, and special methods of packaging, which have been sold to the ultimate consumer as foreign goods, while at the same time the mill was producing a superior fabric which reached the ultimate consumer at a much lower price, due to the fact that it was marketed as the product of an American mill.

BIG STIR IN WALTHAM

WALTHAM, Nov. 20.—New developments arose yesterday in regard to the insane asylum which may be erected on Trapelo road, this city. Col. Geo. H. Doty, former assistant United States treasurer at Boston and former chairman of the republican state committee, and John E. Runkle, a prominent intensive farmer, both owning large real estate near the proposed hospital, announced that unless the project is called off they will remove their residences and dispose of their property in the city. Waltham would lose about $7000 annually by such a move, as both are heavy taxpayers. The whole site of the hospital did not become known here until yesterday. The institution will be the largest of its kind in the state, and will be used for all of the insane people of the Metropolitan district. This, together with Massachusetts School for Feeble Minded, which adjoins property on which the new hospital will be erected, gives Waltham more than its share of the people, the citizens of Waltham believe.

The land on which the Sanitary commission has an option and on which it will report to the governor's council next week comprises 112 acres of the Phineas Lawrence estate on Trapelo road and the farm of Dominic Broderick adjoining it. On the other side of the road it will also take a large tract of land adjoining the school for feeble-minded.

The fact that the inmates will grow vegetables on the latter piece of land in summer will necessitate their crossing Trapelo road several times daily. As this is a thoroughfare between Boston and Worcester there is much agitation over the matter.

Mrs. Robert H. Pierson, wife of the captain of the medical corps of the United States army, has just returned to New York city after spending two years at an army post 900 miles up the Yukon river in Alaska.

GEN. VILLA ADVANCING ON CAPITAL OF MEXICO

Pressing Southward at Head of Army Eager to Fight—Villa Expected to Reach Mexico City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Pressing southward at the head of an army eager for fight after months of recuperation, General Pancho Villa will encounter little difficulty in reaching Mexico City, according to the opinion of American agents expressed in dispatches received today by Administration officials. Other reports told of the continuation of Villa's triumphant march, Queretaro, where a clash had been forecast, having been abandoned by the Carranza forces. Where they intended to make a stand was not indicated. Queretaro is the only town of strategic importance between Mexico City and Aguascalientes and it had been declared in reports from Carranza sources that Villa would have to battle there before the forces of General Obregon and Gonzalez. The city will be used by Villa, it is said, as a concentration center before the advance on Mexico City. The situation that might result from Villa's possible investment of the capital was not overlooked here today. Many foreigners still remain in Mexico City, who would be endangered if a

50-MILE GALE SWEEPED THE NEW ENGLAND COAST

High Tides Caused Considerable Damage and Tied up Traffic in Many Points—Snow in West of State—Colder Today

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A 50-mile gale swept the New England coast last night as a climax to yesterday's varied weather conditions which included snow storms, in the western parts of Massachusetts grading down to rain for Boston and vicinity. High tides, together with the unusual features, attending the storm, caused considerable damage, and tied up traffic at many points. In many places real winter was experienced. Snow more than three inches deep mantled Fitchburg and points west of Marlboro.

The weather man has promised that this afternoon will bring clear and colder weather, followed by a fair and moderately sunny Saturday that will bring joy to the countless thousands that are planning on seeing the climax of the football season in the great gridiron battles which will be staged in the Yale bowl and Fenway park. All along the coast line south of Maine, the higher temperatures brought driving rain on the howling wind which came out of the northeast at a maximum rate of 60 miles an hour.

Early in the day storm signals were called out from Hatteras to Boston, and as the storm swept up the Atlantic seaboard from Hatteras this warning was extended to Eastport, Me., where a regular blizzard was raging last night. At Plymouth a terrific 50-mile

Russians Outnumbered Germans at Tannenberg but Kaiser's Troops Won Notable Victory

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (via London).—"The Russians have numbers on their side, but numbers alone are not the decisive factors. In the present stage of the war less than ever before we are not afraid of Russian numerical superiority. At Tannenberg, the Russians outnumbered us three to one, yet the result was a notable German victory." These are the views of General Von Hindenburg, now facing the great Russian war machine as expressed in conversation with the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Preussische Presse. "The Russians," continued General Von Hindenburg, "are good soldiers and observe discipline but discipline of another sort than that of the Austro-

RIDE ON DEER'S BACK SWINDLED HIS PARTNER

SPRINGFIELD HUNTER HAD EXPERIENCE THAT SAVED BIG BUCK

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 20.—David J. Downey of this city telephoned to friends here yesterday that he had had a wild ride on the back of a big buck while hunting deer. In company with Otto Rein, also of this city, Downey had stopped for lunch in a small clearing near West Warren. Rein picked up his gun and walked into the brush, saying that he heard a deer. Suddenly a shot rang out and within a minute a large buck came charging through the clearing, plunging to the ground in front of Downey. Believing it dead, he leaped on its back, shouting to Rein to hurry and cut the animal's throat. The buck, however, was far from dead, and leaped to its feet again, bearing Downey.

PADDED INVENTORIES TO DECEIVE INVESTORS, SAYS PRIVATE SECRETARY

GENESEE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Frank E. Vogel, the dead partner of Henry Siegel, was a victim of the latter's duplicity, according to the testimony of Oscar A. Paul, Siegel's former confidential agent, at the continuation of the trial of the former banker-merchant on a grand larceny charge here yesterday. Paul appeared to be an unwilling witness and was under severe nervous strain while on the witness stand. Siegel, the witness declared, was at times in close touch with the business conditions of the various branches of the Siegel Stores Corporation. Inventories were padded by the defendant to the extent of $300,000 to deceive prospective investors, he said, and Frank E. Vogel was himself deceived by them.

A Display of Ladies' Coats

The like of which you never saw before in Lowell and probably can never be made again by the

Merrimack Clothing Company

An Entire Window Front

Devoted exclusively to coats and everyone different and at such attractive prices and such captivating styles there is nothing left for the eye or the pocketbook to want. You simply can't afford to miss it, and the display isn't half what you can find inside our elegant Ladies' Dept. Prices to fit the leanest and the wealthiest pocketbooks in Lowell, and the additional incentive, no one else can have a garment like yours.

PRICES FROM $8.75 to $50.00

O'Sullivan Says:

It looks now as though Umbrellas and Raincoats would be the most interesting items to talk about today—we have them in plenty.

The truth is we had installed a window dress, beginning with the Boys' window on Worthen street, with everything for boys' wear except shoes that you can think of. Next comes the window devoted to Men's Furnishings and Sweets, the prices marked to indicate a number of special drives from this active department.

We now take the immense front on Merrimack street, devoted to a display of Men's Winter Suits and Overcoats, the prices ranging on coats from $15.00 to $35.00, and suits from $15.00 to $25.00, and it isn't the prices that'll appeal so fondly to you as the styles, colorings and values they indicate.

The men of Lowell who have a thought of buying clothing in their mind should visit this magnificent clothing display.

Keep uppermost in your mind, here is clothing that was made in Massachusetts by Boston labor, who for all we know may be wearing goods made in Lowell. This is an age of reciprocity; there is no need of going outside of Massachusetts to get good clothing especially when you get goods like A. Shuman & Co.'s of Boston in a store like the Merrimack Clothing Co., and at prices lower than you can actually buy them in Boston for—on account of consideration of rent and other things. I have told you the story; it's up to you to patronize home industry or not, but look the goods over anyway before you purchase.

BLIZZARD IN PORTLAND

Wind Piles the Snow Up and Cars Are Operated With Much Difficulty in Some Branches

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 20.—The first snowstorm of the season began about 6 o'clock last night after a light rain and at midnight had become almost a blizzard. The electric lines are still running, but with considerable difficulty on some of the branches. There has been a very heavy fall of snow and the wind is drifting badly. Many telephones are out of commission.

FISHING SCHOONERS

Four Torn From Their Anchorages During Gale and Driven Ashore at Provincetown

PROVINCETOWN, Nov. 20.—Four fishing schooners, the Matthew Grier, Natalie Nelson, Rosa Dorothea and Rebecca were torn from their anchorages during the gale early today and driven ashore on the west side of the harbor. The Rebecca had her stern smashed, but the other three were not damaged and it is expected that they will be floated at high water this afternoon.

The gale last night on the end of the cape was the hardest since last spring and other fishermen had difficulty in holding on to their ground tackle.

TEN INCHES OF SNOW

At Gloversville, N. Y.—Farmers in Outlying Districts "Came to Town" on Sleds

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Farmers in the outlying districts came to town today on sleds through ten inches of snow. The storm which had apparently ceased early in the morning began again at 8 o'clock.

CAUGHT IN STORM

On Second Attempt Captain and Crew of Five Men Succeeded in Reaching Shore

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., Nov. 20.—On their second attempt, Captain George L. Hardy of Deer Isle and crew of four men of the three-masted schooner Paula and Fay, which during last night's blizzard was anchored between two dangerous shoals, a mile off Kennebunkport, succeeded in reaching shore today, with the aid of a motorboat from here.

After a night when every man aboard thought would be his last, the five men put off in their yawl, which was half filled with water while being launched. They were unable to make headway in the heavy seas and against the tide and, finding they were being carried to sea, returned to the schooner.

Later they started out again and when a short distance from the schooner were taken in tow by Harry Chapman, who went to their assistance with a motorboat, and were safely towed to port.

COLDEST IN 40 YEARS

Present Cold Wave and Storm Forced Temperatures Down to New Record Marks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The cold wave with some snow which has swept rapidly down from the northwest and spread over the South Atlantic states from Virginia to Florida has forced temperatures to the lowest recorded in November in 40 years. Weather bureau officials predicted killing frost and freezing temperatures would extend as far south on the coast as Palm Beach.

The cold also extends northwest from Florida through the Ohio valley and over the plains states. The wave has moved southeasterly and will be dissipated in a few days.

A storm originating off the Carolina coast Wednesday morning has extended to New England and caused gales and heavy snow in the interior of New England and northern New York.

Snow is predicted to continue in New England and along the Great Lakes tonight.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A new archdiocesan work is soon to be started by Cardinal O'Connell. It is his intention to provide quarters for aged women who wish to spend their remaining days in a congenial and religious atmosphere.

For this purpose, the buildings formerly used as the St. Elizabeth's hospital, situated on West Brookline street, near the corner of Washington street, are being fitted up in a homelike, comfortable manner. The cardinal has appointed the Rt. Rev. Monsignor M. J. Spillane, D. D., rector of the cathedral, the superintendent of the new work. At the present time aged women who have absolutely nothing, who are penniless and destitute, are already provided for by the Home for Aged People, in charge of the Little Sisters of the Poor on Dudley street, Roxbury. Another home in Somerville and several other charitable institutions in the diocese.

But there is another class—women who have saved a little for their old age, who want a home with a certain amount of freedom and independence, and who want to pay a small amount of charity. Many women of this class have no place to spend the last of their days, yet they cannot afford to live in expensive places. For such women and for this reason a minimum amount will be charged.

It is the intention of the cardinal to open this new work very soon. The quarters will be in charge of the Sisters of St. Joseph, whose headquarters are at Brighton. Applications for entrance should be made as soon as possible to Monsignor Spillane at the cathedral rectory, as the space is limited and there has already been some demand.

GERMAN DEAD IN HEAPS

FRENCH REPORTS TELL OF TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE AND ALSO OF SUCCESS OF FRENCH SCOUTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Foreign office despatches to the French embassy here yesterday referred to great loss of life inflicted on the enemy by the allied troops, and spoke of the success of the French scouting parties in securing information of German troop movements. The despatches duplicated war office communications with the following additions:

"Supplementary information received here reveals that the last three days' fighting has resulted particularly disastrously for the adversaries as regards the execution rendered by the allies in repulsing attacks. To the east of Ypres the Germans left more than 1200 dead in a space of ground of not more than five or six hundred metres.

In the vicinity of St. Mihiel, after having made successful advances, our troops struck the flank of the enemy, forcing them to retreat. The Germans blew up the garrison of Chauvencourt with a mine. We had partially captured this town, and, resuming, we were able to force the enemy's line back on the other troops operating in that region.

"The German press has announced that a strong French attack in the region of Clercy has been repulsed. As a matter of fact, we have not engaged at that point except in reconnaissance. These reconnoitering parties, however, have been successfully conducted, and despite resistance have discovered the position and strength of the enemy."

JUDGE'S ACT QUESTIONED

Judge Morton Sent Note to Jury in Reply to an Inquiry in Suit for $750

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The right of a judge to communicate with a jury during its deliberations, without bringing it into open court and without the knowledge of counsel, is raised in a suit of James E. Lewis against Grace E. Lewis, which was argued before the full bench of the supreme court yesterday. The suit was for $750, for cash alleged to have been advanced to the defendant's husband, who was a partner of the plaintiff. Judge Morton of the superior court received a note from the jury while he was in the lobby, requesting further instructions, and he sent back a written reply without causing the jury to come into court or procuring the consent of the parties to the trial. The supreme court is asked to set aside the verdict for $501.

PARKER'S GIRL'S DEATH

EVERETT, Nov. 20.—What was the motive that impelled 15-year-old Hildred Parker to commit suicide? That was the question more widely discussed here last night than any other. The mystery which has surrounded the case is as deep as ever, although the fate of the girl was learned yesterday morning when her body was discovered in the old Coleman pits, near her home, where it had been since Saturday night.

"I know of nothing under God's heaven that would cause my girl to commit suicide," said the father, Byron M. Parker, last night. "She had a happy home, and when she left Saturday after supper she was as jovial as could be. If I could only bring Hildred back to life I would gladly give my life for her."
